CTA pushing proposal

Teachers seeking overtime pay for after-school events

A request by teachers to receive overtime pay for attending PTA meetings, parent conferences and after-school events, among other things, surfaced this week as contract negotiations throughout the valley's school districts got under way.

The proposal is part of a "master contract" advocated by the California Teachers Association for all affiliates in the state.

A local educator called it a "labor document, not an educational proposal, one that sets up adversary relationships between the parents and the teachers."

And a PTA official warned that the proposal, if accepted, would spell the end of parent support for teachers.

But a spokesman for valley teachers said such a contract already is in effect in Oxnard, where educators work an eight-hour day and get paid for assignments and meetings at night.

Locally, school boards are generally denying the request for now. But school administrators say they realize the issue will be coming up every year from now on.

In Claremont, the school board, in a counterproposal declared that teachers will put in 90 hours of time a year for such items as parent conference, professional growth, home visits, parent-faculty association meetings, back-to-school night programs and other things.

That amounts to two hours a week.

The master contract proposal is the result of the Rodda Act, which took effect July 1. It gives teachers full bargaining powers.

Del Pfeifer, executive director of the Association of Pomona Teachers, said every unit of the CTA was sent a model contract, along with other contracts more than six months ago. He said chapters then chose what to use in their own proposals.

A CTA proposal was submitted to the Pomona School board last March, but the proposal was tabled at that time without discussion, because board members felt it was too soon to consider it.

That proposal called for time and a half pay for non-teaching assignments during the school day and double time for assignments after classes are out. That request is now coming up for decision.

A similar proposal is before the Claremont, Ontario-Montclair and Bonita school boards.

It was Monday night's public hearing of the teachers' proposal at Bonita that brought the CTA requests to the surface.

In addition to the time and a half request for nonteaching activities, the teachers there also are seeking a reduction of classloads, as well as more teaching specialists, which, if accepted, would cost the district a one-third jump in expenses.

Supt. James Johnson said the district would have to hire 100 additional teachers to fulfill the request.

He said the proposal, if accepted, would cost the district nearly $3 million a year.

"It's a bad model," he said. "It leaves us no place to turn. It's a contract set up by labor consultants, who neither seem to understand nor care about education or children."

The teachers' demand to get overtime pay for attending PTA meetings and parent conferences also was criticized by the parents.

Mrs. Kay Borges, president of the Bonita Council PTA, said she was "not only disappointed, but disheartened" by the request.

And Mrs. Sue Moran, president of the Allen Avenue PTA said that if the board decides to pay teachers overtime for attending PTA meetings, her group would cancel them, rather than deprive the district of money needed elsewhere for the education of children.

Johnson said the proposal was "setting up an adversary situation between the parents and the children. Unfortunately, our teachers are caught in the middle. They are being told by the CTA that they should negotiate for the model contract; then they are being reprimanded by the parents for following those instructions."

Johnson said his school board has submitted a counterproposal to the teachers which provides for a two per cent pay raise and a 20 per cent increase in fringe benefits.

Will announce running mate Thursday

Carter makes it 'official' tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Carter reaches a crucial milepost on his long, once lonely journey from Georgia toward the White House when tonight he receives the Democratic presidential nomination. Not until he has that prize in hand does Carter intend to name his running mate.

Carter began this day of fulfillment by meeting a series of groups anxious to have his ear and also worked on his acceptance speech.

The third session of the Democratic National Convention is to open at 8 p.m. EDT, and sometime before midnight, during the call of the roll of delegations, Carter's vote total will top the 1,505 needed for the nomination.

With that accomplished, the nominee will call the six senators on his list of potential running mates and notify them of his choice. Carter then intends to announce his choice publicly at a news conference on Thursday.

Considered at the top of that list were Sens. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota and John Glenn of Ohio.

Also in the running were Sens. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Frank Church of Idaho and Adlai E. Stevenson III of Illinois.

Carter's choice will be ratified by the convention Thursday night just before the former Georgia governor delivers his acceptance speech.

The convention approached its climax in an atmosphere of unity with party leaders and delegates determined to do nothing to upset Carter's careful plans to win the White House, held by Republicans for nearly eight years.

Amon the meetings on Carter's schedule was one with Democratic governors. Gov. Reuben Askew of Florida, chairman of the group, said the purpose was "to try to help him in any way he feels he needs assistance rather than trying to lobby him on any particular candidate."

Carter also met with nine labor leaders for what an aide described as a "get acquainted session." After the meeting, a Carter spokesman said the union leaders urged Carter to choose Mondale as his running mate.

Carter is one of four candidates whose names will be placed before the convention tonight for the presidential nomination. The others are Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona, Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., of California and Ellen McCormack of Long Island, N.Y.

Udall doggedly but unsuccessfully pursued the nomination through the long primary campaign. Brown entered late and defeated Carter in six states, but the Georgian had the nomination all but clinched before Brown got into the race. Mrs. McCormack campaigned on an antiabortion platform.

Rep. Peter W. Rodino of New Jersey, who presided over the hearings into the impeachment of Richard M. Nixon two years ago will deliver the nominating speech for Carter. Seconding speeches will be given by Margaret Costanza, vice mayor of Rochester, N.Y., and by Rep. Andrew Young of Georgia.

Former Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox will place Udall's name in nomination. Udall has said he would release his delegates before the balloting begins.

Cesar Chavez, head of the United Farm Workers Union, will deliver the nominating speech for Brown. James M. Killilea of Boston will nominate Mrs. McCormack.

Some Massachusetts delegates wanted to place Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace's name in nomination. They circulated petitions and obtained the required signatures, but their plan was thwarted when Wallace refused to grant his permission. The convention rules require that an individual agree to having his name placed in nomination.

The Associated Press' poll of convention delegates showed Carter with 1,794 votes on the verge of the big roll call. Udall had 316.5, and Brown 281. It takes 1,505 delegates to win the nomination.

Before coming to New York Tuesday, Muskie told a news conference in Portland, Maine, it was "conceivable" he might decline the nomination if it is offered, noting he had passed up a chance to run with George McGovern on the 1972 ticket. He ran as Hubert Humphrey's vice presidential choice in 1968 when the ticket lost.

Diamond Bar man charged in beating death of wife

A 35-year-old Pacific State Hospital employe suspected of beating his psychologist wife to death in Diamond Bar in March will be arraigned on murder charges in the Valley Municipal Court in Fontana.

The case came to light Monday when Los Angeles County sheriff's homicide investigators arrested Danny Lee Dyer, 38, on murder charges at Pacific State Hospital in Pomona and booked him in the West End Jail in Ontario.

Dyer was arrested on an arrest warrant signed by a Fontana Municipal Court judge after a formal complaint was filed by the San Bernardino County District Attorney's office.

Dyer is accused in the death of his wife, Luann C. Dyer, 38, of 23559 Golden Springs Drive, Diamond Bar. Mrs. Dyer, a staff psychologist at the California Rehabilitation Center in Corona, admitted herself to Kaiser's Fontana Hospital on March 7 with severe stomach injuries. She died some 24 hours later.

According to Los Angeles County sheriff's investigators, on March 7 Mrs. Dyer called the Sheriff's Department complaining that she was beaten. When a deputy arrived at her home, she had already called an ambulance and requested transportation to Kaiser Hospital in Fontana. Deputies at the time were unable to determine whether or where Mrs. Dyer had been beaten.

When she died, a full-scale investigation was called. Deputies said it was still not known exactly where Mrs. Dyer was beaten, thus the decision on whether to prosecute was left in the hands of San Bernardino County officials.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Bill Parker said Tuesday that there was strong evidence, presented by Los Angeles sheriff's investigators and the San Bernardino County coroner's office that Mrs. Dyer was fatally beaten.

Parker said that murder charges may be brought against a person in the county in which the victim was allegedly killed or in the county in which the person died.

Los Angeles sheriff's investigators said the investigation is continuing in Los Angeles County, but more than likely the prosecution will take place in San Bernardino County.

Ford celebrates 63rd birthday; has checkup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President began his 64th year today as an underdog, slicing a birthday cake that urged him to "Give 'em Hell, Jerry."

The unnamed 'em on President Ford's cake could be Ronald Reagan or Jimmy Carter or both. Carter becomes the Democratic presidential nominee tonight and polls show he leads Ford in surveys gauging their relative popularity with voters.

Ford also took his semiannual physical today, with electrocardiogram and standard lab tests by his personal physician, Rear Adm. William Lukash, and that crimped an early birthday celebration.

The physical examination began at 8 a.m. in the White House residential quarters. It was expected to last an hour or so. Announcement of the results was expected later in the day.

Ford was the pre-game star at Tuesday night's baseball All-Star game and the celebration of his birthday began on the flight home from Philadelphia. Ford's staff brought out a birthday cake with five candles and the legend suggesting the presidential campaign of Harry Truman, an incumbent underdog who won.

Ford, confronted with the birthday cake, was reminded that he should not be eating prior to a physical exam. Turning to Lukash, Ford asked, "Couldn't it be postponed for 24 hours?" Lukash firmly shook his head in the negative.

So Ford cut the cake and passed pieces out to people on the plane. He did not eat a slice himself.

Penalizes heavy users

PUC adopts new energy price structure

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California has adopted a new price structure for household energy that penalizes heavy users and gives a break to the poor on their utility bills.

The "lifeline" formula approved 5 to 0 Tuesday by the state Public Utilities Commission cuts the cost for the minimum amount of electricity and natural gas needed to cook meals, heat and light a home, heat water and refrigerate food.

Above the minimum amounts of gas and electricity, which apply to all utility customers, the price climbs and the unit price goes up the more energy is used. Rates for lifeline amounts of energy will be frozen while rates for greater amounts will be allowed to rise until they are 25 per cent higher.

"It's a complete shift in philosophy, giving lower rates to people who use only a small amount of energy instead of granting substantial discounts to big users," PUC spokesman Eugene Raleigh explained.

"This is not a welfare measure. It applies to everyone. But the effect is to help low-income users," Raleigh said in an interview.

Two commission members said they voted for the new rate structure only because it was mandated by the 1975 California legislature.

"There is no such thing as a free lunch," said one, Vernon Sturgeon. He said a result will be that consumers will be paying more for products because of higher utility bills businesses and industries will have to pay.

"It's a cruel hoax," said the other, Wlliam Symons Jr.

The new rate formula provides for variation depending on climate and whether a home is all-electric. The PUC said up to 60 different rate arrangements are possible.

The system will be applied as the commission acts in the coming months on a series of rate increase applications from various utility companies, Raleigh said. He estimated the new formula will show up in consumer bills around November.

The new system will replace interim lifeline rates that went into effect eight months ago pending development of the new formula.

Lifeline amounts are plotted to fall short of energy used for air conditioning, domestic well pumping, washers and driers, television sets and small electric appliances.

Pomona hit by lawsuit over business tax

The state's Department of Health has filed a lawsuit against the city of Pomona charging that the city's institution of business license tax on board and care homes in the city is illegal.

The suit, filed in Los Angeles Superior Court, asks only that the city stop collecting and refund the $25 fee to those homes that have already paid the tax, said City Atty. Patrick Sampson.

The tax, being collected for the first time this year, applies to about 75 board and care facilities in the city. Most have already paid the fee, according to records in the City Clerk's Office.

Although a state law does prohibit cities from taxing for business license purposes board and care homes, Sampson claims the state's constitution supercedes the law with a guarantee that "charter cities are sovereign in all matters of municipal affairs."

Sampson said there is no doubt in his mind that "municipal affairs" includes the power to levy reasonable business license fees.

The tax would generate about $1,800 annually.

"If the state can eliminate a tax in this area, for whatever reasons, then theoretically it can also eliminate other taxing powers," said Sampson.

He said that general law cities, which would include the other cities in the valley area, could not levy such a fee because their taxing powers are limited to those areas designated through legislative action — which has never been done for board and care homes.

As an example of this difference between charter cities and general law cities, Sampson cited Pomona's utility tax, which only charter cities may levy.

Sampson said the case would probably be heard in about 60 to 90 days.

Controversial Claremont condominium given okay

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

The Claremont City Council Tuesday night by a 3-2 vote approved a tentative tract map for the controversial P. E. Howard development north of Foothill Boulevard and west of Claremont Boulevard.

Councilwomen Eleanor Cohen and Claire McDonald voted against approval because they had wanted to table the matter until July 22 after the Architectural Commission had been expected to finish its review of the proposed 16.7-acre condominium project.

Mrs. Cohen earlier had moved to table the matter, but her motion was rejected by Mayor Bertye Smith, and Councilmen Richard Newton and Frank Hungerford.

The Planning Commission June 1 had approved a conditional permit and unanimously recommended approval of the tract map.

The Architectural Commission had reviewed most of its conditions at its June 24 meeting, and had scheduled the remainder of the review at its meeting tonight.

But Mrs. Cohen pointed out that the developer was late in bringing in plans, and that the matter might not be considered by the commission tonight.

"I don't want to vote on this tonight," commented Mrs. McDonald. "It's the developer's fault that everything has not been completed."

She was joined by Mrs. Cohen who said she was concerned about the 6.7 units-per-acre density. "I had hoped that the planning Commission would lower the density," she said. "Because the development is under the Cable Airport flight pattern, it would have been better to have apartments."

Both women sided with residents to the west of the tract who don't want Blaisdell Drive as a through street into the project.

Several spoke Tuesday night, protesting the plan to link Blaisdell Drive with the tract.

Sid Hogue, 1532 Benedict Ave., said she didn't want Blaisdell Drive to go through because the planning Commission had failed to see the danger of the 90 degree turns in the streets in her subdivision, and cited several instances where city trees had been hit.

Robert Morsberger, 1530 Berea Court, recalled that 200 residents had signed a petition asking that Blaisdell Drive remain a cul-de-sac.

"Children would be endangered" by the increased traffic," Morsberger said.

Freeman Allen, 394 Blaisdell Drive, commented that the noise problem is likely to be severe.

"This is an area where you would want less density and better insulated buildings," he said. "The council should ask for a more imaginative plan."

Mayor Smith said that she had heard the Architectural Commission was satisfied with elements of the development, and as to the traffic problem on Blaisdell Drive, she told the residents: "You need some police patrol."

She directed Deputy City Manager Paul Brotzman to contact the Police Department.

She said she was pleased with the development plan, and commended the staff and commissions.

Hungerford said he doesn't know what a developer could bring in that would make everybody happy. ..He favored leaving Blaisdell open, because parents taking children to Chaparral School would need to go by Claremont and Foothill boulevards to Mills Avenue if Blaisdell were not open.

"I favor acting on this tonight," he said. "We have everything we need."

Newton agreed. "If we put this off we're not being fair to anyone," he said.

Mrs. Smith suggested adding the conditions that density cannot be transferred from one tract to another, that the ban on parking of boats, campers and trailers be included in the deed restrictions, and that any added conditions by the Architectural Commission be complied with.

The added conditions were approved.

Re-enact Harris incident at trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The judge and jurors stood to watch a prosecutor sprawl on the floor and a witness straddle him in a re-enactment of a May 1974 incident that brought wild gunfire from Patricia Hearst and a chase through the streets of Los Angeles.

Anthony Shepard, a sporting goods store clerk who was to continue his testimony today, gave the demonstration of how he tried to capture Symbionese Liberation Army member William Harris for shoplifting.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Richard Harbinger, a graying prosecutor in a blue suit, shed his jacket and played the role of the supine Harris while Shepard, a tall black man with a billowing Afro hairdo, sat on him.

Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler allowed the display in the heavily guarded bulletproof courtroom after an alternate juror expressed confusion about Harris' position during the scuffle.

Harris, his wife, Emily, and Miss Hearst are charged with kidnaping, assault and robbery.

Shepard's appearance capped an eventful first day of testimony in which store owner Carroll William Huett described Miss Hearst as the pale bewigged gunwoman who opened fire on his store. Miss Hearst has admitted she was the disguised assailant he saw.

Innocent plea in shooting

A Los Angeles policeman accused of wounding a private detective he found with his girlfriend May 10 in Rowland Heights has pleaded innocent in Pomona Superior Court.

The defendant is Victor Lee Denham, 30-year-old veteran of eight years on the Los Angeles Police Department. He entered the plea before Judge David F. Cunningham who scheduled Denham's pretrial hearing for Aug. 24 and his trial for Sept. 8. He is charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

Denham, who lives in Walnut, was arrested at his home shortly after the shooting. He surrendered without incident to sheriff's deputies and his own supervisor from Los Angeles.

The victim, Robert Lee Petrasich, 26, of Monterey Park, was wounded in the lower chest and for a time was in critical condition at County-USC Medical Center. The shooting took place at the home of Sandra Broussard, 26-year-old woman described by investigators as Denham's girlfriend. She was not injured.

Denham is free on $3,000 bail.

Truman Capote fined

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Truman Capote, the writer charged May 30 with driving while intoxicated, has been fined $165 after pleading guilty.

Capote, 51, agreed Tuesday to attend a state rehabilitation program for people who are convicted of driving under the influence of alcohol. The charges stemmed from a two-car wreck in Bridgehampton, where Capote maintains a home. No one was hurt.

The writer's attorney said if Capote had refused to attend the rehabilitation program, his driver's license would have been automatically revoked.

Landscape educators meet

One hundred twenty-five instructors of landscape architecture will attend a three-day meeting of the Council of Educators in Landscape Architecture at Cal Poly Pomona Thursday through Sunday.

The meeting is being coordinated by Stephen S. Bochkor, associate professor of landscape architecture.

The conference discussions will focus on the minimum basic courses that accredited landscape architecture schools should teach.

Staff section plans meet

All medical staff secretaries in the valley are invited to a general meeting sponsored by the Medical Staff Section of the Association of Western Hospitals on July 21.

The 6:30 p.m. dinner will be at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and reservations are requested by Thursday.

Mrs. Helen Boughton, secretary of the Medical Staff Section and executive secretary for the PVCH medical staff, said the program will stress how the medical staff secretary can help promote good public relations.

Speaker for the evening will be Lynn Rogers, director of public relations at PVCH.

Reservations can be made by calling 623-8715.

Commission seeks photos

Pomona's Centennial Commission is seeking additional historic photographs of Pomona for inclusion in its Centennial history scrapbook.

Water is Rotary topic

Lange Winckler, public information officer for the Pomona Valley Municipal Water District, will describe the valley's water problems when he talks to the La Verne Rotary Club Thursday noon.

The talk, "Water Supply in Pomona Valley — a Short(age) Story," will be given at Castaway Restaurant in Pomona.

Apartment unit to meet

James P. O'Neill, president of the Orange County Tenants Association in Fullerton, will be speaker tonight at the Apartment Association, Mt. Baldy area, monthly meeting.

The program, starting at 7:30 p.m., will be held at the Claremont library. The speaker will discuss the tenants' point of view in renting apartments and why they are organizing their own associations.

Vic Tessier, the association's attorney, will conduct his "problem" clinic.

Chino to close off divider

Work is scheduled to begin in Chino this week on closure of the Central Avenue median divider at D Street to east-west traffic.

Because of expected traffic problems near the city's new Civic Center, the decision was made not to allow east and west traffic through that intersection, said John Gerardi, acting city manager.

Persons traveling on D Street will be able to make only right turns at the corner of Central and D. The closure is in accordance with the Civic Center master plan.

Democrat platform offers all things to all people

NEW YORK (AP) — Now that Jimmy Carter has a platform applauded by Democrats as diverse as Coretta Scott King and George Wallace, there are some party figures who wonder how long he'll stand on it.

The platform, approved by Democratic National Convention delegates early today with hardly a murmur of dissent, performs the near political miracle of being all things to all people.

Carter said his supporters helped prepare the exact wording of the platform, labor leaders said they were successful in almost every item of the charter and a spokesman for the party's left said, "It's a platform which progressives in the party happily support."

Carter's supporters made sure that some platform planks contain qualifying language that falls short of an absolute commitment to proposed goals. But that didn't deter praise for the document.

Wallace, himself an unsuccessful candidate for the party's nomination, hailed the platform as a Democratic commitment to "cut the government to it's proper size," even though Carter has said his pledge to reorganize government is not a promise to reduce the size of the federal bureaucracy.

Reflecting the unity that has prevailed at the convention, Wallace shook hands on the platform podium with Mrs. King, widow of the late Martin Luther King, whose civil rights efforts put him at odds with Wallace.

Mrs. King told delegates the party's platform will make further strides in support of equal rights for all Americans.

Delegates gave their strongest applause to Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, considered a leading Carter choice for the vice presidential nomination. Muskie said the platform establishes for America "a very simple priority: let us put America back to work."

The convention made only one change in the document that was drafted by the party's platform committee in Washington in May. The change proposes legislation to ease restrictions of the Hatch Act and to allow federal workers to engage in some political activity.

Otherwise, the platform was approved as proposed, without opposition on the floor. Delegates seeking discussion of some sections, such as the platform's neutral stance on the abortion issue, were unable to win enough votes to allow debate. The abortion section says that while religious and ethical concerns about abortion are recognized, "it is undesirable to attempt to amend the U.S. Constitution to overturn the Supreme Court decision in this area."

Carter has said the platform should be "a contract with the people." But some Democrats said they question whether a Carter administration would deliver on the platform's promises.

Ben J. Wattenberg, a convention and platform committee representative of Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a former candidate for the party's nomination, said some Democrats probably will be disappointed that not all of the platform will be enacted.

"A lot of it is rhetoric ... politicians are not idiots; they know it can't all be done at once," he said.

A black leader, Rep. John Conyers of Michigan, said he was not optimistic that a Democratic administration would implement the platform. "We had some of our worst fights when Johnson and Humphrey were in the White House and when we expected them to live up to their promises and they didn't as many times as they did."

And Sam Brown, a member of the platform drafting committee and a former antiwar activist, told a rally of party liberals that if a candidate fails to live up to the platform, the party should "throw him out."

Michael Harrington, chairman of the Democratic Socialist Organizing Committee, told the rally that "we've got a full employment pledge in the platform, and we've got to make it stick." He was applauded by party liberals when he declared they must prevent a single Democrat "from sneaking off that Democratic platform plank."

A qualifying passage written in the employment plank by Carter supporters pledges the party to make "every reasonable effort" to reduce adult unemployment to 3 per cent in four years.

Pledges for federally financed national health insurance and guaranteed minimum incomes for the poor and elderly note that "accomplishing our goals in the areas of human needs will require time and resources." The platform does not carry an estimate of the cost of any program.

Some economists, including some Democrats, question whether unemployment can be slashed to the full employment level without setting off a new round of serious inflation. But Carter has said the nation can have low inflation, low unemployment and a balanced budget by 1980 if the economy grows at even a near-normal rate of 4 to 6 per cent a year.

Party conservatives are attracted by the platform's pledges for government reorganization and zero-based budgeting — a concept requiring programs constantly to demonstrate their usefulness.

The platform also says that the social programs it proposes do not require a larger bureaucracy. But if Carter could institute major new federal programs without adding to the federal payroll, he would be doing something not accomplished before.

The platform is only about 20,000 words long, about half the length of the party's 1972 charter.

In addition to full employment, health insurance and minimum income guarantees, it calls for tax reform to increase federal revenues by $5 billion a year and advocates an immediate cut of $5 billion to $7 billion in defense spending.

But it pledges support for adequate funds to meet the nation's defense needs and calls for continued pursuit of better relations with "traditional adversaries."

It supports busing to achieve racial integration of schools as "a judicial tool of last resort."

Under the platform, draft evaders and others in trouble because of peaceful opposition to the Vietnam war would be pardoned, but war deserters would be subject to a case-by case review before amnesty would be granted.

There is no mention in the platform of homosexual rights, marijuana or capital punishment.

Humphrey cheered by Democrats

NEW YORK (AP) — Hubert Horatio Humphrey, who has wanted to be president since the Articles of Confederation, maintained a stiff upper lip although the lower one may have suffered a slight quiver.

His reward was the longest, loudest ovation of Tuesday night's session of the Democratic National Convention, from a party that once more had passed him by.

By now the old warrior must be weary of trying not to be a sore loser. He tried four times to get his party's nomination for president and got it but once, in the worst of times, at the worst of conventions.

"I have good news for you tonight: we will have a Democrat in the White House Jan. 20," shouted the man who won't be that Democrat, and the crowd shouted back its approval.

"They say go slow, not now, no, no, veto. We've had enough of that defeatism. ... If America ceases to be good, America ceases to be great."

At the end, Muriel Humphrey took the hand of her twinkling husband and led him off the platform and he was gone, reluctant but smiling, a vivid memory in a baby blue suit.

He came and he went in a long procession of the party's familiar faces and last hurrahs, the former heroes and the forgiven villains, the widows, the passing symbols of profound change.

The delegates also cheered George McGovern in apparent forgiveness for the disaster four years ago. He issued a strenuous call for the defeat of those other fellows and then he, too, was gone, with less than 24 hours to wear a title nobody remembered, titular head of the Democratic party.

Ed Muskie appeared, attempted a casualness, tried a few jokes and then, with great effort, sounded the bugle for a cavalry charge that fell somewhat short of Light Brigade. In oratory, John Glenn and Muskie, two out of the three men believed to be Jimmy Carter's top choices for vice president, have now failed to light up the sky.

The chairman introduced a "very special person, for whom all Democrats have a special affection," and there she was, rising demurely from the VIP box, waving and smiling in her tentative way, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis. The convention came to its feet, turned to its right and cheered.

Inevitably, one was reminded of the appearance of another widow at Democratic conventions. But when Eleanor Roosevelt entered, she was somehow spotted without introduction and the word spread and the delegates stood and the galleries roared and the whole business of the convention came to a prolonged halt. Poignant in its moment, there is less veneration today for the reminders of past heroes.

George Wallace's appearance Tuesday night was framed in irony. He was preceded on the platform by the black mayor of Detroit, in whose office there now works one Rosa Parks. It was Rosa Parks, the Alabama seamstress, who began the Montgomery bus boycott, which ignited the civil rights movement in the South and the emergence of Martin Luther King.

Tuesday night, they cheered George Corley Wallace, who once stood in the school house door and now sat in a wheel chair, a gaunt face behind the microphones.

"Some of you need to laugh at me," he said, "but many of you are now saying the same thing: those bureaucrats in Washington ought to have their briefcases thrown into the Potomac."

Unseen hands pulled back George Wallace's wheel chair and he sank from the view of delegates. On the way out, he shook hands heartily with Coretta King, the widow of the civil rights leader. Nobody could remember whether her husband was ever invited to address a Democratic convention. She did Tuesday night, to a loud ovation, as "We Shall Overcome" swept the hall.

There were cheers, too, for Lynda Bird Johnson Robb, whose father has scarcely been mentioned in the last two Democratic conventions.

And for Richard Daley, the Lord Mayor of Chicago, who couldn't get a seat in the convention four years ago.

Insurance broker faces murder charge

A Rowland Heights insurance broker was arrested Tuesday afternoon on murder, conspiracy and loansharking charges after a man who pleaded guilty earlier to first-degree murder implicated him, sheriff's deputies said.

The broker, Samuel H. Brooks, 47, was arrested at his Amalgamated Insurance Brokers at 18415 Colima Road in Rowland Heights. He was booked at the sheriff's station in Industry.

Investigators today described Brooks as "the apparent kingpin" in Southland loansharking activities, and added that he was arrested after Arthur Rohwedder, 40, said Brooks hired him to kill a man in Calabasas Feb. 14 who had stopped making payments on a loan made him by Brooks.

Rohwedder, of Indio, named Brooks after pleading guilty to the murder charge in Van Nuys Superior Court, deputies said. They said he entered the plea and cooperated in the probe in an attempt to avoid a possible death sentence.

The victim was Michael Kenney, 38-year-old private detective who lived in Calabasas. Kenney was ambushed and shot once in the chest with a .45-caliber automatic pistol as he returned home that evening. Rohwedder was arrested three days later and charged with the murder. Brooks reportedly was questioned at the time but was released because of insufficient evidence.

Investigators said Kenney had refused to make further payments on his loan and they charged that Brooks carried a $100,000 life insurance policy on Kenney's life at the time Kenney was slain. The amount of the loan Brooks is accused of having made the victim was not revealed.

Homicide detectives said they were seeking additional victims in the alleged loanshark business.

Fourth suspect

ONTARIO police have charged a fourth person with the thefts of 10 police and military airmen's badges and wings at the Bellevue Mausoleum last week.

Donald Eugene Myrich, 18, of 1161 W. I St., Ontario, was arrested at the Police Department Monday on burglary charges following interviews with detectives. Police said that Myrich admitted going with three juveniles to the mausoleum last week and taking several of the 10 police and airman's badges and wings from their crypts. Myrich said that the youths told him they had made four different trips to the mausoleum, each time removing the items. Police said Myrich joined the youths the fifth time.

The three juveniles were arrested Sunday by police investigating the burglary. The youths were turned over to juvenile authorities for disposition.

Police said that the eight police badges and two airman's wings had actually no value other than intrinsic. Officers said the badge could not be melted down and sold for scrap as they were not of solid brass or any other valuable metals. Several of the badges have been recovered.

Almanac

Today is Wednesday, July 14, the 196th day of 1976. There are 170 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1789, the citizens of Paris stormed and captured the Bastille. The fall of the prison marked the beginning of the French Revolution.

On this date:

In 1536, France signed the Treaty of Lyons with Portugal for an attack against Spain.

In 1798, Congress passed the Sedition Act, making it a Federal crime to publish false, scandalous or malicious writings against the government.

In 1879, Congress provided a yearly pension of $3,000 for President Abraham Lincoln's widow, Mary Todd Lincoln.

In 1958, Iraq's King Faisal II, his heir and the nation's premier were assassinated in a coup in Baghdad.

In 1966, eight student nurses were slain in a Chicago apartment.

In 1969, President Richard Nixon announced a national attack on narcotics and asked Congress to enact heavier penalties for LSD and marijuana violations.

Ten years ago: Roving gangs and snipers in Chicago's Black West Side section were exchanging gunfire with police in the third night of rioting.

Five years ago: Government troops were in action in Jordan, attempting to crush a Palestine guerrilla movement.

One year ago: Secretary of State Henry Kissinger warned the third world majority of the United Nations that its tactics in the General Assembly were alienating the support of the American people for the U.N.

Today's birthdays: President Ford is 63 years old. Writer Irving Stone is 73.

Thought for today: I am for the restoration of order, but not for the restoration of the old order. — Mirabeau, French revolutionary leader, 1749-1791.

Bicentennial footnote: Two-hundred years ago today, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, expecting a British attack against New York, asked the Pennsylvania Committee of Safety to send any available musket cartidges and balls to American forces near New York.

Education

Created by Congress in 1867, the Office of Education collects statistics related to the condition of education, disseminates information to aid the states in maintaining efficient school systems, and, in general, promotes the cause of education.

NAVY CONTRACT — A Pomona firm has been awarded a $4,027,730 contract by the U.S. Navy to construct a device that monitors escaping gases in submarines.

The firm is the Perkin-Elmer Corp., 2771 N. Garey Ave. All the work will be performed in Pomona, said Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., who announced the contract award.

BUSY AIRPORT — The Ontario International Airport had 667,224 airline passengers and handled 3,479,175 pounds of air cargo during the first six months of this year, setting a new mid-year record.

This compared to the six month period last year with 592,728 passengers and 2,870,970 pounds of air cargo.

The airport also reported an increase in flight operations — 80,060 take offs and landings for the 1976 reporting period compared to 72,929 for 1975.

There was, however, a decrease this year in air carrier operations. Officials reported 15,515 operations so far this year and 15,745 last year.

John Dickinson, airport manager, said the load factor per plane is increasing while the number of airline schedules is about the same as last year.

JOURNALISTS ELECTED — Ben F. Thompson, professor of communications at Cal Poly, has been reelected vice president of the Inland Professional Chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists.

Other officers are Leonard Metz, feature writer, San Bernardino Sun-Telegram, president; Walter M. Brasch, free lance journalist and media consultant, vice president, membership; Charles Roberts, news director, KCAL radio station, Redlands, vice president, programs; Ila Wales Brasch, family editor, The Herald-News, Fontana, secretary; and Ruth Austen, feature writer, Riverside Press-Enterprise, treasurer and immediate past president.

The chapter sponsors seminars and workshops in journalism. Membership is open to professional journalists with at least one year of experience.

OPEN HOUSE — The Ontario Post Office will hold an open house for its new building Saturday from 1 to 5 p.m.

The post office recently moved its main station from Holt Boulevard and Laurel Street to 1555 E. Holt Blvd. The new structure, with 35,000 square feet of floor space, was built at a cost of $1.5 million.

Off-duty postal employes will serve as guides for tours. Other employes will be on duty to handle the mail.

FIRST AID CLASS — The Pomona Red Cross will offer an eight-hour course in cardiopulmonary resuscitation and basic life support on July 24.

Pre-registration is required by July 20 and a $3 fee will be charged for materials.

The class will meet from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Red Cross Center, 420 N. Reservoir St., Pomona. A certificate will be issued to those completing the course.

SWIM LESSONS — Mother-baby swim lessons will be offered by the Pomona Valley YMCA for five weeks beginning Monday.

The lessons will be offered on Mondays and Wednesdays from 9:30 to 10 a.m. Cost is $15 per child.

For information, persons may call 623-6433.

Ontario girl is contest winner

Loren Wingerd of Ontario, Tina Munson of Ely, Nev. and Annah Lee of Carmel are the grand prize winners in the Donald W. Reynolds Foundation Inc. Bicentennial Essay Contest.

The Foundation announced today that Wingerd won the elementary division, Miss Munson the junior high division and Miss Lee the senior high division.

As grand prize winners, Wingerd will receive a check of $300 from the Foundation. Munson will receive a $500 check and Lee will get $600.

The three also received $25 for being local winners and $100 for being regional winners.

Judges for the grand prize competition were Charles E. Bishop, president of University of Arkansas, Fayetteville; Henry J. Tobias, chairman of the history department at University of Oklahoma; and Nevada Gov. Mike O'Callaghan.

The winners will also receive special Nevada Bicentennial medals from O'Callaghan.

Topic for the contest was "What I Would Give America As a Presdent on Its 200th Birthday and Why."

The grand prize winners were selected from several thousand local entries in Arkansas, California, Hawaii, Indiana, Missouri, Nevada, Oklahoma, Texas and Washington.

"The response to this essay contest nationwide has been very gratifying," said Donald W. Reynolds, president of the Foundation. "Everyone who entered put a lot of thought into their essays, but I'm especially proud of Loren Wingerd, Tina Munson and Annah Lee. I'm very proud of them and the excellent essays that they wrote."

Area girl voted most congenial

Sue Anne Stewart, 7, of Upland, California's entrant in the National Little Miss Contest, was elected "Little Miss Congeniality" by other contestants during the competition.

Sue Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stewart, 704 Tulare Way, participated in the recent national pageant in Roanoke, Va., as the state's official representative.

A student at Baldy View Elementary School in Upland, Sue Anne will retain her title of "California Little Miss' until next year's competition.

At the competition in Virginia, Sue Anne presented Mayor Noel Taylor of Roanoke a key to the city of Upland from Mayor George Gibson and a certificate from the Chamber of Commerce.

The young contestants exchanged gifts among themselves. Sue Anne gave the other girls red, white and blue drawstring bags filled with balloons from Disneyland, wooden nickles from Knotts Berry Farm, pens from Sunkist Products and Sunmaid raisins.

Contestants, ranging in age from 5 to 9, were selected on the basis of natural charm, poise and personality.

Proceeds from the national pageant benefit the St. Jude's Children's Hospital in Tenneesee, founded by Danny Thomas.

Sue Anne was accompanied to the contest by her mother and her grandmother, Mrs. Frank Wallbaum of Upland, who designed her original costumes and party dresses.

Issues play key role in school board choice

8 candidates interviewed publicly to fill Chino school body vacancy

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Year-round school, fundamental programs and collective bargaining emerged as key issues as the Chino school board publicly interviewed eight candidates for a vacant seat Tuesday night.

The unusual public session, a result of new state legislation, drew a sizeable crowd to the board room, even though trustees took no action after the interviews.

They are expected to appoint a new board member at next Monday's meeting to fill the seat vacated by Roy Ward, who resigned on June 22.

Candidates questioned included Robert Bertschinger, a television repairman and former mayoral candidate; Patrick Hooven, a Monrovia teacher who lost a tie breaker drawing for a board seat in the March 1975 election; Kenneth Main, former deputy sheriff who ran for the City Council this year; Carol Dobrikin, a Pomona teacher; The Rev. Robert Erickson, pastor of St. Margaret Mary Church; Earl Owens, a school consultant; Paul Peterson, a Cal Poly professor; and Lawrence Walker, a recent law school graduate. Dennis Weik, who earlier declared his candidacy, did not show up for the meeting.

Bertschinger, who is a Chino native, said he supports collective bargaining. "We need a board that wants to work collectively with teachers."

Asked by Board President Al McCombs for his stand on the controversial year-round program, Bertschinger said "I'd be naive to say eliminate year-round school. There's nothing we can do about it. We can't throw our kids out in the street. However, I have no preconceived opinions on YRS at Don Lugo or Chino high schools."

Developers should pay toward construction of school facilities, he noted, adding that was an issue he raised in the recent mayoral race.

Hooven flatly stated that he was elected to the board in 1975. "It was just a matter of chance or I'd be sitting there now. I am the logical choice. It would be ethical and moral to appoint me to the board."

Asked whether there would be any conflict of interest over his job as a teacher, Hooven said, "Rather than excluding people like me it would enhance the board to have me on it. I don't see teachers having any conflict."

Hooven, who was endorsed by an anti-YRS group in the last election, claimed he was "objective" about year-round programs. "My position is that YRS is something we should look at, and see if changes are necessary. I questioned the methods of implementation of YRS. But I never said I'd abolish it."

As for fundamental school, Hooven said he has an "open view" on the issue.

Main indicated that he could represent new residents in Chino, being one himself.

Asked his views on collective bargaining for employes, Main said, "All I know is what I read, so I can't answer that."

He cited campus violence as one of his major concerns. "Bad apples who don't want education should be either let go or convinced to attend school. The kids who want education have a right to get it. The school is not a battleground."

Mrs. Dobrikin said she was concerned over the district's low reading test scores, and indicated more concentration on reading at the primary levels could solve that problem. The quality of teaching also could be improved, she added.

The idea of fundamental school is a good one, Mrs. Dobrikin declared. She also favors a free school and RISE programs.

Better communication between the district and developers is necessary, she noted, to insure a balance between residential building and commercial industry. Mrs. Dobrikin lives in Carbon Canyon and could represent "outlying areas of the community."

Father Erickson stated he saw no conflict in his role as administrator of St. Margaret School. He noted his school is filled to capacity so he is not competing with the public schools for pupils.

He claimed St. Margaret's receives "very little" federal assistance for education.

He noted that there is a need for a fundamental school in that "there has been a breakdown of moral order in society." With the city's rapid growth, he said year-round school is a necessity in Chino. "I'm not saying if I like it or not."

Owens said YRS is not an issue now because there is a committee studying it and the controversy will be on the November ballot.

By law, the board must take part in collective bargaining, he said. Not saying if he favors the bargaining, Owens said board members may find themselves negotiating four and five-year contracts.

Owens said his philosophy is that education is a "learning process. The board is there to facilitate that process."

Peterson, a parent of five children, placed stress on being a "pragmatist" and on fundamental education. "We should infuse the philosophy of maintaining order, morals and decency in schools.

He added that while he favors the traditional program, others want year-round school. "I would support them in their feelings."

Peterson said he is opposed to constant television watching, which is taking away educational time from children. "I don't mind expressing my opinions on what kids should watch."

Walker, 24-year-old son of the principal at El Rancho School, said he sees no conflict of interest in his seeking a board seat. His mother is a district teacher and his brother and sister-in-law also work for Chino schools.

Special emphasis should be placed on early childhood education he said. "It would enable each student to achieve what he is capable of achieving."

Walker said that despite his youth, he could represent all segments of the community.

WHEELCHAIR LIFT

Motorized help for handicapped

Two vans, specially equipped to transport handicapped Citrus College students between their homes and the campus, are now in operation at the college.

Purchased with state and local funds at a total cost of $24,611.10, the two vehicles will be operated under the college's handicapped program which is also supported by state and local funding.

One van is equipped with an electrically-operated lift for wheelchair students; the second van is designed to transport handicapped walking students. Passenger capacity, as designated by state law, is six students in the wheelchair van and 16 in the other vehicle.

There is a great need for these vans according to Vince O'Boyle, director of the handicapped program at Citrus College.

At this time, there are 30 daytime students in the program at Citrus. Some have cerebral palsy and muscular dystrophy. Others are blind, deaf or disabled because of polio or automobile accidents. Some are Vietnam veterans. All meet the legal definition of handicapped.

Before the vans were obtained, O'Boyle said, transportation of handicapped students was difficult. "It was a hit or miss situation, trying to find them rides," O'Boyle said. "Now, with the vans, we will attract more students," he added. RTD buses cannot accommodate wheelchairs, he explained.

The vans are driven by college bus drivers who are trained to work with the handicapped. They will pick up students at their homes and bring them to school prior to their 9 a.m. classes and return them to their homes in the afternoon.

D.B. may form council to represent it with county

The first Municipal Advisory Council (MAC) in Los Angeles County may be formed in Diamond Bar, giving the 20,000 residents in that unincorporated area official representation before the Board of Supervisors.

It will happen in another four months, if voters in Diamond Bar do two things: first, approve the formation of MAC, and second, donate money to pay costs of an election.

Authorization for this move was granted representatives of the Diamond Bar Homeowners Association by a unanimous vote of the Board of Supervisors Tuesday.

The action culminated several years' work by the association and is seen by association leaders as an important step which would give the community an alternative to city government, an identity and recognizable borders.

George Resh, chairman of the MAC feasibility study and secretary of the homeowners board of directors, said that he and Martin Speigel, association president, attended the meeting in Los Angeles where the proposal was presented by Supervisor Pete Schabarum.

Resh said the first step in implementation will be conducting an election in Diamond Bar, scheduled Nov. 2, with the Presidential election.

It will present a proposition asking voters to decide yes or no on forming the MAC. It also will be to elect four council members. A fifth person to sit on the council will be appointed by Schabarum.

Resh said the election will cost the homeowners $20,000 and must come from donations. This would pay costs for placing the proposition and names of 17 council candidates on the ballot. Even one additional name would add another $6,000 because it would require a second sheet.

"We are going to ask that those who file be very serious," said Resh.

Requirements for candidacy are that individuals live in Diamond Bar, be registered voters and be able to gather petitions favoring their candidacy bearing signatures of 20 registered voters living in Diamond Bar, Resh said.

Petitions and formal papers must be filed with the Los Angeles County Registrar of Voters office between Aug. 4 and Aug. 24. There is no filing fee.

Resh said he would file for a council seat, and he was sure that "dozens" of others in Diamond Bar would be "very interested."

Resh, senior marketing representative with Cutter Laboratories in Berkeley, has lived in Diamond Bar 9½ years.

"We hope people in the community will make donations to the election fund," said Resh. He asked that checks be mailed to Diamond Bar MAC Election Fund, P.O. Box 4085, Diamond Bar 91765.

Resh said formation of an MAC would give Diamond Bar a satisfactory answer to the state, "which now says it wants no unincorporated area. We have no financial base on which to incorporate, so this is a very good alternative. We can say we have borders, we are a viable community," he explained.

"We will have an official voice with the county and can deal with zoning and planning matters as Diamond Bar grows.

"It will give us a community forum. Monthly meetings will be held. One of the reasons I want to run is to open an office in Diamond Bar, with a telephone, where people with problems can call and get help here without having to go to the county.

"Also, MAC will give Diamond Bar a much greater voice in the educational process."

Dispute continues over S.D. firings

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The controversy over three fired commissioners continued Tuesday night in San Dimas as the City Council rectified what courts have declared an illegal action and a citizen spokesman accused three councilmen of wasting tax dollars on a "Don Quixote attacking the windmill" court appeal.

The central item was an ordinance adding a provision for the appointment and removal of planning commissioners, thus giving the council the authority to remove commissioners with or without cause.

The ordinance was on the agenda as a routine item, but Councilman James McLean, who with Councilman James Lough had opposed the firings, requested that Mayor Marvin Ersher separate the matter for discussion.

"This is an ordinance that actually legalizes what our City Council did in firing three planning commissioners and is after the fact," McLean said, referring to the March 22 dismissal on a 3-2 vote of Clyde Bartman, Gerald Klein and Robert Sturrock.

The three subsequently filed suit against the city and in a May 24 decision, Judge Norman Dowds ruled that the firing was an illegal action. In the ruling, Judge Dowds accepted the argument of attorney Stephen Jones that each of the commissioners had been appointed to four-year terms and unless they were guilty of misconduct or malfeasance of office, they could not be fired until their terms expired. He ordered the city to re-instate them.

The city decided to appeal the decision and will spend approximately $3,000 on the year-long process. City Atty. George Wakefield, who was appointed to replace fired Norman Oliver, said at that time that if the city rewrote its ordinance on this issue and put in a removal cause it would probably satisfy the appeals court. This decision was also a 3-2 vote.

"This council should not have the right to remove appointed officials without cause," McLean declared. "A judge has said this is illegal and I agree. I am opposed to this ordinance."

Wakefield asserted that the "purpose of the ordinance is simply to correct what was and is a technical defect in a provision of the government code. There is an understanding that appointed officers serve at the pleasure of the City Council. There is a provision that addresses itself specifically to the Planning Commission, fixing the terms of planning commissioners and providing for their removal."

Ersher noted that the removal clause now applies to members of the Juvenile Justice, Parks and Recreation and Senior Citizen commissions and the city manager. He commented that "planning commissioners don't have any vested rights" of exclusion from the provision.

Councilman Philip Wax said "We're talking in terms of people who have done something wrong against their own city."

John Rudolph, a spokesman for a group of about 50 residents, objected to the action on the ordinance and the "legal battle of no purpose." He said the appeal of Judge Dowds' decision was "a waste of our tax money solely for the satisfaction of the personal whim of the mayor and Mr. Wax and Mr. Dipple."

Rudolph said that those who had voted for Ersher, Wax and Dipple are now questioning their actions and improper use of power. He asked that the "mayor and City Council accept the rulings of the Superior Court, immediately re-seat Klein, Bartman and Sturrock and do not waste our hard earned tax money on this 'Don Quixote attacking the windmill' appeal."

Doug Fordyce, whose wife Beryl served as Wax's campaign manager, spoke in favor of the council majority and said the action to terminate was "in keeping with due process."

Wax dismissed the opposition arguments, declaring that the city get on with "business as usual." To Rudolph's accusation of wasting tax dollars, he responded "Only the ones who were taken out are making the waves. They're the ones making the dollars be spent. They ought to just be quiet and stop trying to split the council. The people running the city now are not incompetent."

Contacted this morning, Sturrock agreed that the council was within its rights in adopting an ordinance giving them the specific policy for the removal of appointed officials. However, he said: "The planning commissioners had certainly put in more hours and years of service than Mr. Wax has put in. The commissioners served with unselfish dedication, responding to the needs and goals of the city."

L.V. child drowned

A child who apparently fell accidentally into a swimming pool drowned in La Verne Tuesday evening, police reported.

The victim, Matthew Domenic Braley, 3, was found in the backyard swimming pool of his home at 1948 Craig Way by his sister, 13-year-old Tina Braley. She summoned help and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation was attempted until the arrival of firemen and paramedics, but the child was pronounced dead later at San Dimas Community Hospital.

Police said the victim's mother was visiting friends at the time of the accident.

Chino cyclist killed in fall

An 18-year-old Chino man was killed early this morning when he lost control of his motorcycle and crashed on Philadelphia Avenue near Monte Vista Avenue in Chino, police reported.

John Joseph Traister of 4857 Harrison St., Chino, was pronounced dead on arrival at Chino General Hospital shortly after the accident was reported at 12:17 a.m.

Police said Traister was traveling east on Philadelphia Avenue approaching Monte Vista Avenue when he lost control of the motorcycle and crashed. Traister was thrown to the pavement and fatally injured.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Griffith Mortuary in Chino.

Woman's body found in alley in Ontario

The body of an Ontario woman dressed only in housecoat and pajamas was found on a bloody bedspread in the alley behind the Alpha Beta market at Euclid Avenue and Francis Street in Ontario early this morning.

Harvey Castro, deputy San Bernardino County coroner, said the woman has been tentatively identified as Mrs. Camillia Reece, 208½ W. Francis Ave., Ontario.

Ontario police homicide investigators were at the scene this morning attempting to determine if the woman had been slain, the victim of an accident or died naturally.

Investigators said that there were several strange circumstances in the woman's death.

Castro and officers said there was a small laceration on the woman's forehead and no other signs of external injuries, although the woman appeared to have lost a great deal of blood. The woman's bedslippers lay together next to her left shoulder and she was lying on the blood soaked bedspread, said Castro.

On the woman's wrist a small bracelet read, "I am an alcoholic." Officers said they had questioned several friends of Mrs. Reece who said she had some difficulty walking.

Chino dairy fair underway

Chino's annual Junior Fair and Dairy Festival got underway today at the Junior Fairgrounds with rabbit and hog showings plus landscape exhibits.

The fair, at Central and Edison avenues, will be highlighted by the barbecue Friday night and crowning of a fair queen the same evening.

Various animals will be on display Thursday and showmanship classes will be judged. Dog obedience will take place at 4:30 p.m.

The queen will be crowned at 7 Friday night. Saturday will be highlighted by a calf weight and age guessing contest, and butter churning and milk drinking competition. Sunday will belong to the Chino Valley Junior Riders and their open horse show.

Sharing an arms problem

The pace of scientific discovery is so great today in the Soviet Union and United States that a goodly share of the megabuck weapons now on the drawing boards here and in Moscow will be obsolete or well on the way to it before they're in the hands of troops in useful numbers.

Witness the costly antiballistic missile systems developed by both countries. And now being abandoned. The new families of Russian weapons, used by the Egyptians in the most recent Arab-Israeli battles, raised questions as to the survivability of the present generation of tanks and some types of planes.

Because even the simplest of the new weapons systems, are now so costly — running in the multibillions each — national defense inevitably will be an increasing burden on the economies of both countries. Increasingly costly weapons systems will have to be replaced with increasing frequency to keep parity or rough equivalency, or whatever terms seems useful in describing approximate equality between the United States and the USSR.

This will be true whether the strategic arms limitation talks are successful or not.

For there is no way SALT or any other treaty can stop scientific advance. Gains in some lines can be slowed by bans — say on open or concealed testing. But these restrictions will be compensated for by more intensive work in areas where no effective ban exists. And since the avenues open to science are almost infinite, treaty makers cannot touch all bases or close all doors effectively.

New breakthroughs in the understanding of underwater characteristics and the promise of eventual vastly improved ability for undersea surveillance give warning that the virtual invulnerability to detection now enjoyed by Polaris and the upcoming Trident submarines and their Russian counterparts will most certainly be broken.

Parallel breakthroughs in intercontinental missile accuracy threaten the survivability of static U.S. Minutemen and similar Soviet systems, regardless of how much effort is expended in hardening targets.

If present research is successful, long-range drones programmed to recognize certain typical ship characteristics and to attack on sight without human intervention, may eventually destroy the effectiveness of some major types of surface naval task forces.

Pentagon studies are already under way on missiles which will fire automatically without human intervention upon sensing or "seeing" specific targets they have been programmed to recognize. The targets could be incoming missiles, tanks or airplanes, or ships, troop concentrations or whatever proves feasible to build into the missile system. Drones which could accommodate such super smart missiles are the subject of a great deal of work here, and presumably in the Soviet Union.

As is well known, there is hope, and some promise, that lasers can be made effective in space for the transmission of power and as weapons. And studies are under way on the use of lasers for launching military payloads into space.

Now none of these revolutions will come overnight. But in the Soviet Union and here, these or comparable advances are coming much more quickly than planners expected.

Whichever nation, the Soviet Union or the United States, discovers a way to effectively shorten the time between discovery of a revolutionary new weapon and its introduction into military service, and whichever times the building of new weapons with least cost to civilian economic development will have an advantage impossible to measure.

Think on these things

The woods in early March definitely predicts the coming of Spring. Life is stirring beneath last year's leaves, and squirrels search every cranny for a forgotten acorn or pecan. Even before life comes to the woods you can sense it and smell the rich, moist aroma of the earth. Fern fronds, poke greens and wild onions are the first to make an appearance, and birds begin to scout for places to build their nests.

Even though March is known for its stormy temperament, Spring arrives just the same, and the change affects us all. It's a bit like living with an adolescent, one moment sunshine and the next cold wind and tears — but worth every moment of every hour and grows dearer with the living.

Thought

"I loathe my life; I will give free utterance to my complaint; I will speak in the bitterness of my soul." — Job 10:1.

"We exaggerate misfortune and happiness alike. We are never either so wretched or so happy as we say we are." — Honore de Balzac, French novelist.

Brown's double standard

Perhaps your readers don't realize that Governor Brown is not a friend of the nursing home patients. Last week when he signed the new budget, he deleted 17.3 million dollars that was earmarked for the nursing home industry to pay for spiraling inflation and wage increases for our underpaid hospital workers.

Every facility in the state has had to increase their professional and non-professional staff to meet the increasing demands for better quality of care for our aged. We need more depth of personnel — we need to educate our non-professional staff — we need additional programming, etc. In our proposal to the state budget committee all these items were included. The State Department of Health agreed that a $2.00 per day increase was needed just to cover inflationary costs. Our Nursing Home Association (CAHF) worked for six months with the legislature in Sacramento to get this bill passed. Governor Brown upon returning after a whirlwind Presidential Campaign, vetoed, in an instant, what many men had spent thousands of hours in preparing.

This week he signed a bill increasing the pay of state employees by $70.00 per month. These state employees are already making more than the minimum wage; yet lowly hospital workers are forced to stay at near minimum wage because of his veto. There seems to be a double standard here and it isn't fair. If there are any friends of patients or employees of nursing homes that read this letter, please write the Governor and voice your displeasure with his action.

Carter: An enigma

NEW YORK — To the Democratic delegates who came here to acclaim Jimmy Carter, he remains an enigma. Most of them will leave the Democratic convention still a bit chary about their nominee. What makes Carter run? They will go home wondering.

The key to his behavior, according to sources close to Carter, can be found in the example of his former commanding officer, Adm. Hyman Rickover. The salty, old curmudgeon battled the bureaucracy, slashed red tape, overcame obstacles, refused to be deterred.

And he abhorred any waste of the taxpayers' money.

Those who know Carter say his view of Washington was first shaped in the reconverted ladies' washroom where Rickover was banished to develop the nuclear submarine the naval bureaucracy pooh-poohed. The Democratic candidate, if he should become President, can be expected to pursue his goals with the same single-mindedness.

"It will be, 'Damn the bureaucrats and full steam ahead!' " predicted one intimate. Yet, like Rickover, the source said, Carter will operate within the system.

The admiral also demanded total dedication from his subordinates. Carter will expect the same commitment from the men around him. They will have to put on the crusader's armor, our sources anticipate.

Before Carter became an active candidate, he sought out Rickover and spent an evening with him. Our sources say the presidential aspirant went to Rickover more to draw inspiration than to solicit advice.

These sources say Rickover influenced Carter's "attitude toward achievement" but not necessarily his attitude toward the Pentagon. The man who tonight becomes the Democratic standard-bearer admires Rickover tremendously, they say, but may not agree with his military views.

It would be hard to find two more disparate men than the smiling, engaging Carter and the abrasive, waspish Rickover. Carter was brought up in Georgia, a scion of the upper class. Rickover came to this country at age five, an immigrant mite tossed into Chicago's slum land, the son of a Polish pants presser.

Both men made it to Annapolis, Rickover in the 1920s, Carter two decades later. The youth from Georgia was a model midshipman, polished, poised, popular. The immigrant from Chicago was always out of step. He was out of step on the drill field, out of step on the dance floor.

Yet Carter was later to say: "Adm. Rickover had a profound effect on my life, perhaps more than anyone except my own parents."

Carter has never forgotten their first meeting. He applied to Rickover for a job in the nuclear submarine program. "How did you stand in your class at the Naval Academy?" asked the admiral.

"Sir, I stood 59th in a class of 820," snapped back Carter, pleased with himself.

"Did you do your best?"

Carter paused. "No, sir," he admitted, "I didn't always do my best."

"Why not?" demanded Rickover. It was a question that has challenged Carter ever since, his friends say.

WALLACE'S LAST HURRAH? George Wallace's appearance before the Democratic convention is viewed by many political veterans as his last hurrah. After his poor showing in the primaries, they tend to regard him as a washed-out, politically impotent old man.

But even as they are consigning him to the political pastures, the Alabama governor is gearing up for his next campaign. His staff, according to inside sources, is preparing another political fund-raising appeal. "If people respond," said one source, "we can keep it going."

For the record, those who are authorized to speak for Wallace are cautious about the future. His chief political honcho, Charles Snider, acknowledged that they will keep a skeleton campaign staff "as long as possible."

As he explained it, "We're going to try to keep something going, to keep in touch with the constituents we have."

They speak vaguely of a judgeship or a federal appointment for Wallace. But they really have their eye on the seat that Sen. John Sparkman, D.-Ala., is expected to vacate in 1978, our sources confide.

Wallace may be less willing than his hangers-on, whose jobs depend on keeping him in office. Earlier this year, our associate Jim Grady spoke to the governor about his future.

"My wife and I talk a lot about what I'll do when I'm through," he said, his voice dropping as he sagged slightly in his wheelchair.

Our man in Washington
Special interest donations

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The list of major contributors to President Ford's campaign is as different from Ronald Reagan's as Reagan's is from that of Jimmy Carter.

A sampling of the Ford big donors — those who gave $100 or more — reveals an unusually heavy backing by men and women who classify themselves as business executives or corporation officers — and housewives.

The number of those listed as retired also was unusually great in comparison with the comparable Reagan and Carter reports.

Further down the Ford list in numbers came lawyers and bankers and self-employed.

In my sample, there was even one major donor who classified himself as "unemployed."

By contrast, Reagan's lists included relatively large numbers of engineers and technical men, airline pilots, physicians and surgeons, small businessmen, government employees, ranchers and blue-collar workers.

And attorneys, editors and publishers and small radio station operators and owners, stock brokers, investment men, real estate developers, contractors and builders stood out in Jimmy Carter's reports.

Mr. Ford also seemed to be receiving support from a wider range of political funds than his two major rivals.

Typical were the American Bankers Political Action Committee, the Gas Employes Political Election Committee, the American Insurance Mens Political Action Committee, the Hawaiian Telephone Employes Good Government Fund and political funds sponsored by Standard Oil of Indiana, the Lockheed, Central Soya, Burlington, the Carpet and Rug Industry, Chevron (petroleum), Olin (chemicals), Union Carbide (chemicals) and East Ohio Gas Employes.

There are, of course, some clear reasons why the Ford, Carter and Reagan lists differ.

One of the top men in the real estate development, construction business nationally said privately the other day that he and most of those he knew well in his field, would not support a Republican candidate for president in this election because of the way in which the Nixon and Ford administrations had treated the industry these past years.

Though it is certain this man had taken no poll, the sentiment he expressed no doubt accounts for the relatively low numbers of those in the Ford and Reagan big givers lists who classify themselves as being in the real estate, development or construction business and the frequency with which men in these fields appear on the Carter lists.

There have been reports of late of rumblings among government employes, bothered, it's said, by Mr. Ford's joining Carter and Reagan in downgrading the bureaucracy. There are indications, in fact, that this has hurt both Mr. Ford and Carter in the donor column — except, of course for donations by major Ford appointees. Curiously, however, Reagan's strong statements on the bureaucracy do not seem to have discouraged donors in that group.

It should be mentioned that in each case a runthrough, if it were possible, of the under-$100 donations, would give a far better picture of the depth and breadth of support, or lack of it, for each candidate by various occupational groups. The picture would be clearer, too, if more donors listed their occupations and the companies with which they're associated, a requirement of the law ignored in the majority of cases.

What's interesting is the number of groups and fund giving to all three of the frontrunners. In part, of course, this reflects the different outlooks of those who contribute to the funds. In other cases it means that donors are hedging their bets. By giving to all three men, they're certain to have picked a winner.

Doc Peirsol
Just in jest

The first drive-in theatre opened for business in 1934. In those days vendors went from car to car selling their goodies. But that, of course, was in the good old days before drive-ins began to laughingly be referred to as "passion pits." It didn't take drive-in theatre managers long to realize that there are times when and places where vendors are persona non grata.

Well, now that we've got in an erudite latin phrase and are bordering on an X rated column, why not make the most of such an opportunity? — Since "All the President's Men" has hit the literary jackpot, I note someone has already suggested that the next best selling novel will undoubtedly be titled, "All the Congressmen's Women." —And if the Republican Party is looking for a real hot campaign issue to counteract Watergate, how about pointing out that, thus far, all Congressmen involved in sex scandals are Democrats?

Tom Tiede
Election near, hold nose!

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — As the parties make ready for Phase II of the election season — conventioneering — the political gossip is becoming toxic. The whispers are that Republican operatives have engineered at least part of the scandal involving Democratic congressmen. For instance: since Utah's Rep. Alan Howe swears he was tricked into approaching that Salt Lake City prositute-cop, it occurs to some that the tricksters would likely be a political enemy, and the natural enemy of Utah Democrats is the Utah GOP.

Surely the suspicion is absurd. There is manifest evidence that Utah Republicans are pure as snow in the Wasatch, and besides have no idea where the bimbos hang out. Yet the talk is instructive in that it gauges the pressures building up among partisans.

Sensing victory for the first time in twelve years, some Democrats will use any dodge to keep up momentum. Sensing defeat, some Republicans will do as much to stay afloat. The vibes are thus lousy. And in this first presidential election since Watergate, there is evidence the nation is about to suffer another nose-holding campaign.

Maybe not. Jerry Ford is straight up and Jimmy Carter is the Right Hand of God. The combination does not suggest devilment so much as organ music in the cathedral. Yet what happens when angels fight? Heaven trembles. This may be the first election in history where Dick Tuck gets up during Mass and says: "Friends, I'd like to say something about Brother Ford. Now I have no proof he beats his wife, but . . ."

Already the road to the White House has been muddied by one side or the other. In North Carolina, Ronald Reagan's people distributed literature reminding that Ford is soft on Sen. Ed Brooke, a black. In Florida, somebody printed posters saying that Carter was "Wanted, Dead or Alive." The George Wallace headquarters in Jacksonville was burglarized. Reaganites in California received numerous calls (false) cancelling scheduled rallies. And Mo Udall was understandably upset when Carter accused him, a Mormon, of subscribing to that church's belief that black people are inferior to whites.

As a general observation it should be noted that it was square shooter Ford who caused much of the most off-target trouble in the primaries. A letter over his signature, for example, was sent to at least one tax-exempt organization asking for money that, if given, would have jeopardized the group's special tax standing. And too, the President has delivered some remarkably low blows to rival Reagan. In California he suggested, via television advertisements, that his opponent is the kind of nut who, if elected, would lead us right into war.

Consequently, it is Ford who worries the election watchers most. Sam Archibald, who used to head the Washington-based Campaign Fair Practices Committee, says that "Abuse is most likely in a contest where the incumbent is in danger of losing power," i.e. Ford. Archibald says he can't predict low-roading this autumn, but proposes that observers can. "When a candidate's strategy turns negative, that's the time to worry. If rather than speak of his own attributes he talks of the other guy's failures, it's a sign he may be getting desperate."

If Ford does get desperate he knows there is little anyone can do about it. The Federal Elections Commission has received more than 140 complaints of dirty politics this year, but is so paralyzed by confusing laws and responsibilities it has not yet acted on any of them.

Also, the Federal Communications Commission received 1,200 complaints in April-May alone, an unusually high number. Except for a handful of cases, it is powerless to do anything but sit back and cluck tongues.

In sum: low politics is still largely legal, Watergate be damned.

So, it is, though it's by no means certain, the name of the game this Bicentennial fall may be presidential Rollerball, at least if the tense gossip in Washington is an indication. Did you hear that Carter grows pot on his southern 40? Did you hear that the second part of Ford's deal with Nixon is to make him ambassador to China? Oh, boy. Do you think if we ask, Britain would take us back?

Two sides to police probe

One evening last month my family and I noticed there were many cars driving around my house, on the alleys and streets, without any lights on.

One member of my family called the Chino Police Department and asked what was going on. We were told that there were gunshot type sounds in the area.

Shortly afterward my house was completely surrounded with police cars and officers. A nice big spotlight shone on the southeast windows of our house.

We went to our living room door and opened it. I asked the men outside what was going on. When I saw the men were police officers, I asked for their badge numbers. I did not get any answers.

Instead I was commanded to go out into the street area. My mother and I were asked for identification. We said we lived there and they should come to the door.

Without responding to us, the officers took off just as fast as they had come without even an apology for the disturbance or an explanation as to why they had come to my house. — D. D., Chino.

Chief Gerald W. Doyle of the Chino Police Department told us he offered to discuss the matter you refer to at a Community Action Council meeting but your family said they didn't want to talk about it except in the presence of their attorney.

The facts of the incident, he says, are these:

On the evening in question several shots had been fired in the vicinity of your residence.

Officers were called to the scene to investigate and a young man, later identified as having a name almost identical with yours, was seen darting in and out of your house.

Officers converged on the residence and tried to talk to occupants of the house.

A lady, later identified as Mrs. D., came out of the house, according to the chief "in a highly emotional state making communication with her highly impossible."

The chief said that one of the nicest of officers who works with the Chino Police Department was attempting to communicate with Mrs. D. "to absolutely no avail."

It was then determined there was no probable cause for arrest or search of the residence.

Later, he said, someone called the Police Department but was so highly emotional that the complaint desk operator could not find out who it was.

Chief Doyle is sure of his facts, he stated. He was there. As a routine part of his job, he occasionally rides in uniform with various officers.

Chief Doyle said he feels that the police could not have handled the incident any differently logically, legally or morally.

Are tents and sleeping bags really very subject to fires? My husband and I have done very little camping but are thinking of taking it up. — S.R., Diamond Bar.

Yes, they are subject to fires, according to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.

The commission advises the use of flame retardant tents and sleeping bags if possible but says you should assume any tents and sleeping bags are flammable and be careful with fire.

BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Thursday, July 15, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't employ coy or clever methods to get others to do your bidding today. They'll produce anything but favorable results.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Daydreaming is not the same as being visionary. Don't indulge in wishful thinking today and feel you're on the way to solving the world's problems.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Should you be too uncertain about your aims today you'll accomplish little of value. Have definite purposes in mind. You can pull off a victory.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Others today are likely to determine your productivity. If your cohorts are lazy, you'll probably lay down your tools, too.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're still not at your best in the commercial world. Watch yourself every step of the way if buying, selling or trading.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Important decisions should not be made for expeditious reasons today. Weigh matters carefully, then come up with what's best for all.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's the kind of day when good intentions about health or diet matters could go by the boards. Try to keep your worthwhile resolutions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today, avoid being pretentious in any manner. Such action will have an effect exactly opposite of what you hope for.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your attention span is very short today. You must concentrate or have another check your work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Guard against reporting on information where you are uncertain of the facts. You could unintentionally hurt someone.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) One who borrowed and who is still not current on her indebtedness may try to touch you up again. Keep her record in mind.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You want some things at present, but apparently not badly enough to make the sacrifice needed to attain them.

Your birthday July 15, 1976

A very profitable market opens up for your talents and experience this year. It will come about only if you seek out the right people to exploit it.

Ann Landers

Welfare recipient speaks out

Dear Ann: Are you courageous enough to print this? These days everyone is yelling that "welfare cheats" are parasites and responsible for high taxes. Well, I'd like to tell you what it's like for someone who has been on welfare for several years.

My husband was badly wounded during the Korean War, lost his leg and shattered his nervous system. He became an alcoholic. We have a 23-year-old daughter, brain-damaged. I must care for her as if she were an infant. I also have an eight-year-old granddaughter living with me. She has cerebral palsy and a host of other problems — speech defect, bad eyes, poor hearing — been ill all of her life. This child's mother was deserted shortly after she gave birth.

I am in poor health, yet I drive my granddaughter to a special school — a total of 52 miles a day. I also manage to raise my own vegetables, can and freeze them to supplement our diet.

How do I like being on welfare? I hate it. I'd give anything if I could earn my way, but I can't. The medical bills are staggering. When I take out my food stamps in the market I get accusatory looks, as if I am stealing bread from the mouth of "taxpayers."

Of course there are lazy bums who won't work, and A.D.C. mothers who are milking the government, but there are also thousands of people like myself who desperately need help. No one speaks for us. Will you? — Thank God I'm In America

Dear Friend: Yes, I will speak for you — by letting you speak for yourself. Here's your letter, and bless you for writing it.

Dear Ann Landers: The wedding is over, but I'm a wreck. Had we foreseen the trouble, we would have given our daughter a ladder. This letter is "therapy." If I put my gripes in writing I might feel better.

The limit was agreed on — 300 people — 150 from each side. We ended up with 225 from our side alone.

As soon as the invitations were in the mail we began to get calls from friends and relatives telling us, "You forgot So-and-So. They are hurt. Invite them right away."

The responses began to trickle in. When we invited "Mr. and Mrs." some replied, "We're bringing our daughter and son-in-law." Or, "Of course you know we can't leave Mother home . . ."

Four days before the wedding we had NOT heard from half the people. I got on the phone. (Ann Landers says you're supposed to call the clods if they don't R.S.V.P.)

I was told, "Of course we'll be there. We figured you'd know." ((One card came back, "Sorry we can't make it." No signature.)

At the reception our daughter was in tears. There were 61 children (ALL uninvited) under 16 years of age. The kids took over the dance floor, pestered the band and played in the restrooms. It was a disaster.

Please, Ann, tell your readers kids don't belong at weddings. If parents can't afford a sitter they should all stay home. — Glad I Said It

Dear Glad: So am I. I hope somebody out there listens.

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Love or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." For a copy, mail 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Joe Firman

Washington Oedipus complex

Activity in official Washington, which customarily makes the Madhatter's tea party seem like the epitome of logic and reason, took an even loonier turn last week when officials of the Office of Civil Rights of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare decided that father-son banquets in public schools were illegal because they discriminated against women.

I haven't laughed so much since the Boy Scouts opened their ranks to girls. Next step: the League of Person Voters.

Fortunately — if surprisingly — President Ford had enough sense to revoke the HEWlarious ruling, and Americans can now attend father-son dinners, mother-daughter banquets, graduation parties and even PTA meetings without fear that Uncle Sam is going to withhold what is known as "federal assistance" (i.e. pots of money) on grounds of sexual discrimination.

The tempestuous teapot was stirred last year when HEW drafted new regulations to Title IX ($ to schools) that said boys and girls must be treated equally, or no federal moola. This led to boys in the girls showers, girls on boys' football teams and other enchantments undreamed of in my youth. It also led to the Scottsdale (Ariz.) school district writing nervously to Washington to inquire whether the aforementioned parental festivities were in violation.

"Absolutely!" intoned the Madhatter. "Functions such as father-son or mother-daughter breakfasts would be subjecting students to separate treatment and would not be permitted." Next thing we know, HEW will outlaw Mother's Day.

In the days of my years I have put four children through an endless chain of elementary, junior and senior high schools, and my personal feeling is that Ford should have let the HEW edict stand. A more painful ceremony than a father-daughter dance or a senior party I cannot envision. During these lugubrious festivities, parents and offspring are thrown together in uneasy and embarrassing relationship, in the company of similarly discomfited families, for an unnatural and interminable evening.

Long speeches by bespectacled school officials no one ever heard of; awards to countless young athletes, scholars and Students of the Year; a grinding chorus from "The Sound of Music" by the chamber singers; gingerly dancing between two generations that gap — it all adds up to the longest evening of the year. Ford should have let the ruling stand.

HEW would care?

Dr. Lamb

Antibiotics fight infections

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you explain the medication tetracycline to me? How many different illnesses is it used for? My grandson's doctor prescribed it for his acne condition and my doctor prescribed it for me to take as an antibiotic in case of a virus infection. Is the constant use of this drug harmful?

DEAR READER — The tetracyclines include several different antibiotics. The best known of these are Aureomycin, Terramycin and Achromycin. They are broad-spectrum antibiotics, meaning they are effective against a large number of different organisms. That is why your doctor and your grandson's doctor used them for different infections.

Your doctor did not give you tetracycline to treat viruses since this drug is not effective against viruses. He probably gave it to you to counteract any secondary infection from bacteria.

Some people are aware that these medicines are used in treatment of "virus pneumonia." The catch is that what was once called virus pneumonia is not caused by a virus at all but by a very small bacteria that is treatable with antibiotics.

In common concentrations they stop reproduction of bacteria and are therefore called bacteriostatic. In greater concentrations they may actually kill the bacteria and are then called bacteriocidal.

No medicine is entirely safe. Antibiotics are safe when used as directed. The most common problem is that the patient fails to follow the doctor's advice. As soon as the patient feels better he stops the medicine. This may enable the development of resistant bacteria. For the full effectiveness against some infections it is important that the full course of treatment be carried out.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am troubled by insomnia. A phenobarbital pill helps solve my sleeplessness, but I'm worried that I might become addicted if I take it night after night. Is my worry groundless?

I find Tylenol helpful too, but I worry about that for the same reason. Do you think I may take one or two Tylenol tablets to overcome my insomnia? If you advise against both of these, I'd appreciate your letting me know the name of something I can take without fear of addiction.

DEAR READER — There are countless methods people use to get to sleep. What works for one does not work for another. I would agree that the continual use of phenobarbital may not be a good idea. I see no reason why you cannot take two Tylenol tablets if that does the trick for you, but I would not want my other readers to consider this an endorsement for Tylenol for sleeplessness. In this amount it should not harm you and if it works for you that is fine.

I have found that the antihistamines are often very useful to induce a pleasant sleep without any hangover effect or problems of addiction. Many people do well with a Banadryl capsule at bedtime. You would need to get the prescription from your doctor.

East-West vulnerable

West	North	East	South

Opening lead — 4 ♥

Take a look at the North hand only. You are not vulnerable and pass in second seat. Third hand, whose side is vulnerable, opens one heart. Your partner bids two diamonds, dealer three hearts. What should you do?

You are sure that the hand belongs to your opponents. They have a major suit — you have a minor. What do you think they can make?

Four hearts surely, maybe five — possibly six. If you pass or bid just four diamonds they will go about their business cheerily.

Suppose you jump right to five diamonds. This bid is what is called a premature save. You are forcing your opponents to go about blindly in a fog. They can't use Blackwood. They can't make any slam try without actually bidding the slam.

When we watched this hand in a recent rubber-bridge game North made his bid. East studied a long while. He hated to give up game, rubber and 100 honors, but finally made the right decision and doubled.

This way he did get 100 points for setting South. Better than going down one at five hearts, but a far worse result than playing and making four hearts.

Ask the Jacobys

We continue to get questions about the use of the five-club response to a Blackwood four notrump to show either no aces or four.

This variation in Blackwood is standard expert practice and is used by Easley Blackwood himself. The idea is that the Blackwood bidder who has at least one ace will know what the bid means. If he has no aces he should be able to tell that his partner is showing all four.

Tooth decay an old problem

Question arises as to how long the science boys have known that sugar causes dental cavities. That goes way back. Queen Elizabeth I in the late 1500s complained mightily of toothaches, and a German scholar named Hentzer blamed her love of sugar. Neither the old Romans or Greeks knew about sugar itself. But the writings of Aristotle in the Fourth Century B.C. contained the query: "Why do figs, which are soft and sweet, damage teeth?"

LOVE AND WAR

Q. "All the sob-sister advice we ever read in the paper is aimed at girls. Ask your Love and War man to send a few wise words to us guys."

A. Team up with an ambitious energetic and good-looking girl who likes to bake her own bread, he counsels. Do not delay. Marry her immediately. Women who do such baking for themselves tend to be better than average at coping with dead batteries, carpenter ants and returned checks stamped insufficient funds.

It has been widely reported that various types of coins tend to collect in certain cities. A client asks, "Where do most of the nickels wind up?" In Baltimore, Louisville and Nashville it's said.

If you can rustle up about 40,000 golf balls, you'll have enough to operate a fair-sized driving tee throughout one full summer.

BUY A BABY?

Not only can a childless couple buy a newborn baby in Los Angeles now, but they can pick out the natural parents of their choice 10 months in advance. Or so say the city's legal officers. The potential buyers examine snapshots of numerous handsome young men and pretty women who offer their services for fees. These momentary mates are not necessarily known to one another previously. Claim is some buyers pay up to $50,000.

More cheating goes on in those friendly little private card games than in all other forms of gambling combined. Such has been the contention of that expert John Scarne. It was he, you may recall, who claimed crooked dice turn up in one out of every 20 private crap games.

UP WITH FLAG — Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire receives the American flag from Harriet Harrison, in costume at the dedication of a new Ganesha Park flagpole. The flag once flew over the nation's Capitol.

Ganesha Park flagpole dedicated at ceremonies

It's taken the efforts of the Pomona Avenue of Flags Committee, financial contribution of the Pomona Host Lions Club and the participation of city officials.

The result: a flagpole in Ganesha Park.

Former Pomona Mayor James Baker, immediate past president of the Host Lions Club, served as master of ceremonies at the July 4 dedication of the newly installed pole.

The first flag to be flown on the pole was presented by Harriet Harrison, president of the Avenue of Flags Committee. Once flown over the nation's Capitol, it was purchased through the joint efforts of Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., and the committee.

Mrs. Edwin Greenwood, representing the Rancho San Jose Parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, presented the California flag.

The Pomona Fire Department honor guard raised the flag. Members of the committee, club and other patriotic and fraternal organizations attended the ceremony.

Chino not impressed with Cable

Chino residents apparently will not be getting cable television in the near future.

City officials, with council approval, have decided not to pursue any cable TV service until that industry "regains its financial stability."

Staff members will continue to monitor the industry and report any changs to the council.

In a survey of five area cities which have Theta Cable TV, Chino's planning staff concluded that financial instability was the major problem.

Ontario, Montclair and Upland "all have had problems with their existing CATV system," said Gale Carr, director of community development. "Lack of finances caused several repercussions; systems were not completed on schedule, areas were not being served, programming was cut and rates were increased."

Carr added the staff feels at this time that "The cable industry would not be able to provide an adequate CATV system to Chino that would serve the community needs."

Cuts corners

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Cliff Baxter sent her 8-year-old son Bobby to mail a letter. He soon returned and handed her some change.

"But the money was for the stamp," Mrs. Baxter pointed out.

"Oh, I didn't have to buy a stamp," the boy said proudly. "I put the letter in the box when nobody was looking."

Grafting means joining parts of two or more plants together so they grow to be one plant.

If the top of a young crab apple tree, for example, is cut off and a live twig of a golden delicious apple tree grafted in its place, a new golden delicious apple tree will grow.

The apples will be the same as those that grew on the tree from which the twig was cut.

A tree that bears specially fine fruit may supply grafts for many ordinary trees, thus improving an orchard.

Grafting is also important for growing fruits that have lost their ability to produce seeds, such as seedless oranges, grapefruit and grapes.

In grafting, the stems are cut so that the layer of living cells just inside the bark of the two parts touch each other and grow together. The joining is usually tied together and protected with a coating of grafting wax.

Practically all our fruit today is from fruit trees that have been grafted.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Suicide pact or just 'contagious?'

Three friends end lives in span of 16 days

OIL CITY, Pa. (AP) — The three young men traveled in the same circles. Same friends, same bars, same parties.

Their lifestyles were similar, including a history of drugs, alcohol, depression and psychiatric treatment.

And within a span of 16 days last May, each committed suicide and was buried by the same priest in the same cemetery.

"I haven't heard of anything like it before," said Dr. Alan Beck, a psychiatrist at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School and a specialist on depression and suicide.

About 12 suicides occur each year per 100,000 persons. Thus a city the size of Oil City, a community of 17,500 along the banks of the Allegheny River in northwestern Pennsylvania, should average less than two suicides a year of all ages, he said.

There was talk that the three made a suicide pact, but no evidence has been found.

"It sounds like 'contagious' might be a good word to use," said Beck. "I think it wouldn't be too far off to say that the suicide of the first one helped to crystalize the plans of the next two. But they had to be predisposed that way."

It was May 9, Mothers Day, when Robert J. Morgan Jr., 23, a lift operator at Joy Manufacturing Co. in nearby Franklin, shot himself to death on the back porch of his home. The fatal wound was inflicted from beneath his chin with a .16-gauge shotgun, the coroner's report says.

His body was found at 5:45 a.m. His shoes were off, he was wearing a blue denim shirt and jeans. A cigarette butt and an open can of beer were nearby.

"He was a close friend," said Elizabeth McCloud. "We were together the night before. Playing pinball at the Oasis, a local tavern.

"He left early, didn't drink much. He was excited because he had just got promoted. He had just bought a new car. Things were looking better. It had taken a long time for him to come back."

She was talking about a previous suicide attempt in 1973 when Morgan was hospitalized with slashed wrists. He had been under psychiatric treatment until October 1974, the coroner's report said.

On May 23, Joseph Paul Grieff, 24, an attendant at Polk State School and Hospital in Franklin, shot himself with a .30-30 rifle. The top of his head was blown away. Just before killing himself, he took out his high school photo and shot several holes in it.

Grieff and Morgan were graduated from high school in 1970.

The night before his death, Grieff admitted himself to the psychiatric care unit of the Oil City Hospital, but he stayed only two hours before signing himself out and returning home.

"Grieff told his brother that he planned on killing himself," said the Rev. Angus Watkins, head of Youth Alternatives, a local counseling service.

Four days later, on May 27, David Lewis Lamberton, 21, unemployed, still on probation from jail sentence for robbery, committed suicide, hanging himself in his bedroom clothes closet.

His mother and sister found him at 7 p.m. He had tied a webbed strap around his neck, then attached the strap to a clothes bar.

Watkins believes that most people would prefer to forget what happened instead of ask why the suicides occurred. He said.

Lebanon's death figures unknown

BEIRUT Lebanon (AP) —No one knows how many people have died in the Lebanese civil war, which has destroyed the country's record keeping system along with the central government. Estimates range from 15,000 to 50,000.

The low figure comes from a combination of totals given by the Palestinian guerrilla command, best organized force on the Moslem-leftist side of the war, and the fledging provisional administrations starting to run things in the Christian enclave on the other side.

The Palestinian command said it has kept a record of Moslem and Palestinian deaths and the total is 12,000, only a small percentage of them combatants.

The Christian organization Ear Al Amal (Labor House) says no more than 3,000 Christians have been killed, 500 of them combatants.

The official radio in Syria, which has sent troops into Lebanon to try to stop the war, says 50,000 have died.

In between is an estimate based on figures compiled each day by a Beirut police reporter who checks with big hospitals, private armies and his sources in the disintegrated police force who still try to stay in touch with the situation.

Each day, the newsman, Bahjat Jaber, visits Hisham Shaar, former chief of the national police. Shaar has nothing but a title — general director of an administration which has ceased to exist.

Like the 18,000-man armed forces, police have either drifted to their homes or have taken to fighting with one side or the other in the 15-month-old war.

Shaar, talking with former colleagues, gets an idea each day of the level of combat and number of casualties. Hospitals give their figures, which are factual, and the private armies give their figures, which are self-serving.

The total dead in the entire war, according to Jaber's daily compilations, is about 32,000. But he thinks this figure is low.

"Who knows how many bodies were bulldozed underground after the Christians overran the Moslem slum of Karantina, or how many were shoved into mass graves when the Moslems retaliated and took Damour," he said. Damour was a Christian enclave in the Moslem-held sector.

He said 5,000 to 6,000 persons are "missing."

There are several dreadful repositories for bodies of people captured by both sides and killed, as well as for victims of private quarrels or robbery — killed with impunity in the absence of police. Prisons have been emptied of 7,000 criminals.

Bodies are dumped each day at the former skeet-shooting grounds at the Christian edge of the front line which divides Beirut. Under an overpass at the Moslem edge of no-man's land more bodies rot, believed mostly Christians.

Occasionally, a self-appointed team with face masks brings wood, tires or kerosene and burns the bodies.

Lebanon was a country of about three million before it started destroying itself.

BERRY DAIRY DESSERT

Cool as a breeze berry dairy dessert for summer

Light as a cloud . . . cool as a breeze . . . heavenly desserts from dairyland. What more could you ask for a summer dessert than berries and cream done up in two exciting new ways? These colorful desserts are not only appealing to see and taste but they are also easy to make. Start with wholesome dairy foods and fresh or frozen berries for two delightfully refreshing creations.

Heavenly Strawberry Cream is a light fluffy mixture of beaten egg white, sugar and strawberries blended into dairy sour cream. Chill or freeze, whichever you wish. It's a perfect summer dessert either way. Garnish each serving with the prettiest, juiciest strawberry you can find. If you're having a party, make it the night before, spoon into dessert dishes and freeze so all you have to do is add the garnish and it's ready to serve.

The handsome Raspberry Mallow Dessert has a milk, whipped cream and marshmallow filling which takes no big effort. To assemble, simply melt the marshamllows in milk and fold into whipped cream. We suggest baking the graham cracker and butter crust because we like the way its crisp texture contrasts with the light filling. However, you can skip the baking step if it seems like too much work or you don't want to heat the oven. The colorful topping is made with a package of frozen raspberries. It adds a lively flavor and color accent to the creamy filling. Use your own artistry to design the marshmallow petal garnish. Slice big marshmallows with scissors, dip their sticky centers into colored sugar and make your own posy design.

As a little reminder, milk and all dairy products are perishable foods. Heat and light destroy the nutrients in milk so be sure to store it and all other liquid milk products in the refrigerator as soon as purchased.

RASPBERRY MALLOW DESSERT

- 1½ cups graham cracker crumbs
- 6 tablespoons sugar
- ¼ cup butter, melted
- ½ pound large marshmallows (32)
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract
- 1 cup milk
- 1 pint whipping cream
- 1 (10-ounce) package frozen raspberries
- ½ cup water
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch

Mix crumbs, 2 tablespoons sugar and butter. Press against bottom and sides of 8-inch springform pan. Bake in 375 degree oven about 8 minutes. Meanwhile heat marshmallows, milk and almond extract over medium heat until marshmallows melt. Stir to blend. Chill until mixture begins to set. Whip cream until stiff. Fold in marshmallow mixture. Pour into crumb crust. Chill until firm. Partially defrost raspberries and strain off juice. Combine juice with water, remaining 4 tablespoons sugar, lemon juice and cornstarch. Cook and stir over medium heat until clear and thickened. Return raspberries to glaze and spoon over top of filling. Decorate as desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

HEAVENLY STRAWBERRY CREAM

- 1½ cups sliced strawberries
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg white
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract
- 1 pint dairy sour cream

Beat strawberries with sugar, egg white, salt and almond extract with electric mixer at high speed until mixture is light and fluffy and forms soft peaks. (This may take 5 minutes.) Fold into sour cream. Chill until ready to serve or freeze until firm. If frozen, let soften slightly before serving. Makes 1½ quarts.

Sing a song for tart early summer apples

Comes July and summer apples starting appearing in produce displays. A greater choice of varieties may be found at retail farm markets in producing areas. These are fresh apples produced this year. Unlike Red and Golden Delicious, McIntosh, Jonathan and Rome Beauty and other apples that travel well from state to state, the early apples generally stay put in the community where they are grown. They don't store or ship well because the skins are tender and they bruise easily and become overripe rather quickly. But many epicures believe they make the best apple pies, applesauce and jelly.

What are the best varieties of early apples? That depends on where you are located as no one variety is widely distributed. Popular varieties include: Lodi, Yellow Transparent, Summer Rambo, Williams Red, Red Astrachuan, Crimson Beauty, Early McIntosh, Julyred, Starr, Wealthy, Dutchess, Gravenstein, Summer Champion, and a number of others. And these July and August varieties are followed by early fall varieties such as Melba, Beacon and Kendall, in late August and early September.

"Early" apples are fully mature — they are not the "green" apples associated with summer complaint and upset stomach. They have a higher acid content and are a bit more tart than apples that mature in the fall and this, plus being "first of the season" accounts for their popularity.

For superb applesauce and jelly cook the apples with the skins on as that's where most of the pectin is. If the skin is red, the red color comes through as a most appealing pink. There are many connoiseurs of apple cookery, who insist that that first summer apple pie is unmatched for flavor throughout the rest of the year.

Fresh applesauce is often served as a meat accompaniment with summer meals. It has a tart, full apple flavor specially good with ham, pork chops, spareribs and barbecued chicken. Some persons like smooth applesauce, run through the colander or sieve. Others like the chunky style. Following are suggestions for both.

SMOOTH APPLESAUCE

Quarter 6 medium summer apples and remove cores. Do not peel. Place apples in 3-quart saucepan over high heat and add 1 cup apple juice. Bring apples to a boil, then reduce heat to low. Cover and simmer 10 to 12 minutes until apples are tender. Add 1/3 cup sugar and press apples through a mill to remove skins. Or, the mixture may be put into a blender. The skins will be pulverized making a smooth sauce. Makes about 4 cups.

CHUNKY APPLESAUCE

Peel, core and cut up 6 medium size summer apples and place in a 3-quart saucepan. Add ½ cup water, 1/3 cup sugar and bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low; cover and simmer 8 to 10 minutes or until tender. Makes 3½ to 4 cups.

UNCOOKED FRESH APPLESAUCE

Peel, core and cut up 6 medium summer apples, placing the sections in cold salted water for at least 10 minutes and not over 1 hour. This prevents browning. About 5 minutes before serving time drain the apples, place half in the blender with ½ cup apple juice, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and 3 tablespoons sugar. Cover and blend at high speed until pureed. Pour into serving dishes and blend remaining apples. Makes 3 cups, about 6 servings.

VARIATIONS FOR APPLESAUCE

To make applesauce more tart, add a teaspoon or two of lemon juice. Cinnamon, nutmeg, orange and lemon peel are freindly flavors with fresh applesauce. A ¼ cup of raisins or chopped candied ginger give interesting texture and flavor. Honey, molasses or light brown sugar may be used in place of white granulated sugar.

APPLE JUICE BASE FOR JELLIES

Cut 4 pounds (3 quarts) tart apples into quarters. Do not pare or core. Add 2 quarts water. Cook 20 to 30 minutes, or until apples are tender. Strain through a dampened jelly bag. Makes about 6 cups juice.

APPLE JELLY

Measure apple juice (above). Add 1 cup of sugar to each cup of juice. Stir until sugar dissolves. Boil rapidly until a good jelly test results. Skim; pour into sterilized glasses at once. Paraffin. Cool. Put on covers and labels.

Try this cool salad

Take the simmer out of summer and keep your cool on these hot, muggy days by serving spectacular and simple salads. Whatever the occasion, there's a salad to suit it!

This Scrumptious Chicken Salad would be a beautiful buffet brightener for a summertime patio party. Prepare it in the cool of the morning and let the flavors mellow and blend during the day.

Dainty macaroni rings, flavorful chunks of chicken, juicy pineapple tidbits and plump sweet peas makes this salad a rainbow of color. It's a main dish attraction . . . all that needs to be added is a bread, beverage and luscious dessert.

SCRUMPTIOUS CHICKEN SALAD

- 1½ cups uncooked macaroni rings
- 1½ cups cut-up cooked chicken
- 2/3 cup finely chopped celery
- 1 (17-oz.) can young tender sweet peas, drained
- 1 (13¾ oz.) can pineapple tidbits, drained
- ¼ cup slivered almonds
- 2 tablespoons diced pimiento
- 1 to 1¼ cups mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1¼ teaspoons seasoned salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper

Cook macaroni rings according to package directions; rinse and drain. In a large bowl, combine marcaroni, chicken, celery, peas, pineapple, almonds and pimiento. Combine remaining ingredients in a small bowl; gently stir into chicken mixture. Cover and chill several hours. If desired, garnish with paprika, fresh parsley or almonds at serving time. Serves 6.

These curried beef balls are sure to be a big hit

Summer meals too often fall into a "hit or miss" pattern. With the family's many summer activities and varying time schedules, meals are frequently rushed, staggered, late or skipped all together. Yet if the family is to meet the demands of summer and to feel in top shape, relaxed, well-balanced meals are a must.

How can a homemaker meet the challenge of serving meals that score points for good nutrition?

One step in the right direction is to strive for menus that are so varied and appealing that the family will go out of their way not to miss them. Keeping interest high, of course, means continually revising and updating menu plans with new and unusual main dishes. Curried Beef Balls and Macaroni is one such offering that will help win the good nutrition game.

It's a three part entree attraction with plump, juicy meatballs, a flavorful curry sauce and a macaroni and celery base. While curry dishes are often thought of as exotic and mysterious, this one fits right into everyday meal plans for the curry is used as a subtle seasoning to accent the popular meatballs. Cooked macaroni, a good base for the meatballs and sauce, takes on extra interest when cooked with sliced celery and brightened with snipped parsley.

CURRIED MEAT BALLS AND MACARONI

2 pounds ground beef
1 egg
¼ cup water
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 medium onion, chopped
¼ cup water
2 teaspoon sugar
2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon dry mustard
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1¼ cups water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ cups sliced celery
1 cup uncooked macaroni
2 tablespoons snipped parsley

Beat egg with ¼ cup water, salt and pepper; combine with meat and bread crumbs, divide into 16 equal portions and shape into balls. Brown in lard or drippings in large frying-pan; remove balls from pan and pour off all but 1 tablespoon drippings. Lightly brown onion in drippings, return meat balls to pan and add ¼ cup water. Cover tightly and cook slowly 15 minutes. Combine flour, sugar, salt, curry powder, mustard and pepper and gradually add 1¼ cups water and lemon juice to blend; stir into cooking liquid in frying-pan and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Cover tightly and cook slowly 15 minutes. Cook celery and macaroni in 3 cups boiling salted water for 8 minutes; drain thoroughly; fold in parsley. Remove meat balls from sauce and place on platter with macaroni and celery. Serve with curry sauce. 8 servings.

Since nutrition is a primary concern for family meals, it's reassuring to know that the ground beef in this recipe is an excellent source of important nutrients. There's plenty of high quality protein with all the essential amino acids necessary to build, maintain and repair body tissues and strengthen the body's defenses against infection and disease. You also can count on ground beef to supply B vitamins such as niacin, thiamin, riboflavin, B6 and B12 and minerals, especially iron.

Think of good nutrition, too, when planning the rest of the menu. Buttered green beans will boost the mineral and vitamin rating as will a cool gelatin salad studded with fresh fruits such as diced peaches, green grapes and sliced bananas. For a final serge of energy, end the meal with vanilla ice cream and chocolate brownies for those who need it.

Carrots—tops for all seasons

Wearing feathery carrot leaves in one's hair was considered the height of fashion among ladies in 15th century England, where the carrot had recently been introduced. Carrots are fashionable today — for eating — according to U. S. Department of Agriculture figures on per capita consumption of fresh vegetables.

Each person on the average in 1974 ate more than seven pounds of fresh carrots, an increase of 11% from 1967. For today's carrot lovers, fresh carrots are coming to market in plentiful supply. In fact, carrots are listed as a "special" in the monthly Food Marketing Alert published by the USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service. Fresh carrots are available on the market all year, however, with ample supplies at most times.

Carrots for fresh market are usually harvested before reaching full maturity and are shipped immediately. They are smaller, more tender, milder in flavor and brighter in external color than carrots which are harvested for storage.

Although a small volume of bunched carrots, with tops attached, can be found in some markets, you will usually find carrots topped or sold in packages. Packaged carrots are often labeled U. S. No. 1. This U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) grade means good quality. (See following story).

U. S. No. 1 carrots are firm and fairly well formed, and few carrots in the package have defects. Their color is orange to orange-red, not pale orange or yellow. Most of the carrots in a package must be at least 5 inches long and between ¾ and 1½ inches in diameter, unless the package is marked otherwise.

Look for firm, well-formed, smooth, orange to orange-red carrots with well-trimmed tops. Wilted, flabby, soft, shriveled carrots or carrots with large green areas (sunburn) at the top should be avoided. Also avoid topped carrots that have green shoots and bunched carrots that have yellow tops. Carrots which are excessively forked, rough, or cracked may cause considerable waste in preparation. Decay usually appears as soft or watersoaked areas which may be partially covered with mold.

Fresh carrots can be stored in the hydrator of your refrigerator for three to four weeks.

SAVORY CARROTS

1 pound scraped carrots cut in ¼ inch stripes or pennies
1 cup celery cut in 1 inch chunks
2 tablespoons chopped onion
½ teaspoon caraway seeds, basil, or dill (optional)
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups hot milk
1 tablespoon butter

In a greased one quart casserole, layer carrots and celery; sprinkle with flour, salt, spice, onion and dot with butter. Repeat layers until all the vegetables and ingredients are used except the milk and the last tablespoon of butter. Pour the hot milk over the top and dot with remaining butter. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Remove cover and continue baking until vegetables are tender — about 30 to 45 minutes. Serves 6.

CARROT SOUP

3 cups sliced carrots
1 cup diced potatoes
6 cups chicken or beef stock
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground mace
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons butter
Chopped fresh parsley
Cooked carrot rings

Cook carrots and potatoes in stock until tender, about 25 minutes. Push through a sieve. Add seasoning and butter. Serve hot, garnished with chopped parsley and a few cooked carrot rings. Yields 6 servings.

Sardines are savory snacks

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The Portuguese have long insisted that the only true sardine is a silvery fish whose technical name is Sardina Pilchardis. For centuries it has been caught off the coast of Portugal, as well as Spain and France. At one point, a British court upheld this claim and ruled that the name "Sardine" must apply to members of the Sardina Pilchardis family.

Actually sardine has become a marketing term applied to a number of richly-flavored species of the herring family that have soft bones and can be preserved in oil.

Until a few years ago, California fishermen netted thousands of tons of pilchards each year. They gave these cousins of the European pilchard the name sardine and created a $50 million-a-year industry. Then the pilchards began to disappear from American waters.

In Maine, fishermen haul in Atlantic herrings known as fingerlings and call them sardines, causing some indignation among the purist types in Europe.

Off the shores of Italy's Lake Como, fishermen catch a small flat freshwater fish which goes by the name of Lake Sardine and is held in high esteem. For an hors d'oeuvre it is cooked in oil, then marinated in vinegar, which has been boiled with

Empty nesters are streamlining their kitchen techniques

Appears that homemakers in their middle years are streamlining their kitchen techniques. They cook creatively but take fewer steps, placing an importance on convenience and ease in preparation.

"I don't work as hard in the kitchen as I used to. Before, everything was made from scratch. Now, I open a package of this and a package of that."

These are the comments made by homemakers in their middle years, age 45-65, whose children have grown and left home. To learn more about this newly identified market segment, sometimes referred to as "empty nesters", the Frozen Food Industry interviewed these mature consumers in the West and Midwest recently.

It was learned by Frozen Food Facts that mature consumers are focusing on self-fulfillment and a rich full life. Many have adopted new life styles for themselves, fulfilling a need to be more personally creative. Almost one-third of consumers over 50 see the homemakers role less rigid and rigorous and they are expanding their individual options. In fact, 10 million women between 45 and 65, that is nearly half of all women in that age bracket, are part of the work force now.

In a time of emerging new freedoms and attitudes, how are these mature homemakers spending their leisure time and disposable income? How do they approach meal preparation now that the children are gone? What is important in terms of menu selection . . . cost, nutrition or taste? These are the kinds of questions asked mature consumers by the Frozen Food Industry in a series of focus group discussions in Chicago and Los Angeles. Through their dialogue with these homemakers, it was learned that mature homemakers are working less in the kitchen and enjoying it more! They approach mealtime in a much more casual manner.

With a more relaxed attitude about food preparation, many seem to have acquired a confidence and know-how over the years.

"I improvise more now than I did. I guess I know more about cooking than when I was younger."

"The older I get, it seems the more I can take a little of this and a little of that and put a fine meal together, I create my own recipes" "I read the basics and then I substitute. If it calls for nuts, I add raisins or something else."

The mature homemakers interviewed place great importance on convenience and ease in meal preparation. "I've started to buy frozen bell peppers already cleaned and diced because of the convenience." "I like the convenience of frozen vegetables like broccoli. It is already washed off and chopped up." Another homemaker said, "I buy frozen pies and waffles rather than keep the things around to make them with."

It was generally agreed that the "empty nesters" interviewed entertain less than when their children were around. When asked why, they responded: "I don't like all the cleaning up." "It is expensive to entertain these days." "The relatives I used to entertain, entertain us now."

It may be true that this group is entertaining less than when their families were growing up, but when asked how they spend their disposable income, most said on entertainment and travel. "Entertaining at mealtime is too much for us. Now, we just have people over for dessert and coffee or for drinks." "If I'm going to have company, I like to serve frozen pies. The French apple and strawberry rhubarb are very good." So, they are still entertaining, but the style is changing!

Cold beef is perfect for picnic lunches

One of the most pleasant, easy ways to entertain friends is a picnic lunch. Serving hearty cold roast beef always makes it a special occasion. And what could be easier for the cook and more pleasing to all! For the beef, select a lean bone-less cut, such as the compact rump roast used here, to cook a day ahead. It should be well chilled to take on the picnic. Pack along a sharp knife and a board for slicing the roast when you reach the picnic spot. With a loaf of french bread, salad greens, pickles, condiments and dressing you have all the fixings for gourmet beef sandwiches. Guest assemble their own. Iced white wine makes a refreshing and festive beverage to complement the cold rare beef.

Consumer specialists for the California Beef Council suggest using rump roasts and other less tender cuts that can be successfully oven roasted, rotisserie roasted or cooked on the grill. The key to tender beef is in marinating the roast overnight or longer. The tomato juice and vinegar marinade accented with chili, all-spice and garlic produces a terrific barbecue flavor with a slightly sweet sour quality. Piercing the beef after pouring on the marinade aids in better penetration for flavor and tenderizing effects. Whether the roast is oven cooked at 325 degrees, spit roasted or cooked on a raised grill over the coals, brush it occasionally with the marinade for extra flavor and juiciness. The council also recommends that less tender roasts should never be cooked beyond medium rare for the juiciest, tenderest meat. Other economical choices for cold picnic fare are boneless chuck, cross rib, sirloin tip and top round roasts.

During the warmer months, protect beef and other perishables by transporting to beach, campsite or picnic area in ice chests or insulated carriers.

MARINATED BEEF RUMP ROAST

2½ pound beef rump roast
2 cups canned tomato juice
¾ cup vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoon chili powder
2 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon allspice
1 large clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons cooking oil

Place beef in deep bowl or other tight fitting container. Mix all remaining ingredients. Pour over roast. Pierce with skewer in many places. Cover and marinate in refrigerator several hours or overnight. mount and balance roast on rotisserie spit, tightening holding forks. Insert meat thermometer into center of roast without letting it touch spit. Cook beef several inches above medium hot coast 1½ hours or until done as desired. (When internal heat register 140 degrees, beef is medium rare.) Add coals while barbecuing to maintain even heat. Brush now and then with marinade. Makes enough for 8 to 10 sandwiches.

Picnic Menu: Sliced beef, french bread, crinkle cut pickles, carrots and mustard mayonnaise dressing.

Sauerkraut stretches meals

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Sauerkraut helps stretch dishes and goes well with poultry and meats other than frankfurters. Have you thought of a chicken-kraut skillet dish which is zipped up with peppers and tomato? This is a one-dish meal because you also may add potatoes to the skillet or serve the chicken and kraut over rice.

CHICKEN AND KRAUT SKILLET

¼ cup butter or margarine
1 large onion, sliced
1 cup green pepper strips
1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes, undrained
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
2 cups diced cooked chicken
2 cups drained sauerkraut (about 16 ounces)
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon crushed oregano
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 cups cooked rice

In large skillet, melt butter over low heat. Add onion and green pepper and cook 5 minutes. Add remaining ingredients except rice; mix well. Cover and cook 20 minutes. Serve chicken and kraut sauce over rice. Makes 4 servings.

ROUND DOGS WITH CARAWAY KRAUT

2 cups undrained sauerkraut (about 16 ounces)
1 teaspoon caraway seed
3 tablespoons bottled French dressing
½ teaspoon seasoned salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
8 frankfurters
8 frankfurter buns, split and toasted

In bowl, combine undrained kraut, caraway seed, French dressing and salt; mix well. Chill. Cut 10 deep slits in each frankfurter without cutting all the way through. In skillet, melt butter or margarine. Add frankfurters and cook until browned on all sides. Arrange kraut mixture on bottoms of buns. Top with frankfurters and tops of buns. Makes 8 servings.

English gill

Delving into some of our early American cookbooks? When recipes call for a "gill," you can use ½ cup. But if the cookbook is an English one, remember that the English gill is ½ cup plus 2 tablespoons.

KAHLUA CREPES

Kahlua crepes make a elegant, delicate dessert

Dessert, after-dinner drink and coffee all in one! Adding versatile Kahlua to most dessert crepe batters enlivens the often nondescript taste with subtle sweetness. And the coffee-flavored cream topping teams up for a delightfully delicate dessert.

KAHLUA CREPES

- 2 large eggs
- ¾ cup milk
- 2/3 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons Kahlua
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Butter or oil for cooking crepes
- 2 small bananas, sliced
- Kahlua Cream
- Kahlua

Combine eggs, milk, flour, melted butter, 2 tablespoons Kahlua and salt in blender jar. Blend smooth. (Or, beat with rotary beater until smooth.) Let batter stand 1 hour. Heat a 7-inch crepe pan, brush lightly with butter or oil, and turn 2 tablespoons batter into pan. Tilt pan quickly to spread. Cook over moderate heat until lightly browned. Turn and brown second side. Turn out, and repeat until all of batter is baked. Crepes may be baked a day or two in advance of serving, if desired. Cool, stack with waxed paper between, cover closely and refrigerate. To serve, reheat in low oven. Fold each crepe in quarters. Serve 3 crepes to a person, topped with banana, Kahlua Cream and a drizzle of Kahlua. Makes 4 servings.

Kahlua Cream

Combine ½ cup whipping cream, 1½ teaspoons each sugar and Kahlua, ¼ teaspoon each instant coffee crystals and vanila. Let stand a few minutes to soften coffee crystals. Beat to soft peaks. Fold in 2 tablespoons chopped toasted filberts or almonds.

Go easy on snack food this summer

By Gaynor Maddox

Summer is here and that means hot humid weather and in general less interest in heavy, complete meals. We tend to eat more snack foods and quick foods bought along the road when traveling.

How wise is it to go easy on food when the temperature is high? Should we limit ourselves to salads and tall cold drinks?

In general, the answer is a definite NO.

Most nutritionists agree that the answer is no, but with some qualifications. For the elderly and the overweight fewer calories are needed in hot weather. For the rest of us, eat as much as you are comfortable with, but where possible, change to more easily digestible foods.

The human body requires nourishments whether the weather is cold or hot. Particularly if you go in for ahtletics during the long and sunny summer days. Swimming, tennis, bicycle riding, walks, through the woods, mountain climbing, yes, and even jumping rope, demand more nurishment, explains Anita Fial, nutritionist, trained at Cornell, and an executive in a large food affiliated corporation.

She adds, "You will need just as much protein, calories and other nutrients on hot days as on cold days. Your body requires a balanced diet, not a specialized diet, during the hot weather just as it does in cold weather. It may require a little more in fact, because warm weather lures people into more strenuous activities."

She stresses the importance of a sound breakfast before the sun gets too hot. All experiments and tests have shown that the average person resists summer wilt and body exhaustion when the day starts with a good breakfast — some protein, some cereal, some fruit and milk. "That is a demonstrable fact, not just talk," she stresses.

"The mid-morning coffee break is not the same thing. At least start your hot day on a solidly nutritious base and you'll be surprised how well you can exist throughout the day, no matter what the temperature is."

Restating her conviction that more protein and other nutrients will be needed in summer for athletically-inclined people, she reemphasizes the importance of balanced meals.

"No miracle diets, no crank diets, but the basic diet pattern established by nutritionists and doctors at universities and in research laboratories. In general — fruit, some protein such as eggs, cheese, fish or meat, peanut butter, and cereal and bread. Plus milk to drink and ice cream. Don't rely on trick diets!"

Poaching fruit cooks in flavor

The first fresh peaches of the season are in — and California, where more than half of the nation's peaches are grown, expects to deliver a bumper crop this year.

That means lots of good fresh peach eating through September. After a long winter of waiting, the very first varieties (primarily the Springcrest, Early Coronet and Royal May) taste especially delicious fresh and whole from the warm California orchards for out-of-hand eating. These first peaches are also excellent for poaching, though, so save a few for this new easy peach compote.

Blushing Peach Compote is a luscious summer dessert — refreshingly light and cool. Fresh peach halves are gently simmered in a spicy, orange-flavored syrup for a few minutes, then chilled so the flavors can mellow. The poaching process enhances that wonderful peachy flavor, yet protects the fruit's tender, juicy texture.

For additional ways to use and serve fresh peaches and other California summer fruits, write for your free copy of a colorful 48-page booklet. Prepared by the growers of California summer fruits, this beautifully illustrated booklet contains more than 100 tested recipes. Please send a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope to "FRUITS OF SUMMER," P.O. Box 255383, Sacramento, California 95825.

BLUSHING PEACH COMPOTE

- 8 large fresh peaches, peeled
- 2 cups water
- 1 cup orange juice
- 1/3 cup lemon juice
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons red cinnamon candies
- 12 whole cloves
- 1 cinnamon stick

Have peaches and remove pit. Combine remaining ingredients in large saucepan. Add peach halves; simmer 10 minutes, or until peaches are easily pierced. Cool peach halves in syrup. Chill. Serve with cookies or light cake.

Makes 8 servings.

Super Coupon Savings at Ralphs and Special Purchase of Western Yearling Beef

Ralphs has made a special purchase of western grass-fed yearling beef. Because it's leaner than mature grain-fed beef, it's lower in fat and it's much lower in price. Because this yearling beef is so lean, we recommend that you tenderize or marinate it before broiling or barbecuing. In fact, cooking instructions are included with each package. You can also choose from our regular selection of Ralphs Meat Master Beef, but while supply lasts, you have an alternative in type of beef and price. As always, Ralphs unconditionally guarantees satisfaction or your money refunded.

AMARETTO DI SARONNO, STRAWBERRIES

Berries, liquer are a delicious pair

Some of us never outgrow that marvelous childhood trait of saving the best for last . . . be it the biggest strawberry on the strawberry shortcake, the maraschino cherry atop the sundae, or the jelly part of the jelly doughnut. Today we offer a couple of recipes that will delight the best-for-last contingent. In fact, they might even pose all sorts of mouthwatering decisions as to what should constitute the last bite.

Both recipes make excellent use of those yummy strawberries that beckon so temptingly at produce counters currently. Incidentally, did you know that the wild strawberry — the forerunner of today's cultivated strawberry — had its origin in northern Italy? We also have Italy to thank for another ingredient in today's recipes. Amaretto di Saronno, the delectable liqueur, was created in 1525 by a beautiful young innkeeper in the little village of Saronno near Milan. Centuries later, Amaretto di Saronno is still produced in Saronno and appreciatively enjoyed by a growing number of fans in this country.

On the assumption that you can never had enough of a good thing, both recipes are "super-strawberried" and therefore doubly delicious in our estimation. The Double-Strawberry Cream calls for both fresh and frozen strawberries for maximum strawberry flavor while the Strawberries di Saronno team up fresh strawberries and strawberry ice cream.

And for a sublime strawberry dessert that's the height of simplicity, just sweeten bowlful of beautiful strawberries with Amaretto di Saronno instead of sugar.

DOUBLE-STRAWBERRY CREAM

- 2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen sliced strawberries, thawed
- 3 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- ¼ cup sugar
- 4 egg yolks
- ½ cup Amaretto di Saronno
- 3 cups sliced fresh strawberries
- 1 cup (½ pint) heavy cream, whipped
- 4 egg whites, stiffly beaten
- Additional whipped cream and fresh strawberries

Put strawberries through strainer. Measure and add enough water to make 2½ cups. In a saucepan, combine gelatin, sugar, egg yolks, Amaretto di Saronno and strawberry mixture. Stir over low heat until mixture thickens and coats a spoon. Chill until mixture is slightly thickened. Fold in strawberries, whipped cream and beaten egg whites. Pour mixture into a lightly oiled 2-quart mold. Chill until firm. To unmold, dip mold into lukewarm water for a few seconds, tap to loosen and invert onto a serving platter. Garnish with whipped cream rosettes and strawberries. Chill until ready to serve. Makes 1 2-quart mold.

STRAWBERRIES DE SARONNO

- 1 pint strawberries
- 1 pint strawberry ice cream, softened
- ¼ cup Amaretto di Saronno
- 1/3 cup toasted, sliced almonds

Wash and hull strawberries. Halve lengthwise and place in dessert dishes. Quickly combine softened strawberry ice cream and Amaretto di Saronno. Spoon over strawberries. Sprinkle with toasted almonds. Makes 4 servings.

President . . .

this region nestled in the Rocky Mountains.

Vail is one of the most cosmopolitan towns in the American West, boasting more than 70 different restaurants and nightclubs and the President has apparently taken a broad sampling of the local cuisine.

Vail restaurants go in heavily for game dishes, such as roast elk, filet of antelope and venison stroganoff. One of the President's favorites, we are told, is elk; especially elk steaks more than an inch thick that have been well marinated in a mixture of red wine, soy sauce and olive oil, then grilled over hot coals after being sprinkled with salt, pepper and garlic.

Last winter, the Fords decided to have something different and the chef at one of his favorite inns served a slab of fresh veal liver that had been simmered in butter. But the Chief Executive's chief delight perhaps is fresh fish; particularly Rocky Mountain trout.

Like many resort areas, Vail and half a dozen neighboring ski centers are getting ready to salute the Bicentennial, mindful of the fact that Colorado is known as the Centennial State, since it was admitted to the Union in 1876. As an added gimmick the local chambers of commerce are hailing the occasion as the "suntennial" in an effort to point up the fact that Colorado can serve as a destination for summer travel as well as a winter sports mecca.

Colorado, which I have always considered one of America's most beautiful states, lies higher above sea level than any other state in the union. It has an average elevation of more than 6,800 feet and boasts hundreds of mountains that rise more than 1,000 feet; 53 of the peaks soar 14,000 feet or more into the sky.

Here is the recipe for fresh trout amandine, which is one of President Ford's vacation favorites.

- 2 10-ounce whole fresh trout, clean and dressed
- ½ cup flour
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 1 cup sliced blanched almonds
- 1 lemon sliced
- 2 sprigs parsley

Dust trout in flour and pan fry in 2 tablespoons of butter till golden brown, about 5 minutes for each side. In separate pan, melt remainder of butter and add almonds. Pour almonds and melted butter over trout. Garnish with lemon slices and parsley. Serves 2. Good with well chilled dry white wine.

Here's some tips for preparing sea food

Convenience in cooking is what every busy cook and working homemaker seeks in planning the family's weekly menus.

It takes only a matter of minutes to get a family meal out of the freezer and onto the table when the main course is a frozen fish or seafood dish. Frozen or thawed, fish cooks quickly and easily.

Unlike meat or poultry, fish is never cooked to tenderize it, but rather is cooked to bring out its delicate flavor and make its protein easier to digest.

Breaded frozen fish sticks, fish portions and specialty items, like shrimp and crabcakes, usually are best prepared when deep fat fried or oven finished, without prior thawing. You'll know fish is done when the flesh turns creamy white and becomes flaky. Do not overcook it, and never re-freeze already thawed fish.

Here are some quick tips for the most common methods of preparing frozen fish and seafood conveniently and easily. Fillets and steaks may be cooked without thawing, additional cooking time is allowed.

PAN FRYING — Thaw frozen fillets and pat dry. Season lightly and roll fish in a mixture of flour and cracker meal or cornmeal. Coat bottom of heavy skillet with oil or shortening, and fry fish over moderate heat until browned on both sides. Thickness of fish will determine frying time, but it is generally eight to 10 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper and serve.

DEEP FAT FRYING — Fill half of a deep kettle with fat and heat to 350 degrees. Place a single layer of small fish portions or fillets in a wire frying basket and lower basket gently into kettle to prevent excess bubbling. Fry until golden brown, usually three to five minutes. Drain fish on absorbent paper, return fat to 350 degrees and fry remaining fish.

BAKING — Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Place thawed fish fillets or steaks on greased baking pan. Season fish lightly and brush with butter, oil or sauce. Bake 15 to 25 minutes, depending on size and thickness of fish, or until fish flakes easily. Fish may be basted during baking.

BROILING — Brush fish with butter or oil, then place a single layer on well-greased broiler rack. Since broiling heat is direct and intense, keep fish three to four inches from heat. Baste well with shortening or sauce during broiling to keep fish moist. Thicker portions and whole fish should be turned half way through the broiling period. Allow five to 10 minutes to cook if fish is thawed, and 10 to 15 minutes if frozen.

POACHING — Place a single layer of thawed fillets in a wide, shallow frying pan or skillet. Barely cover fish with poaching liquid, such as lightly seasoned water, milk or court bouillon. Bring liquid to a boil, reduce heat and simmer until fish flakes easily, usually five to 10 minutes. For court bouillon: To water add lemon juice or white wine, salt, white pepper, bay leaf, thyme, coarsely chopped celery, onions and carrots.

STEAMING — Use a steam pot cooker or a deep pot with a wire rack and tight fitting lid. Pour about two inches of water, plain or seasoned, in the pot and bring to a rapid boil. Place thawed fish on rack or in basket, making sure fish stays above water level. Cover pot tightly and allow steam to cook fish for five to 10 minutes, or until fish flakes easily.

PLANKING — Oil plank or board and heat slowly in oven. Arrange thawed fish on warmed plank, season lightly and brush with butter or oil. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven until fish flakes easily. Serve on plank and garnish with potatoes and vegetables.

Skillet dish will be a barbecue hit

Why barbecue out-of-doors this summer? Just for the fun of it! Food cooked on the grill just naturally tastes better and has become an All-American summer pastime.

No need to make your outdoor cookery a repeat of hamburgers and hot dogs. Try these Barbecue Burgers in a skillet on the grill. Bottled barbecue sauce and the addition of a jar of sliced mushrooms give the gound beef its zesty rich flavor. Nothing's more fun to enjoy with your barbecues than corn-on-the-cob. And, convenient frozen corn-on-the-cob is like fresh-from-the-garden corn all year round. During the cookout months you'll want to wrap the corn in foil and pop it on your grill.

No picnic is complete without potato salad. Why not add a drained can of sweet peas to your favorite potato salad recipe. The peas add a bright touch of green and a flavor surprise.

BARBEQUE BURGERS

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 cup bottled barbecue sauce
- 1 2½-oz. jar sliced mushrooms, drained
- 1 tablespoon instant minced onions
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper

Brown ground beef in large skillet; drain off grease. Stir in remaining ingredients and simmer 5 to 10 minutes. Serve piping hot in fresh sandwich buns. Makes about 3 cups.

GRILL IT OR ROAST IT!

Using scissors or knife, remove frozen corn-on-the-cob from bag. Place on a large piece of heavy duty aluminum foil.

Double-fold foil tightly across top, leaving a little space for expansion of steam. Seal ends securely.

Place on grill over hot coals for 50 to 60 minutes, turning occasionally, or in a preheated 400 degree oven for 1 hour.

For a real taste treat, spread each ear of corn with softened butter and season with grated Parmesan cheese, chives and salt. Then wrap in foil and cook as directed.

Fried dandelion

Fried dandelion blooms, according to some who have tried them that way, taste like fried mushrooms.

Lucky is still the price leader!

Wheat germ adds texture

What's new about old fashioned cooky favorites? Taste, texture and extra nutrients when those oldies but goodies are made with delicious natural wheat germ. This handy, healthful cereal product zips up the peanut butter cookies, gingersnaps and chocolate refrigerator cookies shown here with its subtle nutty flavor. Somehow all these cookies made with wheat germ seem more substantial, more interesting and even better than mother used to bake. Offer 'em by the basketful this summer — they're super pickups to enjoy with chilled milk or other cooling beverages.

Here are the recipes for these all purpose wheat germ cookies to bake anytime and serve anywhere. The dough for the chocolate refrigerator cookies is shaped into a roll and refrigerated — great to have on hand during warm weather. Slice and bake as needed. The peanut butter cookies have a rich golden color and sweet buttery taste that makes them favorites of young and old alike. Equally delicious are the gingersnaps — perfectly spiced and crisp. All these recipes may be made with either regular wheat germ or wheat germ with sugar & honey. The jars are vacuum packed and available in the cereal section of your market.

When making fine quality wheat germ cookies, the baker always wants the best possible results for the investment of time and money. Food consultants offer these baking tips. Put dough on cool baking sheets so cookies will not lose their shape. Always fill out baking sheets spacing cookies evenly. Preheat oven. And last but not least, cool cookies on racks before storing.

CHOCOLATE WHEAT GERM COOKIES

. . . make now and bake later

- ¾ cup butter, softened
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- 2 cups flour
- ¾ cup vacuum packed wheat germ (regular)*
- 1/3 cup cocoa
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon soda
- ¼ cup finely chopped walnuts (optional)

Beat butter and sugar until fluffy. Beat in egg and vanilla. Mix in flour combined with wheat germ, cocoa, salt and soda. Stir in nuts. Divide dough in half. Shape each part into 1½-inch diameter roll. Wrap. Chill 2 hours or longer. Cut into ¼-inch thick slices. Place on lightly greased baking sheet. Bake in 350 degree oven about 10 to 12 minutes. Remove cookies and cool on rack. Makes about 6 dozen.

*Or use wheat germ with sugar & honey.

PEANUT BUTTER WHEAT GERM COOKIES

. . . new taste for old fashioned favorite

- 1½ cups peanut butter
- ¼ cup cooking oil
- 1 cup brown sugar (packed)
- 1 egg
- ¾ cup milk
- 2 cups flour
- 1 cup vacuum packed wheat germ (regular)*
- ¾ teaspoon soda
- ½ teaspoon salt

Beat peanut butter with oil, brown sugar and egg. Stir in milk. Add flour mixed with wheat germ, soda and salt. Mix just enough to combine. Shape dough into 1-inch balls. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Flatten with fork dipped in flour, making crisscross marks on top. Bake in 350 degree oven 10 to 15 minutes. Makes about 5 dozen.

*Or use wheat germ with sugar & honey.

WHEAT GERM GINGERSNAPS

. . . thin, crisp and spicy

- ½ cup butter, softened
- ¾ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- ¼ cup light molasses
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ¾ cup vacuum packed wheat germ (regular)*
- 1¾ cups flour
- 1½ teaspoons ginger
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon cloves
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon soda

Beat butter with sugar until fluffy. Beat in egg, then molasses, lemon peel and juice. Combine ½ cup wheat germ with flour, spices, salt and soda. Stir into molasses mixture. Chill dough. Shape into 1-inch balls. Roll balls in remaining ¼ cup wheat germ. Place about 3 inches apart on greased baking sheet. Flatten with bottom of glass dipped in sugar. Bake in 350 degree oven 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove from baking sheet and cool on rack. Makes about 3 dozen (3 to 3½-inch) cookies.

*Or use wheat germ with sugar & honey.

Tequila and shrimp make great pair

Really a salad in a sandwich, this recipe features marinated shrimp in a special Tequila Marinade. Adding a little chopped celery, green onion, cucumber and mayonnaise, this tasty shrimp also serves as a zesty cocktail. Or served alone with toothpicks, they're a novel cocktail party hors d'oeuvre.

TEQUILA SHRIMP SANDWICH

Tequila Marinade

- 6½ ounces (20) jumbo cooked shrimp*
- ½ cup mayonnaise
- 4 slices whole grain bread
- mayonnaise for bread
- Crisp lettuce
- 16 small thin tomato wedges
- 16 thin cucumber slices
- 2 hard cooked eggs, halved
- 4 carrot curls
- 4 pitted ripe olives

Prepare Tequila Marinade. Pour over shrimp, cover and refrigerate 1 hour or longer. When ready to serve, drain shrimp, saving marinade. Blend 2 to 3 tablespoons marinade with ½ cup mayonnaise, depending on consistency desired; set aside for dressing. Spread bread slices with plain mayonnaise. Top with lettuce. Arrange tomato wedges, cucumber and drained shrimp on lettuce. Garnish each sandwich with egg half, carrot curl and ripe olive. Serve dressing over each sandwich. Makes 4 servings.

TEQUILA MARINADE

Combine ¼ cup tequila, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon oil, 1 teaspoon capers, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ¼ teaspoon each dried dill, onion powder, salt and sugar.

*Or use 2 4½-ounce cans deveined shrimp.

Lentil salad

Lentils make a delicious lunch or supper salad. Nowadays they do not need soaking and take only a short time to cook. Dress the drained lentils with oil and vinegar and garnish with hard-cooked egg; serve on lettuce. Add sliced tomato and cucumber if you like.

'Frankie and Johnny' are great cookout pair

Food as well as fiction provides some famous pairs. Ham and eggs, pork and beans, bread and butter, peaches and cream—these are but a few of the Romeos and Juliets of the food world.

Every so often a new food combination is so obviously compatible that it shows promise of joining the list of immortal menumates. The combination of frankfurters and cornmeal pancakes is one such tasty twosome.

Named for "Frankie and Johnny," that tempestuous couple chronicled in folk song, Frankie and Johnny Cookout Combo is a more congenial compionship. Frankfurters, hot and flavorsome from the grill or pan, are wrapped in light cornmeal pancakes, a modern counterpart of the journey cakes or Johnny cakes of pioneer times. Since this is an ideal plate partnership for a hearty outdoor meal, it's presented as grill fare — for campout or cookout — for breakfast, lunch or supper. However, Frankie and Johnny Cookout Combo can be prepared and served indoors when cold winds blow across the cookout trail.

This recipe is good on-the-go food. It's easy to include a package of corn muffin mix in the camp kitchen supplies. Better make it several packages for serving this frankfurter and pancake combo once brings requests for repeats. Applesauce and syrup, pleasing accompaniments, are fine camp staples too. Frankfurters, along with eggs and milk, are readily available at most trading posts along today's well traveled trails.

A bit of grill strategy is required since cooking pancakes requires higher heat than does warming frankfurters. This can be managed with careful placement of food in relation to coals or by cooking one food partner first and keeping it warm while the other is cooked.

FRANKIE AND JOHNNY COOKOUT COMBO

- 1 pound (8 to 10) frankfurters
- 1¼ cups milk
- 1 egg
- 2 tablespoons shortening, melted
- 1 package (8½ ounces) corn muffin mix (approximately 1¾ cups)
- Warm applesauce or pancake syrup

Broil frankfurters on grill or in frying-pan at moderate temperature, turning occasionally until browned evenly and heated through (5 to 6 minutes). Keep warm. Add milk, egg and shortening to muffin mix and stir to just combine (batter should be lumpy). Pour batter, ¼ cup for each pancake, on a hot, lightly greased griddle or frying-pan and cook at high temperature until golden brown. Turn and brown second side. Remove pancake from griddle, place frankfurter on top and fold to enclose. Repeat for remaining pancakes. 4 to 5 servings of two pancakes each.

Whenever a food is as popular as frankfurters, originality in preparation is appreciated upon occasion. Frankie and Johnny Cookout Combo offers just such welcome variety.

Frankfurters are a nutritious food as well as a popular one. Each provides 5 to 7 grams of high quality protein plus several essential vitamins and minerals that contribute to good health.

Try fiesta scramble for brunch

Turn scrambled eggs into a regal weekend brunch for the family or friends by adding smoked sausage to the eggs and spooning the combo into a puff shell. You will be proud to tell your guests that you made this tasty, nutritious, easy-to-prepare dish "from scratch". Serve with fresh melon, cinnamon rolls or coffee cake, sparkling white wine and coffee to complete your menu.

FIESTA SAUSAGE EGG SCRAMBLE IN PUFF SHELL

- ½ cup diced green pepper
- 6 ounces fresh mushrooms, sliced
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 12 eggs, slightly beaten
- ½ cup milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ¾ pound smoked sausage, cut into ¼ inch slices

Make Cream Puff Shell.

Prepare scrambled eggs during last 10 minutes of baking. Saute green pepper and mushrooms in butter in 10-inch skillet over medium heat until green pepper is tender, about 5 minutes. Combine eggs, milk, salt and pepper. Pour eggs over pepper and mushrooms.

Lift cooked portion of eggs gently with spatula, letting uncooked portion flow to bottom. (Avoid constant stirring.) Cook until eggs are set but moist, about 8 minutes.

CREAM PUFF SHELL

- ½ cup water
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup all-purpose flour
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs

Heat oven to 400 degrees.

Heat water and butter to boiling in saucepan. Stir in flour and salt. Stir over low heat until mixture leaves side of pan and forms a ball, about 1 minute. Remove from heat; let stand 10 minutes.

Add eggs all at once, beating until smooth and glossy. Spread batter evenly in greased 9-inch pan (do not spread batter up the side.)

Bake 40 to 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Note: Smoked Thuringer or Ring Bologna may be substituted for the smoked sausage.

Dymally trip gets aircraft commitment

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally says his trip to Trinidad last month paid off with a commitment from his native country to buy three airliners from Douglas Aircraft Corp. of Long Beach.

Dymally, whose trip was financed by the state Commission on Economic Development of which he is chairman, urged the government-owned British West Indies Airways to buy Douglas DC9s rather than Boeing 737s, which are made in Washington.

Dymally said the $23-million sale will mean about $1.5 million in additional state and local taxes and 1,200 jobs.

His office reported that the June 15 air fare of $640 was paid by the state.

Albertsons 1,000,000 POUND Beef Sale!

PRICES EFFECTIVE JULY 14-20

QUALITY
Albertsons Meat Service Center is the newest and most modern in the country. Beef you now buy at your Albertsons Market is prepared in this superb processing Center. Handling and aging afforded by this new facility provides the kind of tender, juicy beef fine restaurants serve. We'd like you to try some Albertsons beef. For an incentive, we have reduced beef prices across the board for an introductory offer. We feel we can truthfully say there is a positive difference in Albertsons beef. Come in and buy some. Find out for yourself.

ALWAYS TENDER ALWAYS JUICY!
Better processing, aging, handling and distribution means better flavor, texture and tenderness. You'll see the difference in the meat case. You'll taste the difference at home. Now you can buy Ground Round and Ground Chuck at Albertsons. The law allows Ground Round and Ground Chuck labeling only with on-the-spot inspection and approval by federal inspectors. And that's what we have at our Meat Service Center.

LOW PRICES!
Our low meat prices speak for themselves. Check the price in this ad. Take advantage of this introductory offer and find out about the quality of the beef processed in our new Meat Service Center.

YOUR SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
If for any reason you are not satisfied with the meat you buy at Albertsons, simply bring back proof of purchase and we'll refund your money or replace the item.

TWO LAYER SHRIMP RING

Shrimps small but not insignificant

In the language of slang, a shrimp is an insignicant, small person. In the tasty world of marine crustaceans, the shrimp may be small but it's certainly not insignificant. In many ways, in all seasons, shrimp is a favorite.

Shrimp is available fresh, frozen or canned. Canned shrimp from the Gulf has been an American delicacy for more than a century. Those who buy it fresh or frozen often like it equally small. Such shrimp are native to the Pacific. Shrimp prove the point that in every case, good things come in small packages or cans!

When winter winds blow, imaginative cooks delight family and guests with jambalaya, chowder, bisque or creole. In summertime, when the sun is strong and breezes try to be cooling, the same creative hostesses star shrimp in salads — then serve them as weekend suppers. It's easy-made for easy living or entertaining.

Two Layer Shrimp Ring should be concocted in the cool of the morning, then placed in the refrigerator where it sets and chills. Later, served on tomato slices and cucumber discs, the main dish salad looks cool and pretty, tastes crunchy and refreshing. The shrimp satisfies the appetite but it is not excessively filling. Hot rolls and butter are pleasing salad go-alongs, following a first course of pineapple chunks with lime sherbet and sprigs of fresh mint. Later, dessert, made ahead of time and frozen, can be reheated at the table and served with flair. Crepes or blintzes serve as the meal's finale, surely a memorable note.

A cooling shrimp-featured weekend supper is fixed early in the day, then enjoyed in the evening. It's true that good things come in small packages — or cans!

TWO LAYER SHRIMP RING

- 2 cans (4½ ounce each) small shrimp or ½ pound tiny Pacific shrimp
- 2 envelopes (2 tablespoons) unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups boiling water
- 1¼ cups cold water
- ¼ cup white vinegar
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- ½ cup salad dressing or mayonnaise
- ¾ cup finely chopped celery
- ¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
- 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
- Crisp salad greens

Drain and rinse canned shrimp; drain well. Arrange shrimp in oiled 4½ or 5-cup ring mold. Chill while preparing gelatin mixture. Combine gelatin, sugar and salt; mix well. Add boiling water; stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add cold water, vinegar and lemon juice. Chill 1 cup gelatin mixture until it begins to thicken; pour over shrimp. Chill until second layer is ready to pour into ring mold. Add salad dressing or mayonnaise to remaining gelatin mixture; beat until smooth. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in celery, green peppers and pimiento. Pour over shrimp layer. Chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens. Makes 6 servings.

Sardines...

wild thyme, and served cold.

The salt water sardine is very popular in Italy too and you can spot them in the market places in the early morning, glittering like silver coins.

Among gourmets, sardines by most any name are a treat. In France, the best ones are aged as carefully as vintage wines. The tins are turned at regular intervals to allow the olive oil to penetrate the fish evenly, thus improving the flavor and texture.

The French sardines are packed only in the finest oil from Provence, made from freshly-picked olives. A mystique grew up around French sardines with connoisseurs treating them almost as reverently as French wines, a recent report of the National Geographic Society said. Sardines buffs even met for tastings.

Here is a recipe from Spain for sardines with green peppers and white wine.

- 5 tablespoons butter
- 2 large diced carrots
- 1 pound small white onions, sliced
- 2 cups diced fresh bell peppers
- ¼ cup finely diced green beans
- 4 ounces dry white wine
- salt and pepper to taste
- 4 tomatoes skinned and diced
- 2 4½-ounce cans skinless and boneless sardines
- 1 tablespoon grated parmesan cheese

Melt 4 tablespoons butter in pan. Add carrots, onions, bell peppers, beans and wine. Season and stir well. Cover pan and simmer about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add tomatoes. Place on bottom of serving dish. Arrange sardines on top and sprinkle with parmesan and remaining melted butter. Brown under grill and serve. Serves 4. Good with chilled dry white wine.

Scoring

Are you a new cook? When a recipe suggests that you "score" a cucumber, pare it. Then run the sharp tines of a fork lengthwise down the cucumbers. When it is sliced, it will have pretty serrated edges.

CORNER OF HOLT & INDIAN HILL - POMONA OPEN 24 HOURS

Cool off fast with these milk specialties

Temperatures are up and the forecast is sizzling. What can you do to keep your cool and vitality?

Before making your way to a morning's game of tennis, try a great breakfast pick-up combining milk, egg, orange juice and honey. It's breakfast all-in-a-glass.

Then there's that afternoon bowling game on the agenda. Cold milk with banana, peanut butter and honey are a sure-fire energy combination.

Or, if the afternoon brings an invitation to go boating, get into the mood with a green spray of a beverage that's as cool and refreshing as the water you'll be gliding on. Milky Lime Refresher is made with cold milk with pineapple juice, limeade concentrate and just a bit of sugar.

With each glass (8 ounces) of fortified milk, you will get 20 per cent of the daily protein recommendation plus these others: 30 per cent of the calcium recommendation (this is a hard-to-get nutrient in as small an intake as given by milk); 20 per cent phosphorus (which works with calcium); 25 per cent vitamin D (which works with calcium and phosphorus in a delicate balance); and 25 per cent riboflavin, as well as lesser amounts of several other vitamins and minerals.

BREAKFAST-IN-A-GLASS ORANGE NOG

1 cup cold milk
1 egg
3 tablespoons frozen orange juice concentrate
1 tablespoon honey

Combine milk, egg, orange juice concentrate and honey. Blend well in a blender or with a mixer. Garnish with orange wedge, if desired. Serve immediately. Yield: about 1½ cups.

PEANUT BANANA COOLER

1 cup cold milk
1 ripe banana, sliced
2 tablespoons creamy peanut butter
1 tablespoon honey

Combine milk, banana, peanut butter and honey. Blend well in a blender or mixer. Garnish with banana slices, rolled in chopped peanuts, if desired. Serve immediately. Yield: about 1¾ cups.

MILKY LIME REFRESHER

1 cup cold milk
¼ cup chilled unsweetened pineapple juice
2 tablespoons frozen limeade concentrate
1 tablespoon sugar

Combine milk, pineapple juice, limeade concentrate and sugar. Blend well in a blender or mixer. Garnish with a lime slice and strawberry, if desired. Serve immediately. Yield: about 1½ cups.

Whip inflation with turkey

What the world needs now is a high-protein, nutritious maincourse meat that is easily digested, low in cholesterol and fats, and modestly priced. No such animal? There is one meat that fills the bill, and it's a bird — turkey.

In most areas, turkey is priced even lower this year than last. It's not only easy on the budget, it's more versatile than ever before. You may still enjoy roasting a whole bird for a special family dinner, but the new cut-up turkey parts combine well with many other foods and can be used creatively in a number of different recipes.

Turkey wings, for instance, provide a lot of meat for your money. Buy them already cut up and wrapped in the frozen meats section of the grocery store. Keep them well-wrapped in your refrigerator and use within one or two days. Turkey wings in your freezer should be used within two months for the most flavorful quality.

Turkey wings respond best to long, slow, moist cooking to bring out flavor and tenderness. Braising is a favorite way of preparation.

Our recipe for "Turkey Wings Fricassee" uses four young turkey wings (about 2½ pounds of meat). They are floured, browned, and simmered with spices and carrots until tender. Serve on a platter over cooked, buttered noodles and add glazed carrot strips, tossed green salad, and perhaps a fruit sherbet for dessert.

That's the kind of whip-inflation meal turkey provides when you use convenient cut-up turkey parts. Turkey can be a welcome change from the old hamburger standby.

TURKEY WINGS FRICASSEE

4 young turkey wings (about 2½ lbs.)
¼ cup flour
4 tablespoons butter or shortening
2 medium onions, chopped
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
¾ teaspoon paprika
4 cups chicken broth
½ cup celery, sliced
2 carrots, sliced
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 bay leaf
¼ teaspoon rosemary
¼ cup cold water
Wide egg noodles

Rinse wings and pat dry. Combine flour, salt, paprika, and pepper. Roll turkey wings in flour mixture to coat. Reserve remaining flour. Melt butter in Dutch oven or large heavy pot. Brown turkey on all sides. Add onions, garlic, and saute' for 5 minutes. Add broth, carrots, celery, bay leaf, and rosemary. Cover and simmer for 2 to 2½ hours or until turkey is tender. Transfer wings to heated platter. Remove bay leaf. Mix remaining flour with cold water to form a smooth paste; add slowly to hot liquid, stirring to keep smooth. Cooked over medium heat about 5 minutes, or until sauce has thickened slightly. Pour over turkey in serving platter. Garnish with parsley. Serve over cooked, buttered noodles. Makes 4 servings.

DIETER'S MACARONI SALAD

Dieters, too can have macaroni

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Those on a diet often are surprised to find macaroni remains as an acceptable food. That doesn't mean you can eat it morning, noon and night without damaging your weight-loss goal. However, macaroni dishes are allowable and macaroni combines with cheese, eggs, meat, poultry and seafood for a healthful dish. Those on low fat or low sodium diets also find macaroni listed. Just remember not to add salt or drench your pasta dishes in butter, heavy cream or cheese sauces since these are high in animal fat.

MACARONI GARDEN SALAD

2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
1 cup creamed cottage cheese
1 cucumber, thinly sliced
8 radishes, thinly sliced
1 cup diced celery
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
3 tablespoons low calorie Italian salad dressing
1 medium head Boston lettuce

Gradually add macaroni and salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse in cold water; drain again.

Combine remaining ingredients except lettuce; toss with macaroni. Chill. Serve salad in lettuce-lined bowl. Makes 4 servings, about 290 calories per serving.

TURKEY NOODLE TOSS

1 can (1 pound) cut green beans, undrained
1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, undrained
Water
1½ cups skim milk
½ cup diced celery
¼ cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon each: pepper, marjoram leaves
2 cups diced cooked turkey
8 ounces medium egg noodles (about 4 cups)
1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water

Drain beans and mushrooms, reserving liquids; set vegetables aside. Add enough water to reserved liquid to measure one and one-half cups. Combine with milk and set aside. Saute celery and onion in butter about 3 minutes. Quickly stir in flour. Gradually stir in milk mixture, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper and marjoram. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce boils 1 minute. Add beans, mushrooms, and turkey; heat to serving temperature.

Meanwhile, gradually add noodles and 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Toss with turkey mixture. Makes 4 servings, about 500 calories per serving.

COTELETTES D'AGNEAU DIJONNAISE

Make simple French meals

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Good French cooking actually is quite simple and it is not necessary to spend hours making special sauces for your favorite meats or poultry. For example, butter, Dijon mustard, herbs and wine or lemon juice make a basic dressing for less expensive shoulder lamb chops or chicken legs. And, for a different flavored steak, spread it on both sides with mustard before broiling. Serve with scalloped cups of fresh orange slices, asparagus, lettuce salad or French fries.

COTELETTES D'AGNEAU DIJONNAISE

6 round bone shoulder lamb chops
salt and pepper
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
1 can (14 ounces) hearts of celery
1 cup tomato juice
½ cup French dry white wine or apple juice
¼ cup finely chopped parsley

Sprinkle chops with salt and pepper. Melt butter in a skillet. Brown chops on both sides. Spread mustard on chops. Add celery and juice in can, tomato juice and white wine. Cover and simmer 1 hour or until chops are tender. Place lamb chops on a platter and keep warm. Pour pan juices into blender. Whirl until smooth. Pour into pan again and reheat until bubbly and thick. Spoon over chops. sprinkle with parsley. Garnish platter with scalloped orange cups filled with orange sections. Makes about 6 servings.

CHICKEN LEGS DIJONNAISE

Juice of 1 lemon
½ teaspoon taragon leaves
1 teaspoon Dijon mustard
4 tablespoons soft butter
6 chicken legs
Salt

Mix together first four ingredients and let sit at room temperature for half an hour to allow flavors to blend. With fingers, carefully lift up skin from chicken legs to make space for mustard-butter mixture. Allow one teaspoon of mixture for filling second joint area and one teaspoon for drumstick area. Place filling between skin and meat and then press down skin to spread filling evenly in area. Salt chicken legs and broil, 6 to 8 inches from source of heat, turning twice until completely cooked. Makes about 6 servings.

PORTERHOUSE DIJONNAISE

Before broiling steak, spread on both sides with a thin layer of Dijon mustard and let sit at room temperature for half an hour. Broil to desired degree of doneness, then season to taste with salt.

CHP says traffic deaths increased

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Highway Patrol says traffic fatalities rose 3.04 per cent during the first six months of this year compared to the same period in 1975.

CHP Commissioner Glen Craig reported that numerically, the increase was 60, to 2,036 deaths.

The toll was only 338 in June, however, 56 fewer than in the same month of last year, he said. There were also fewer fatalities in February. But in all the other four months, there were increases.

Craig said that on roadways within CHP jurisdiction — freeways, state highways and county roads — the increase in fatalities was 86 during the first six months. But on city streets, there was a decline of 26 fatalities.

Said Craig: "A combination of higher speed and heavier traffic volumes is probably the major cause of the greater number of deaths."

He said that in 1975 when the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit went into effect and the gasoline shortage lowered the traffic volume, the death toll in the first six months was 1,719 — 18.44 per cent fewer than during the same period this year.

Leo ballplayer turns to umpiring

A most interesting change has occurred in the life of former La Verne College baseball player Jim McNamara.

McNamara, captain and right fielder on the Leos' 1972 national championship team, is now embarking on a career as an umpire in professional baseball!

Writing from Great Falls, Montana, McNamara brought us up to date on what he has been doing since he graduated four years ago.

"I was not fortunate enough to continue playing," McNamara writes. "But I stayed in the game as a high school coach while teaching."

The former Leopard player taught at Damien and coached sophomore football and baseball. Then he moved on to Royal Oak where he also coached football and baseball. Last year McNamara was a substitute teacher in the Garden Grove Unified School District.

At the same time he worked as varsity assistant in football at Pomona High.

But McNamara couldn't get baseball out of his system. So this spring he signed up for the Umpire School run by former major league arbiter Bill Kinnamon.

It was eight hours a day, six days a week for five weeks. When it was over, McNamara was judged the top prospect among the 50 student umps.

Only 20 of the 50 got pro jobs.

The former Leo started work June 25 in the Class A Pioneer League.

Works in Canada

There are four teams. Two, Billings and Great Falls, are in Montana. The other two are Idaho Falls, Idaho and Lethbridge in Alberta, Canada.

"We work a two-man system," writes McNamara, "so my partner and I travel together all summer between these four cities. The drives are long, but the consolation is the beautiful country and fresh air."

Naturally, Jim's opinion of umpires and umpiring has undergone a radical change.

"I'll tell you this," the letter reads, "I was known as having a temper and yelling at umps when I played ball. Now I'm on the other side.

"I definitely have a completely different idea about umpires now. I wish I was still playing because I understand the tough job the umps have. No matter what an umpire does, one side will say he's wrong."

In the off season, McNamara will continue teaching and coaching. He's been hired by former Damien athletic director Mike Churchill at Cortez High near Phoenix, Arizona.

McNamara will be sophomore football coach and jayvee baseball coach while teaching full time. But he hopes to make the grade as an umpire.

"I hope someday to be fortunate enough to be in the major leagues and see my former teammates Jack Maloof, Willie Norwood and some of the players I coached such as Frank Pastore of Damien," is the way the letter ends.

As Jim advances he might work in the same league as La Verne coach Ben Hines and Mt. San Antonio College coach Art Mazmanian. They have both managed in the Pioneer League and currently are in the Applachian League.

What a matchup!

McNamara might find himself in a game with Hines on one side and Mazmanian on the other. Now wouldn't that be an experience for a young umpire?

HERE 'N THERE — It was good to see another former Leo, John Verhoeven, called up to the Angeles. Besides skill, the big Dutchman has one other ingredient necessary to winning in the big leagues. Heart.

One of Mazmanian's former players, third baseman Kevin Bell, is making a good impression after being called up by the Chicago White Sox. Bell attended an Angels' tryout camp in 1972 but didn't impress.

"All they seemed to care about was how fast you were," Bell remembers. "I thought I hit with pretty good power and threw pretty good, but I never heard from them."

Maybe that shows why the Angel farm system has never produced a power hitter in its 15 years of existence.

Three Dodger players failed to take a poll by the Cincinnati Post seriously. The paper distributed ballots to every National League player and asked them to vote for an all-star team.

Two Dodgers voted for a team consisting of Latin players only. Another picked an all-Cincinnati team but named only backup players.

The remaining returns apparently were legitimate and the team picked was as follows: Ted Simmons, St. Louis (C); Steve Garvey, Dodgers (1B); Joe Morgan, Reds (2B); Mike Schmidt, Phils (3B); Larry Bowa, Phils (SS) and George Foster, Reds, Dave Kingman, Mets, and Al Oliver, Pirates (OF).

N.L. stars are just too good

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ho Hum, the National League beat the American League again in the All-Star Game.

So what's new?

Just for the record, the score in the National's fifth straight triumph and 13th in the last 14 years was 7-1. San Diego's Randy Jones, the starting pitcher, threw three scoreless innings and was the winning pitcher.

And George Foster, the Cincinnati Reds' outfielder who leads the majors with 72 RBI, drove in three runs, two with a third-inning homer and was selected the game's Most Valuable Player. The loser was Mark Fidrych, the Detroit Tigers' rookie sensation who pitched two innings and left trailing 2-0.

The National League now leads the All-Star series 28-18-1. And no relief is in sight for the beleaguered American Leaguers.

Perhaps, John Montefusco, the outspoken San Francisco Giants' pitcher, put the dull game in its proper perspective.

"I didn't have my good fastball, but I didn't need it against the American League."

It would seem that all the National League needs in this annual American League summer nightmare is gloves, bats and balls.

"It's a little bit embarrassing," said Fred Lynn of the Boston Red Sox, whose fourth-inning home run accounted for the loser's only run against five National League pitchers.

Lynn said the big difference was the National League bats. "They hit," he said. "And they hit the long ball too. They have a bit more power than we do."

Lynn's boss, manager Darrell Johnson, who directed the American League, had a different view.

"It was National League pitching," said Johnson. "Their pitchers did a damn good job."

There you have it, good hitting, good pitching, and throw in those three snappy double plays the National League turned and you have another American League defeat.

"I think it (the latest loss) means we have to break a cycle," said Johnson. "The National League has won twelve of thirteen. Before that the American League won most of them."

The 27-year-old Foster outwardly took his MVP accolade almost with a yawn.

"I was quite honored to be selected," he said, his face and voice devoid of emotion. "But I didn't come out here to play to win any honors. I just wanted to play the best I could to help us win. Whatever came my way in honors, fine."

Jack Armstrong, the All-American boy couldn't have said it better. But Foster wasn't acting. He plays and acts the same way every game of the season. He's a non-smoking, non-drinking, bible-reading son of God.

"I say a silent prayer before every game," Foster confided to a swarm of reporters.

What kind of prayer?

"I ask God to help me be a good sport in life and to give me health, strength and stamina to do my best if hard knocks come my way," said Foster. "I like the 23rd Psalm best. It tells you that if you want a certain thing you have to go out and get it, work. If you don't seek you won't get."

Foster, who drove in the National League's second run in the first inning after Pete Rose had singled and scored on a Steve Garvey triple, defended his stoic attitude.

"Some guys express their emotions silently," he said. "Others do it openly. I've learned to control my emotions. You don't have to be jubilant to be happy. You don't have to drink it up. That's not me."

Foster said he would return to Cincinnati and reflect on his All-Star performance. "I'll get a good feeling about it. Then I'll keep trying to do better."

Foster said he wants to be remembered as a guy who went out and did his best even if his team was down 10 runs.

"I'm always working hard, doing the best I can," he said. "People identify with ball players. If they hear you don't drink and smoke...they try to emulate you."

So much for philosophy George. How about that home run? George showed he had a little humor behind that poker face.

"It was a fastball. If you want to know was it up or down or in or out, I'd say it was in reach of my bat."

Foster said he wasn't sure the ball was going out. "I thought maybe that cross wind out there might be holding up the ball. The main thing is I was trying to be aggressive at the plate."

Aggressive. That was the tone of another Montefusco gem. "The American League pitchers don't challenge anyone on three-one or two-one. They go to the breaking ball. We challenge people."

The Cincinnati Reds produced seven of the National League's 10 hits. That didn't surprise Pete Rose, the wise cracking Reds' third baseman.

"We got more bats than anybody, so we're supposed to get more hits," said Rose, who singled, tripled and scored a run. "Foster did what he's been doing all year. The only difference is that he got only one hit. He usually gets two or three."

The 21-year-old Fidrych, a free spirit who says what's on his mind, took the loss in stride. The rookie, 9-2 in the first half of the American League season, gave up four hits and two runs in two innings.

"No one should smile after a loss," said the curly-haired Tigers' pitcher. "But this is a different game. I can go home proud because I was on an AllStar team. You can't forget anything like this. There's this ball with everyone's name on it, a trophy and the ring...I never even had a high school ring."

Winning manager Sparky Anderson of the Reds said he believed the dominance over the American League stemmed from the office of former NL President Warren Giles.

"He believed the National League had to win," Anderson recalled. "And there is an enthusiasm in the National League to win."

San Diego's Jones, as always, kept a low profile. He said the only thing wrong was that he gave up a walk. He said he was nervous at the start, but settled down after a two-out first-inning walk to Kansas City's George Brett.

As for the game itself, before a sellout crowd of 63,974, including President Ford, the Nationals built a 4-0 lead with their two in the first and Foster's home run after a one-out single in the third. Lynn's homer made it 4-1. The NL put it away in the ninth on an RBI single by Ken Griffey, and Cesar Cedeno's two-run homer, all off California's Frank Tanana.

The President might have seen a better show on television from Madison Square Garden, New York.

Olympics has new squabble

MONTREAL (AP) — The International Olympic Committee assembled today and was expected to receive the official word that Taiwan would pull out of the Games opening Saturday and to face another possible political squabble over black African threats to boycott the event.

In Taipei today the Nationalist Chinese Olympic Committee reiterated its decision to withdraw from the Olympic Games "because of Canada's discrimination."

The decision to pull out came in a closed door session in Taipei today by the Republic of China Olympic Committee and ranking sports officials. It was reached after reports indicated that the full session of the International Olympic Committee Tuesday night here approved its executive board's proposal.

The IOC executive board suggested the Taiwanese athletes march behind the IOC emblem and insignia without using the name Republic of China at the opening of the Montreal Games. Nationalist China rejected the idea Saturday.

The Canadian government had said it would not allow athletes from Taiwan to enter that country if they used the name Republic of China. Canada recognizes mainland China.

In Taipei, Niu Ping-yi, secretary general of the Nationalist China Olympic Committee, said the withdrawal decision might be revised only if its Olympic team was allowed to use the Nationalist Chinese flag and anthem, and its official name "Republic of China," exactly the things Canada has forbidden.

Meanwhile, Tao Yung of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the legislative Yuan, Nationalist China's legislature, urged that the nationalist delegation stay in the Games and march in the opening ceremony Saturday to win international sympathy and support for its stand.

"To fight for justice and to maintain the prime spirit of the IOC, we should not pull out of the Games," Tao said.

Meanwhile, Abraham Ordia, passionate campaigner for Africans' rights in sport, keeps Olympic officials on edge, having it in his power to spring another crisis.

He leads the Supreme Council for Sports in Africa, and threatens to pull African athletes out of the Games in protest against New Zealand, which has sent a rugby team to segregationist South Africa.

Ordia is an enigmatic figure. One day he appears at the IOC's hotel headquarters in flowing blue Nigerian robes with traditional headdress, looking like a potentate.

The next day he wears a sports jacket and a battered straw hat.

He smiles and bows to sports officials from all over the world, shakes their hands and clasps them in a brotherly embrance. But what will he do next?

In 1972, Ordia led the campaign which ended in Rhodesian athletes being shut out of the Munich Olympics. Whenever he decides to move, every African sports body falls in behind him.

The race-proud Africans first quarreled with New Zealand last winter, over a visit to that country by a South African softball team. As a result, Tanzania withdrew its athletes from an international track and field meet at Auckland.

The current tour of South Africa by the New Zealand rugby team has fueled the fire.

Yet IOC sources say the Africans have a weaker case now than when they campaigned against Rhodesia at Munich. Rugby is not an Olympic sport, and the New Zealand Olympic Association has no control over rugby teams touring abroad.

Moreover, Lance Cross, IOC member for New Zealand, has drawn up a list of 26 countries which, he says, have sent sports teams to South Africa in the last eight months. One was a rugby team from the United States.

"They might as well ask for the United States to be excluded from the Olympics," said Cross.

The Taiwan issue simmered as Ordia's organization delayed any move it might be contemplating. Some IOC members thought Ordia might be waiting until the Taiwan question was settled and Africa could enjoy a bigger share of the publicity spotlight.

"Nothing today," Ordia said politely when newsmen asked him what was happening. "Later in the week, perhaps."

Canada refused to allow the Taiwanese into the country unless they dropped the name of the Republic of China and their national flag. The IOC bitterly accused Canada of a breach of faith.

The Taiwanese were asked by the IOC to march in the opening parade under the Olympic flag, and without a name. They refused at first, but the IOC had new hopes today they might change their mind and come in.

As political problems continued to bubble, some 6,000 athletes had arrived in the Olympic Village. The number will grow to 10,000 by Saturday.

But the Taiwanese still were held up in the United States, waiting hopefully for the dispute to be settled and for Canada to grant them visas.

There's no doubt O.J. wants L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There are no doubt more than one or two National Football League teams that would be quite happy to acquire the services of O.J. Simpson.

But, to the chagrin of Simpson's current team, the Buffalo Bills, he apparently has his heart set on finishing his career in Los Angeles.

Negotiations between Los Angeles and the Bills over Simpson, however, broke down recently with Rams owner Carroll Rosenbloom saying the Bills wanted too much in the trade.

On Tuesday, Bills owner Ralph Wilson Jr. indicated in a statement that the club still wants to trade Simpson, who has said he intends to play just one more year.

Wilson said the Bills would ask Simpson if he will allow them to try to negotiate a trade for him with teams in New York, Washington, Miami or other "so-called glamor" National Football League cities.

Wilson, in a statement read by Buffalo Coach Lou Saban at the Bills camp in Niagara Falls, N.Y., said: "Limited in our trading scope, we have not been successful to date, gaining players even closely approximating Simpson's value. We promised O.J...that we would make every effort to trade him to a West Coast team and this we have done. But it would help immeasurably if we could broaden the market."

But Simpson said, "I want to play in Los Angeles so I can be close to my family. Being traded to a glamorous city has nothing to do with it. I wouldn't ask to be traded if I didn't want to play on the West Coast."

Officials of one West Coast team apparently interested in Simpson said Tuesday they had not had a chance to deal for him.

"The Oakland Raiders have never been given an opportunity to discuss a trade for O.J. Simpson," the team said in a statement.

Issuing the statement would seem to indicate the Raiders would like the chance to get in the bidding for Simpson's services.

Asked if he thought announcing that he planned to play just one more season hurt his chances of playing in Los Angeles, Simpson replied: "I wanted to be honest about it, so I told the Rams my decision.

"I hear Carroll Rosenbloom has said he doesn't want to tear up the team to get me. I don't think it would tear up the team. I think a trade could be made that would benefit both Buffalo and Los Angeles."

Simpson, although stressing that his current plans call for quitting football after this season, admitted that, if he were traded to Los Angeles and played on a championship team, he might consider extending his career.

OMS dedicates Hall of Fame

Twenty-three great race drivers, including two who are still active competitors, will be enshrined in auto racing's Hall of Fame during dedication ceremonies Thursday evening at Ontario Motor Speedway.

Founded in 1971 by the American Auto Racing Writers and Broadcasters Association, the Hall of Fame has been located at Ontario Speedway as a permanent shrine honoring those individuals who have distinguished themselves in the field of auto racing since the sport was organized just after the turn of the century.

The current roster of members is made up of drivers from six separate eras beginning with pre-1920 competitors and including a category for contemporary drivers. All phases of the sport are covered, including championship or Indianapolis competitors, sports and stock car drivers and Grand Prix greats.

The two members who are still active drivers are A.J. Foyt who was elected in the inaugural balloting in 1971 and Richard Petty, the NASCAR stock car ace who was elected in 1973. Three foreign drivers are also on the roster.

Thursday's ceremonies will be attended by several of the Hall of Fame's living members including 1925 Indy 500 winner Peter DePaolo and Dan Gurney, along with many old timers such as Ernie Olson and Reeves Dutton who were riding mechanics for Hall of Fame members Jimmy Murphy and Earl Cooper. West Coast members of the AARWBA and other prominent members of the racing fraternity will also attend.

The Hall of Fame, which will be opened to the public on July 21, is located in the foyer of the new OMS restaurant which will also open on a full-time basis on July 21 and is being re-named the Hall of Fame restaurant.

On display are portraits of all 23 members plus showcases of artifacts and memorabilia such as helmets, goggles, driving uniforms, medals and trophies. Many rare and historic photographs are also being exhibited. There will be no admission charge to the public, and the Hall of Fame and restaurant will be open on a daily basis, Tuesday through Saturday and on all Sunday race days.

The American Auto Racing Writers and Broadcasters, similar to football, baseball, golf and boxing writer organizations, was established in 1955 and includes more than 500 members nationwide. The membership votes annually on Hall of Fame candidates, and 1976 election will take place in August with new members scheduled to be enshrined in September.

A list of Hall of Fame members follows.

Palomino wins monthly award

LOS ANGELES — World Boxing Council welterweight champion Carlos Palomino has been named Southern California's Athlete of the Month for June by members of the Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation's selection board.

Palomino, a resident of Westminster, won the WBC title by KO'ing defending champ John Stracey of Britian in the 12th round last month at Wembley Empire Pool in England. The Sonora, Mexico native who boxed his first pro bout at the Olympic Auditorium in September, 1972 had had only one meaningful bout previous to his fight for the welter crown, a 10-round draw with Hedgemon Lewis last November.

Palomino attended Westminster High and Orange Coast JC before enrolling at Cal State Long Beach, where he plans to graduate in December. Managed by Jackie McCoy, Palomino's four-year pro record is now 24-1.

Sports briefs

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Four-time United States Olympic equestrian team member Frank Shapot guided Coach Stop to a first-place finish in Sunday's Adirondack Grand Prix jumping event which closed the seventh International Lake Placid Horse Show.

Shapot earned $4,500 for his owner by winning a jump-off with 15 other horses. Seventy horses were originally entered in the event.

Second place went to Rodney Jenkins, who rode Mr. Demeanor. Conrad Homfeld rode Balbuco to the third-place finish.

Olympic team members from Australia, Japan, Guatemala, and Canada also participated in the 10-day event which officials claim is the largest horse show for hunter and jumpers in the United Etates.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Second-round play began today in the $100,000 Western Tennis Championships with the top seeds emerging unscathed from the first two days of action.

The top four seeds—Eddie Dibbs, Roscoe Tanner, Harold Solomon and Stan Smith—all posted first-round victories Tuesday afternoon on the Coney Island clay courts.

The next two seeds, Dick Stockton of Dallas and Tom Gorman of Seattle, won opening matches Monday.

Eddie Dibbs, the top seed from Miami Beach, beat Fred McNair, Chevy Chase, Md., 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, while the second-seeded Tanner, Kiawah Island, S.C., disposed of Ken McMillian, Ft. Worth, Tex., 6-1, 6-2.

The No. 3 seed, Solomon, Silver Spring, Md., beat Hubertas Hoyt, Newberry, N.Y., 6-2, 6-1, and Smith, the No. 4 seed from Sea Pines, N.C., scored a 6-1, 7-5 victory over Steve Turner of New York City.

The only seeded player to fall in Tuesday's matches was No. 12 Jim Delaney, Potomac, Md., who lost to Charlie Ownes, Tuscaloosa, Ala., 6-3, 6-4.

LATROBE, Pa. (AP) — Tom Keating's whereabouts are a mystery to the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Keating, 33, a 13-year veteran of the National Football League, was cut by the Steelers before the start of the 1974 season and sent to the Kansas City Chiefs.

However, a federal judge ruled earlier this month that the defensive tackle should be reinstated to the Steelers. The case involved a number of onetime officers of the NFL Players Association who contended their teams cut them because of union activity.

Keating was supposed to fly to Pittsburgh for a physical from his home in Oakland, Calif., on Sunday.

However, a Steeler spokesman said Tuesday, he still hasn't shown up.

COON RAPIDS, Minn. (AP) — A 25-year-old groundskeeper from Boise, Idaho whose only goal in the U.S. Public Links Golf Championship was to be among the 64 qualifiers for the match play title won medalist honors Tuesday.

Left-hander Jeff Thomas compiled rounds of 69 and 71 to finish four under par after two days of qualifying on the windswept, hot and muggy Coon Rapids Municipal course.

Thomas was the only player to break par both days of the qualifying for match play, which begins today. It took a score of 155 or less for the low 64 players who intermatch play.

SEATTLE (AP) — Second-round draft choice Dennis Johnson of Pepperdine University has signed a four-year contract with the Seattle SuperSonics despite the objections of another National Basketball Association team.

Johnson, a 6-foot-4 forward-guard, inked the contract Tuesday which begins at $45,000 a year and ends at $75,000 a year with a one-year, no-cut provision.

Sonics owner Sam Schulman said the NBA gave its blessings to the transaction, which had been opposed by the Los Angeles Lakers.

Johnson, a college junior, was Seattle's second pick in the second round even though he had not applied for hardship status. Los Angeles argued that Johnson was not eligible to be drafted.

But the NBA ruled that because Johnson did not attend college in what would have been his normal freshman year, he was eligible to be drafted this year.

MONTREAL (AP) — Soviet gymnast Olga Korbut fell Tuesday night while practicing on the balance beam during a dress rehearsal for Olympic competition next week. Her right arm struck the bar but was not injured.

ABC interrupted its telecast of major league baseball's All-Star Game from Philadelphia to show her fall and assure viewers that she was not hurt.

Maria Filatova, 14, upstaged Miss Korbut in the competition which had 100 competitors from 19 nations and drew a crowd of 10,000 at the Forum.

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Steve Fink of Studio City slipped to a 74 Tuesday but won the fifth Western Amateur Golf Association Summer Series tournament with a three under par 141 at San Luis Rey Golf Course.

The UCLA sophomore won by two strokes over Rick Mallicoat of San Diego, Dave Stanley of Bakersfield, Keith Eggersten of West Covina and Ray Vanyo of San Bernardino.

The sixth tourney in the series will begin Monday at Mesa Verde Country Club in Costa Mesa.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The Albuquerque team of the Pacific Coast League has given former major league pitcher Ron Bryant his unconditional release.

Bryant, a left-hander, pitched in 13 games for Albuquerque, the Triple A farm club of the Los Angeles Dodgers. He had a 2-3 record with a 6.89 earned run average in 49 2-3 innings.

He was acquired by the Los Angeles organization in March after five seasons with San Francisco and one with St. Louis. Bryant won 24 games for San Francisco in 1973.

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. — Adrian Dantley scored 25 points to lead the U.S. Olympic basketball team to an 85-75 victory over Canada in the team's final exhibition game.

KITZBUEHEL, Austria — Top-seeded American Arthur Ashe rallied to defeat Peter Szoeke of Hungary 4-6, 6-2, 6-4 to advance to the third round of a $75,000 tournament.

HILVERSUM, The Netherlands — No. 1-seed Wotjek Fibak was upset on the opening day of the Dutch International Open Tennis Championship by Fred Hemmes of The Netherlands 7-6, 7-6.

Urquidi's home run paces Montclair win

Montclair's Legion team held off Ontario Post 112 for a 5-4 victory Tuesday night at John Galvin Park while La Verne Post 330 lost to Anaheim by an identical score at La Verne College.

Dave Urquidi got Montclair's offense going in the top of the first inning when he blasted a two-run homer clear out of the park over the leftfield fence. Montclair added a run in the second when Ed Salazar singled, advanced on two ground outs and scored on an error.

The winners completed their scoring in the fifth inning as Kent Gurney singled and stole second and third, Urquidi walked, Mike Kizziar singled home Gurney and Urquidi scored on another big error.

Ontario did not get untracked until the seventh inning, when starter and winner Mike Breslin (4-5) was chased by a three-run uprising.

Tom Bessett and Dave Crowe singled and Neal Weeks doubled them both in and scored himself on an error.

Ontario scored another run in the eighth on Crowe's fourth hit of the game and left the tying run at third base in the ninth inning when reliever Don Pierce got the final out on a pop up.

Salazar and Kizziar each finished the game with two hits for Montclair, now 10-11 overall and 6-7 in conference play after four straight conference wins.

La Verne jumped off to a 4-0 lead after two innings but saw Anaheim score twice in the eight and final inning of a game called by darkness, giving the visitors a 5-4 victory.

An error, a balk, a walk and a passed ball put Anaheimers at second and third before a bloop single brought home the tying and winning runs.

Ron Pickinpaugh hit a two-run homer for Post 330 in the first inning and a third run scored when Paul Richards walked, stole second and third and raced home on Bill Bumstead's single.

The final La Verne run scored in the second inning when Curt Burkhart tripled home Richards, who had walked again.

Anaheim scored three runs in the top of the third — two of them on a line drive single off the forehead of starting pitcher Burkhart, who suffered a bump on the head and a headache but was able to finish the game on the mound and in right field. Ralph Ortega relieved Burkhart in the fifth inning and suffered the loss, his first in two decisions.

La Verne, 23-10, will send Dave Drury (5-1) against Arcadia Post 247 at Arcadia County Park tonight at 7. Montclair will meet Claremont in a non-league game Thursday at Pomona College at 5:30 p.m.

Diamond Bar wins B.L. championship

Diamond Bar number 2 made five hits count for nine runs and a 9-3 win over Glendora South Hills Tuesday night to win the Big League championship.

Diamond Bar under Clint Park finished the second half of the season with a 9-2 record and compiled a 16-4 mark for the season.

Winning pitcher Butch Long struck out nine and walked only one. Except for the fourth inning, he kept Glendora from scoring.

The winners picked up a run in the second without benefit of a hit. Two walks and the error did the trick. Two more runs were added with one hit in the third. Mark Stanley singled off the top of the left field fence for the only hit of the inning.

What turned out to be the winning run scored in the fifth on a hit, walk, stolen base and wild pitch. Ken Wilson's two-run homer in the fifth iced the game. A walk, two stolen bases and another wild pitch accounted for the third run of the stanza.

An error, walk, double steal and another error gave Diamond Bar its final two runs in the seventh.

Glendora scored all its runs in the fourth inning on two singles, a wild pitch and a two-run home run by Dick Sorina.

Seals' move near fruition

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Mel Swig, co-owner of the apparently Cleveland-bound California Seals, will be in Chicago tonight at a meeting of the National Hockey League's Finance Committtee to try to consummate the franchise shift.

The Coliseum got a new owner Tuesday in Washington's Sanford Greenberg. Greenberg announced that he signed a tentative lease with the Seals because he wants to fill the arena with excitement.

Swig's meeting could help bring Greenberg's dreams to fruition. Swig signed a five-year, no option lease with the new Coliseum brass over the weekend, and believes that he can now satisfy the demands of the committee that rejected him several weeks ago.

Finance committee acceptance will guarantee the advent of NHL hockey to Cleveland, since the Board of Governor's has already approved the switched pending finance committee acceptance.

Sr. Division teams open tourney action

Post-season baseball play begins Thursday for the valley's Little League Senior Division (ages 13-15) teams.

District 20 action begins Thursday evening with four games scheduled at Pomona's Ralph Welch Park while two contests will open District 23 action at Ontario's John Galvin Park Monday night.

In both cases, the tournaments are double-elimination events.

The championship game in District 20 will be on either Friday, July 23, or Saturday, July 24, depending on how the tournament goes while the District 23 title game is slated for Saturday, July 24.

District 20 will use both diamonds at Ralph Welch Park.

DISTRICT 20
Thursday's games
La Verne vs. Glendora American, Welch Park No. 1, 5:30 p.m.
Pomona National vs. Glendora So. Hills, Welch Park No. 1, 7:30 p.m.
Pomona American vs. Pomona Northwest, Welch Park No. 2, 5:30 p.m.
Ted Greene vs. Diamond Bar, Welch Park No. 2, 7:30 p.m.
DISTRICT 23
Monday's games
Chino National vs. Chino Hills, Galvin Park, 5:15 p.m.
Ontario North vs. Upland Foothill, Galvin Park, 7:45 p.m.
Tuesday's games
Ontario International vs. Ontario North-Upland Foothill winner, Galvin Park, 5:15 p.m.
Montclair Central vs. Chino National-Chino Hills winner, Galvin Park, 7:45 p.m.

Thursday's action begins with La Verne playing Glendora National at 5:30 p.m. on diamond No. 1 while Pomona American meets Pomona Northwest on diamond No. 2.

At 7:30 p.m., Pomona National plays Glendora South Hills on diamond No. 1 while Ted Greene meets Diamond Bar on diamond No. 2.

Pomona Southwest drew a bye in the first round and will open play at 6:30 p.m. Friday against the Ted Greene-Diamond Bar winner.

District 23 action begins Monday with Chino National playing Chino Hills at 5:15 p.m. followed by Ontario North meeting Upland Foothill at 7:45 p.m.

Montclair Central and Ontario International will open play on Tuesday night.

KNX lands SC football

LOS ANGELES — USC football returns to KNX radio (1070) this year after a nine-year absence.

Tom Kelly, "voice" of Trojan football, will do the play-by-play. Columnist Bud Tucker will again supply the color.

KNX formerly broadcast USC football for 10 years, from 1957 to 1967. First game of the season is Saturday, Sept. 11 at 7:30 p.m. against Missouri.

Cooke keeps seeking coach

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lakers' owner Jack Kent Cooke apparently is shopping around for a new coach for his National Basketball Association team, but in the meantime he doesn't want to lose the services of Bill Sharman, who's guided the team for the past five years.

Minutes before Sharman's five-year contract with the Lakers was to expire, Cooke announced that he had "agreed in principle to a multi-year contract employing Sharman as an executive in the Laker organization."

That announcement made just before midnight Monday means that, if Cooke hires another coach, Sharman will move into an executive suite in the Forum. If Cooke cannot come up with a coach he prefers over Sharman, then Sharman will once again be down on the floor running the team.

Sharman, who's apparently highly respected by Cooke, said he was happy to have the chance to stay with the Lakers, whether as coach or executive.

"I'd always hoped," Sharman said, "that as long as I was involved in professional basketball that it would be with the Lakers. Therefore I'm happy that my future is now tied so tightly with the Laker family."

The question of Sharman's longevity with the Lakers arose in the last two years when the team failed to make the playoffs for the first time in their history in Los Angeles.

The Lakers were 40-42 last season, improving 10 games from the 1974-75 season, but still fell just shy of making the playoffs. Cooke was quoted as being upset with his team's performance, especially in view of his big deal in which he acquired Kareem Abdul-Jabbar for four players.

Sharman, however, has been a very successful pro coach after an 11-year career as a player in the NBA, the last ten years with the Boston Celtics.

He broke into coaching with the old American Basketball League, coached later at Los Angeles State and in the American Basketball Association and won the NBA's Western Division title as coach of the San Francisco Warriors in 1966-67.

Sharman took over for Joe Mullaney five years ago and began to win almost immediately. His 1971-72 team set an all-time pro sports record for consecutive victories, 33, and the squad that season won Los Angeles' only NBA title.

As a player, Sharman teamed with Bob Cousy to give the Boston Celtics one of pro basketball's all-time great backcourts. He led the Celtics in free throw shooting for ten seasons and his lifetime foul shooting percentage of .883 was an NRA record for a decade.

His 56 consecutive free throws stood from the 1958-59 season until this year and he had a career scoring average of 17.8 points per game which is still No. 5 on the all-time Boston list.

Africans may ask blacks for support

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Black American Olympics entrants are to be asked today to follow various black African countries in withdrawing from the games, says The Sacramento Bee.

The Bee quoted an anonymous source Tuesday as saying black Africans would approach the American blacks "individually in an attempt to promote the pullout."

"A traumatic political experience" could result, the source said.

The Bee said the requests, in Montreal, would come from representatives of about 30 countries in the "Supreme Council For Sports."

The request would be "to follow Tanzania's lead and follow the black African countries in pulling out...."

The reference to Tanzania meant that country's protest against the New Zealand rugby team's tour of South Africa just after 170 Africans were killed in Soweto race riots.

The Bee said the countries protesting against segregation are "such places as Algeria, Cameroon, Chad, Andorra, People's Republic of Congo, Antigua, Ethiopia and the Ivory Coast. They are supported by delegations from Nigeria, Morocco, Mali, Kuwait, Kenya, Zambia, Uganda, Zaire, Tanzania, Senegal, Sudan, Swaziland and others."

Said the source, who asked to remain unnamed: "If the most powerful nations — Kenya, Nigeria and Ethiopia, those who've had success in the Olympics — decide to boycott, all the black Africa teams will follow.

"It nearly happened at the Munich Olympics when Africa protested Rhodesians being allowed in the Village and IOC President Avery Brundage labeled it 'blackmail' at the services for the murdered Israelis."

Eight years ago in Mexico City, The Bee said, a black student from San Jose State University, Harry Edwards, tried to promote a protest against prejudice toward blacks in the United States.

The Bee said that resulted in Tommie Smith and John Carlos, who placed first and third in the 200-meter dash, wearing black gloves and bowing their heads while on the victory stand.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS CALLING FOR BIDS

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Trustees of the WALNUT VALLEY UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT of Los Angeles County, hereinafter referred to as the "District", will receive up to, but no later than 11:00 A.M. of the 22nd day of July 1976, sealed bids for the award of a contract for the RELOCATION OF EXISTING RELOCATABLE BUILDINGS FROM VEJAR ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, WALNUT, CALIFORNIA; AND CASTLE ROCK ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, DIAMOND BAR, CALIFORNIA; TO WALNUT HIGH SCHOOL, WALNUT, CALIFORNIA; including all appurtenant work. Such bids shall be received in Conference Room No. 1 at the District Administration Center, 476 S. Lemon Road, Walnut, California 91789; and shall be opened and publicly read aloud at the above stated time.

Each bid must conform and be responsive to the contract documents. Copies of the contract documents are now on file and open to public inspection in the said offices of the District and of Davis-Duahime Associates, Architects, 2031 E. Cerritos, Suite H, Anaheim, California, and may be obtained at the office of the Architect.

Each bid shall be accompanied by the security referred to in the contract documents and a list of proposed subcontractors.

All bids shall be made on the bid form furnished by the District.

The District reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any irregularities or informalities in any bid or in the bidding.

The District has determined the general prevailing rate of hourly wages in the locality in which this work is to be performed for each craft or type of workman needed to execute a contract, which will be awarded to the successful bidder or bidders, to be as listed below:

Any classification not anticipated and below listed shall be paid at the current wage rates for the applicable trade and classification in effect with the Building & Construction Trades Councils. If any rates listed below are not current or are revised by labor agreements during the bidding time or construction time, such revisions shall be considered a part of the below listed rates.

Overtime shall be paid for work performed in excess of the regular day's work and at the rate for overtime of the craft involved.

It's a Racquet

THEIR SCHEDULE MAY SEEM somewhat of a nightmare but 12 junior players definitely won't be asleep the night of July 23-24. Instead, they'll be putting their fondness for tennis to use in the fight against cancer.

The 12 will gather at the Claremont Tennis Club at 8 a.m. July 23 and for the next 24 hours all will be playing doubles continuously on three courts set aside for their marathon. Their only breaks will be five-minute rest periods each hour and a 15-minute pause for dinner.

Tennis is fun, and all that, but the youngsters, all ranging in age from 15 to 18, are committing themselves to the event with a higher purpose in mind. Each will solicit pledges from relatives, friends and the general public for contributions per hour of play. All the money will go to the American Cancer Society's Northeast Los Angeles County Unit.

Fifteen-year-old Steve Norin of Claremont is chairman of the marathon as well as one of the participants and his brother Scott, 13, is co-chairman. The cancer society has endorsed the project in memory of their grandmother, Violet Kauffmann, who died last month of cancer.

As a child star under the name of Violet Wilkey, Mrs. Kauffmann performed in "Birth of a Nation" and other movies of that era.

Besides Steve Norin, other combatants on the Claremont courts — partners will switch around and scores will be tallied — will be Ken Lindberg, Mark Christian, Gregg Betts, Bob Conner, Tai Martin, Eric Gosswiller, Mike Leos, Pete Mabie, Randy Mason, Robin Su and Pam Papa. McDonald's Restaurants and Winchell's Donut House will provide food for the players, while the Sportsman will furnish the tennis balls. The Norins can be reached at 626-0602.

SPEAKING OF TENNIS GRINDS' the finalists in the San Jose Hills Racquet Club's mixed doubles event last Saturday must have ended up feeling they'd had the game up to their Adam's apple. Here was the format for the "Guys and Dolls Superstars" competition at Mt. San Antonio College:

To start with, the 48 entrants were dispersed to six courts, four men, four women to each court. They played through four rounds of eight-game contests, switching partners for each round. At the end of that phase, the man and woman with the best records from each court teamed up for a play-off series against other champs. By the time Reno Frigo and Heidi Kirkland defeated Claro Guico and Joyce Shaffer, 5-3, in the finale, seven hours had elapsed since play began at 8 a.m. Of course, that time included a lunch provided under the entry fee.

CLAREMONT TENNIS CLUB will have that long awaited handball-racquet ball building by November. Club general partner Stan Clark announced the start of construction this month by Alco Corp. of San Diego, specialists in this type of work at a site south of the club's swimming pool and children's play area.

The half-million-dollar stucco building will be the first major handball-racquetball facility in the valley, Clark says, and its 19,000 square feet will be a catch-all for these uses: 10 paneled courts, pro and snack shops, a lounge with glass viewing window for the championship court, a completely equipped exercise room and men's and women's locker rooms, each with steam bath, dry sauna and hydrotherapy pool. Although the building will be predominately one story, a second floor viewing area will overlook each of the courts.

VALLEY RACQUET CLUB has a new pair of mixed doubles front-runners. Bob and Sue Haag moved up from the No. 2 spot on the club's ladder by beating the leaders, Nancy Smith and Mike Ashbrook.

Meanwhile, in last Thursday's mixed-up doubles competition Lou Wright and Don Smith were the winners, with Bob Haag and Bunny Luce sharing the consolation title The Claremont club hosted a Red Hill Country Club team in an informal match last Saturday, Red Hill winning 10-5.

"POT OF GOLD" references to the $125,000 prize money for this year's Pacific Southwest Open are out. "Black Gold" is in. Atlantic Richfield Co. has agreed to sponsor Sourthern California's most distinguished tournament in this, the event's Golden Anniversary year. But the oil company's support means a slight name change. The ARCO Pacific Southwest Open will run from Sept. 18 to 27 at UCLA, where it moved last year from the Los Angeles Tennis Club. Fifty years ago, Bill Tilden won the first Pacific Southwest and other past winners have included Ellsworth Vines, Fred Perry, Don Budge, Jack Kramer, Pancho Gonzales, Rod Laver, Jimmy Connors and last year's champion, Arthur Ashe.

The Southern California Tennis Association, which is presenting the event along with the UCLA Alumni Association, will use tournament proceeds to develop tennis in the area.

THAT TV BUBBLE apparently will soon burst. The networks are saying that ratings don't justify all the tennis programming, hence, the net sport will feel the ax next year. Up to this point, though, it's been some kind of spree. Sports Illustrated reported recently that tennis in 1971 was alloted only 30 hours of air time, only two per cent of the sports total. Now it's 13 per cent of the sports air time for 225 hours. And the number of events on TV has increased from seven to 70 in the five years.

But Carl Lindemann, head of NBC sports, told and affiliates convention in Los Angeles: "It becomes obvious that the earlier glowing predictions for tennis as a television attraction are not being realized. We will be cutting back substantially in 1977." And this recently from Clarence Cross, director of sports for CBS; "The days of tennis by the ton are over. We love tennis and make money with it, but the number of tournaments and overlapping of them confuse viewers."

O.K., so tennis fans are players, not watchers. Even so, one wonders what kind of a mass audience NBC expected by showing the World Team Tennis all-star match last Saturday night at 11:30. Only the insomniacs were still eyeing the tube until 3 a.m. when the West finally pulled out its super tie-breaker, 28-27 victory.

Half million for Ron Lee

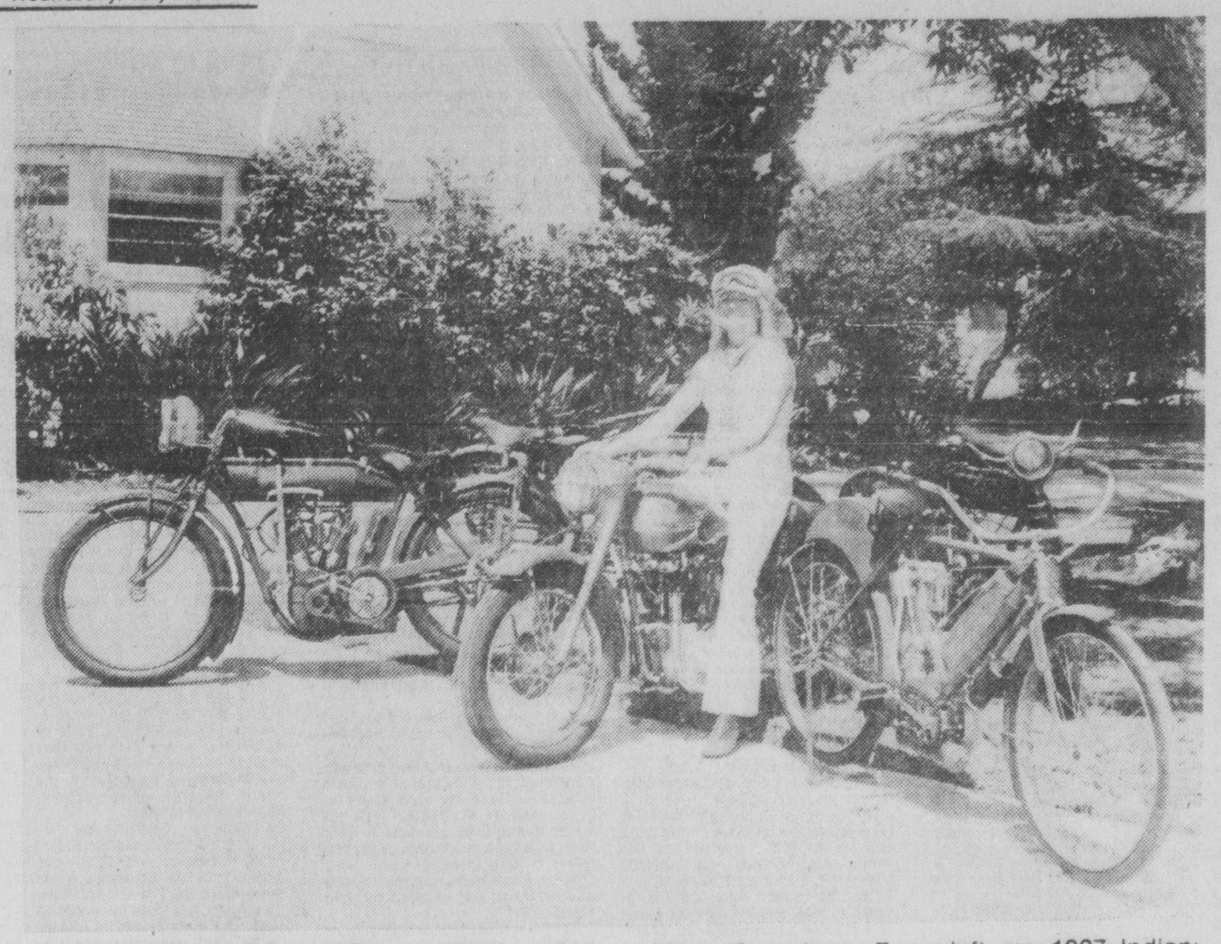
EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — A source in Eugene says former University of Oregon basketball star Ron Lee will receive $475,000 for signing a five-year contract with the Phoenix Suns of the National Basketball Association.

Radio station KUGN, which broadcasts the university's football and basketball games, reported the terms of the contract Monday.

The station quoted a reliable source as saying Lee's no-cut contract provides an $85,000 salary the first year and $5,000 pay raises each year after that.

Lee was the Suns' top draft pick. The 6-foot-4 guard is the all-time leading scorer in the Pacific-8 Conference and the only player ever to be named to the all-conference team four years in a row.

Lee signed the contract last week. Terms were not announced at that time.



MOTORCYCLE CLASSICS — These old machines are part of the antique and classic motorcycle display to be featured at the W/ERA Motorcycle Fair and Show Sunday at Ontario Motor Speedway. Old motorcycles to be displayed

The grace and craftsmanship of old-time motorcycles will be on display Sunday at Ontario Motor Speedway in the West Coast-East Coast Roadracing Association's Motorcycle Fair and Antique Motorcycle Show.

Motorcycles have a rich and varied history largely unknown to the general public. For example, the first motorcycles were built, experimentally, way back in the 1890's. And right at the turn-of-the-century, 1900 in fact, the first Indian was manufactured in Springfield, Massachusetts, when the whole country was raising its eyebrows over Henry Ford's Model A.

Back in those good old days, the only American "moto-cycles" were Indian and Harley. The Harley was nicknamed the "Milwaukee Tremor" because it shook so much. And the Indian was dubbed the "Prince Albert can" due to its resemblance to a popular tin of tobacco that was colored red, just like the bike.

Also on display at the Antique Show Sunday will be "Classic" Vincents. Antiques are motorcycles produced prior to 1928. Classics are bikes produced after that time that are no longer manufactured. Two Englishmen joined their creative juices in 1929 to design and build a machine far ahead of its time. The "Vincent H.R.D.," named after its engineers — H.R. Davies and Vincent — averaged 120 m.p.h. when other motorcycles of the day had to strain to make 100 m.p.h.

'Cycle race set at OMS

West Coast-East Coast Roadracing Association (W/ERA) is hot to make motorcycle roadracing a prime spectator sport in California as it is in Europe. W/ERA is sanctioning its premier Pro-Am National road race and — as an extra added attraction — Motorcycle Fair Antique Motorcycle Show Saturday and Sunday at Ontario Motor Speedway.

The W/ERA event is the only national road race to be held this year at Ontario.

Though only two years old, the Philadelphia-based racing organization found good reception to the sport in the east; so good, in fact, that a year ago it added the "W" when it decided to go national. The W/ERA battle at Ontario kicks off a series of Nationals scheduled throughout the year in Indianapolis, Missouri, Sebring, Las Vegas and Texas.

According to Dr. Peter Frank, a physician-roadracer and president of W/ERA, the emphasis in motorcycling has been traditionally on dirt track racing, leaving road racing behind "as a poor second cousin with second-class status." He pointed out that of 40 scheduled races put on by the American Motorcycle Association (AMA), only four will be national road races. "W/ERA, though still in its infancy, has lined up six national road races," Frank stated.

Better than 300 amateur and professional roadracers are expected to "burn their fairings" trying to give it their best shot at Ontario, because it is the points qualifier for the Texas Grand Finale National in December.

Dr. Frank said he feels that the major factory teams unfairly dominate the sport, and usually garner "up to 90% of the purse." This is one of the primary reasons W/ERA is stressing the pro-am aspect of road racing in its attempt to "open up" the sport to the individual competitors.

Pursuing further that objective, the roadracing organization has taken out ads in several large motorcycle publications that say: "Race More With W/ERA," which reflect a different style of putting on a road race: classes have been simplified and streamlined; starts have been made more like short bursts; number of heats per class have been increased; and most importantly, W/ERA pays prize money in more positions. The first ten in each final will win money.

W/ERA is furnishing a guaranteed purse of $1,200. More interestingly, W/ERA is directly involving the motorcycle manufacturers by selling them display booth space at Ontario in order to fatten the purse. Total prize money is at $3,250. to date, and still climbing.

The Motorcycle Fair concept, complete with swap meet and antique show, is designed to attract the spectator as well as die-hard enthusiast.

Skip Manning is top NASCAR rookie

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Consistency has helped put Skip Manning of Bogalusa, La., out front in the race for rookie-of-the-year honors on the grand national circuit of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Manning has entered 14 races, missing only the two at Riverside, Calif., and has 273 points toward the $10,000 NASCAR prize.

Neil Bonnett of Hueytown, Ala., is second at 153. But he's entered only seven races and can catch up with more competition and a few good finishes.

Other rookies in the running for the honor are Jimmy Means of Huntsville, Ala., with 127 points, Terry Bivins of Shawnee, Kan., 114; Darrell Bryant of Thomasville, N.C., 113; Baxter Price of Monroe, N.C., 78, and John Utsman of Bluff City, Tenn,, 74.

Southland racing

ONTARIO — West Coast-East Coast Roadracing Association (W/ERA) will sanction a Pro-Am National motorcycle road race Saturday and Sunday at Ontario Motor Speedway. The racing event — the only national motorcycle road race to be held this year at OMS — will be accompanied by a motorcycle fair and antique motorcycle show both days.

Hospital is offering sports symposium

LOS ANGELES — Coaches and trainers who work with youthful athletes will learn how to protect young team members during a special program to be held at Orthopaedic Hospital, Friday, July 23, and Saturday, July 24.

Presented primarily by physicians who specialize in treating sports-related injuries, Orthopaedic Hospital's Sports Medicine Symposium is conducted annually and consists of slides, lectures, films and demonstrations. The program is designed to teach athletic personnel working with young people how to prevent injuries through proper conditioning and training, and how to recognize and cope with injuries

Over 200 southern California high school and junior college coaches and trainers, school nurses, and non-school-affiliated coaches from YMCAs, Little League and Pop Warner teams are expected to attend the symposium this year. Sponsored by the hospital, the Sports Medicine Symposium is under the direction of J. Harold LaBriola, M.D., and Sonny P. Cobble, M.D., who conduct a weekly sports injury clinic at the non-profit specialty hospital. Dr. LaBriola is also orthopaedic consultant to the USC Athletic Department.

Speakers this year include: Frank W. Jobe, M.D., team orthopaedist, L.A. Dodgers; Philip H. McFarland, M.D., team physician at Fullerton Jr. College and orthopaedic consultant to Cal State Fullerton; Vic Braden, tennis coach at The Vic Braden Tennis College; Richard Llewellyn, athletic director, Los Angeles Athletic Club; Tony Russo, athletic trainer, Citrus College and head trainer for the L.A. Times Indoor Games and the 1968 U.S. Olympic Track Team.

Other speakers are: Roger Katz, M.D., pediatrician who will talk about athletics and the asthmatic child; Charles R. Ashworth, M.D., orthopaedist with practice limited to hand injuries; Peter Dyck, M.D., neurosurgeon, who will discuss head and neck injuries; James Kleckner, M.D., ophthamologist, who will discuss eye injuries; William S. Stryker, M.D., orthopaedist, who will cover fractures, and Robert K. Gustafson, M.D., orthopaedist, will discuss spinal curvature problems in young athletes.

Special guest at the symposium will be Orthopaedic Hospital founder Charles LeRoy Lowman, M.D., who was a basketball and horseback riding coach while attending medical school in the early 1900s. Dr. Lowman was one of the first orthopaedists to take an interest in preventing injuries through proper conditioning.

The symposium, scheduled for all day Friday, July 23, and half a day on Saturday, July 24, will be held in the hospital's Andrew Norman Memorial Hall, 2400 S. Flower St., Los Angeles. There is no registration fee, but reservations are required due to limited space. Optional graduate credit will be available from McPherson College. Two semester units will be available at $26.50 per unit.

Reservations may be made by calling the hospital (213) 747-4481, ext. 504.

'Sparks from Eden'

New drama bows in L.A.

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

"Sparks from Eden," an intriguing and thought-provoking two-actor play, was given its world premiere last weekend at the tiny Century City Playhouse in Los Angeles.

The comedy-drama will be repeated at 8:30 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and July 22-25. Reservations can be made at (213) 696-9635.

"Sparks from Eden" was written by Linda de Vries, former head of the La Verne College drama department and one-time theater instructor at Pomona College. She also directs. The cast is made up of Rose Portillo and Ron Robertson, former students of Mrs. De Vries at Pomona College.

The play is "a celebration of the mystery of man and woman based on the writings of Jung," Mrs. De Vries says. It is presented in song, dance, ritual, mime and fantasy. In their quest for answers to "Who am I?" and "Who are we?" the two characters slip into mythology and history, becoming at intervals Adam and Eve, Lancelot and Guinevere, Helen and Paris, Isis and Osiris, Orpheus and Eurydice and others.

Miss Portillo and Robertson are two superb young actors who respond intimately and intelligently, move like dancers and project images of warmth and reality. They also sing pleasantly the ballads that stud the script — "Are You There?" "Alone and Waiting," "Lament for Her" and others. The accompaniment is provided by the tasteful guitar work of Pomona College student Scott Wilbur.

"Sparks from Eden" is thoughtful, imaginative and continually interesting. It is in need of tightening, running overlong and occasionally becoming repetitious. It also would benefit from more humor, though some brief, bawdy scenes are very amusing.

Century City Playhouse is at 10508 W. Pico Blvd.

Starlite books VCTeens

VCTeens, the youth auxiliary of Valley Community Theater, will present its current play, "Story Theater," at the Starlite Patio Theater, Montclair Civic Center, at 8 p.m. Tuesday. Admission is free.

"Story Theater" is a stage adaptation of well known tales taken from Grimm's fairy tales and Aesop's fables. The stories, adapted in a variety of styles from ancient to modern, include "The Bremen Town Musicians," "The Robber Bridegroom," "Henny Penny," "Fisherman and his Wife" and "The Golden Goose."

Directed by Kevin Whitaker, the cast includes Laurel Dove, Cathy Kirby, Steve Spencer, Kevin Whitaker, Diana York, Norman Gee, Sherry Lyons and Jeff Zupan.

BIG BOUNCER — One of the corps of clowns does a high-flying pratfall in the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, opening Tuesday at the Forum in Inglewood. The 29-performance engagement runs through Aug. 4. Tickets are on sale at the boxoffice and mutual agencies.

Met star set at H'wood Bowl

Metropolitan Opera soprano Judith Blegen will be soloist in concerts at the Hollywood Bowl at 8:30 Friday and Saturday nights. Eugene Ormandy will conduct the Los Angeles Philharmonic.

About Miss Blegen, the New York Post said: "She has a voice like a sky full of stars on a summer night. It glows with warmth, evenness and security." The New York Times wrote: "She has everything: beauty of tone, grace of ornamentation, sureness of musical instinct, conviction of personality." And the London Times calls her "deliciously vivacious, beautifully-rounded in tone and alert of phrase, and outrageously pretty."

Miss Blegen will sing the arias "Vorrei spiegarvi, o Dio," and "L'amero saro costante" from "Il re Pastore" by Mozart; the Laughing Song and Audition Aria from "Die Fledermaus" by Johann Strauss, and "Da Draussen im Duftenden Garten" (Out in the Fragrant Garden) from "A Waltz Dream" by Oscar Straus.

Ormandy, ending his week-long bowl engagement, will lead the orchestra in two major works: Mozart's Symphony No. 35 ("Haffner"), and Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony; and also in two Johann Strauss pieces — Overture to "Die Fledermaus" and "Tales from the Vienna Woods."

'Norman, Is That You?'

Red Foxx to star in film

By DICK KLEINER

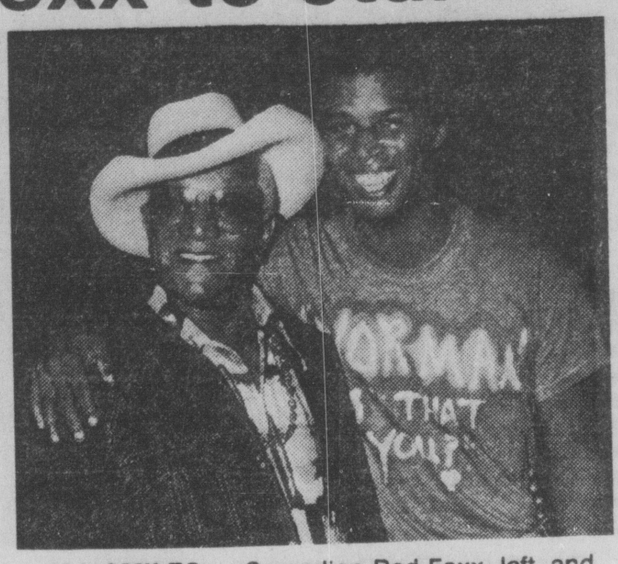
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — "Norman, Is That You?" has had a curious history on the stage, and it may have an even more curious history on screen.

When it first opened on Broadway, it was a loud flop. But it has managed to catch on in various revivals around the country and has done well. Presumably, that's because it is slightly risque — it deals with homosexuality in a comedic way — and because it has a small cast and one set and is therefore inexpensive to produce.

Currently, a screen version of "Norman" is now before the Hollywood cameras. It is being produced and directed by George Schlatter, the man who helped make Laugh-In the huge success it was. This is Schlatter's first film.

He says he saw the play seven years ago, liked it, felt it would make a good movie, and bought the property then. But, at the time, he was too busy with TV to do anything but sign the check and feel good about the transaction.

His thought, then, was to make it with George C. Scott in the leading role — a father who discovers his son is a homosexual — and Scott liked the idea. But they never could work out a schedule to do it; when Scott was free, Schlatter wasn't and vice versa.



ALL SMILES — Comedian Red Foxx, left, and Mike Warren, former UCLA basketball star, take a break on the set of "Norman, Is That You?" now filming in Hollywood. The comedy also stars Pearl Bailey. The director is George Schlatter.

Schlatter says he always knew he would make it someday, and further, it would have to be made in the summer.

"I can make more money," he says, "doing television in the television season. So I'd have to make 'Norman' during the TV hiatus period. The only way doing this movie can earn me more money than I make on TV is if it goes through the roof, and I know what the odds are against that."

During this past TV season, he happened one Sunday evening to catch Redd Foxx when he was a guest with Cher on her CBS show, before she reteamed with Sonny. Redd did a dramatic reading which impressed Schlatter. He had a bright idea — why not integrate "Norman"?

He showed his script to Foxx who liked it, and thought it would make an interesting film. Schlatter next showed it to Pearl Bailey, with the idea of her playing Foxx' wife in the film.

"She was retired," Schlatter said, "but she liked it and quickly unretired."

The play seemed to transfer easily from being an all-white affair, as it had always been done, to being part-black. Now, in Schlatter's version, Norman and his family are black but Norman's "roommate" is white.

"The fact that Norman and his folks are black really doesn't matter at all," Schlatter says. "What we have here isn't a racial story, it's a comedy about people. And, actually, our cast is really a mixture — we have whites, blacks, Mexicans, Orientals, straights, gays, everything."

Despite the homosexual theme, it really isn't a picture about homosexuals at all. The result, Schlatter says, is that it "will be a PG-picture, because I wanted to make a movie I could take my daughter to see."

He feels strongly that there should be such films.

"You know," he says, "not everybody uses that four-letter word. I know the word — I know them all and I've used them all and even invented some new ones — but I don't always use them. There are times when I speak very nicely, and there should be movies when people speak nicely, too."

Besides Foxx and Miss Bailey, the cast also has Mike Warren, the ex-UCLA basketball star, as their son, and a young actor named Dennis Dugan as the roommate.

Dugan says to be careful and put only one "G" in his last name — "One G, about the same as the money I'm making."

For Redd Foxx, this is only his second movie and his first starring role. He had a cameo in "Cotton Comes To Harlem" which he describes as "a small thing — not much of a part and not much money, either."

On the set, he is sitting with his legs raised, delivering some off-camera lines. Schlatter and the others are solicitous of his legs, which have been bothering him, as a result of an old football injury.

In the past, Foxx says, he turned down a number of film offers because they were generally in black exploitation pictures. He says he didn't want any part of that, but he likes "Norman" and thinks it could become a classic, like "Sounder."

"I'm not playing Sanford again," he says. "I've clipped my moustache, shaved off my goatee, dyed my hair white. But it's hard, after playing Sanford for seven years, to be someone else."

He says he'll play Sanford for one more year, then switch to ABC. He believes what he'll do there, although it isn't yet absolutely certain, will be to front a variety show.

Chaffey plans mime program

Mirror Mime Troupe No. 1, a group of six theater arts majors at Chaffey College, will present "A-Way with Words" in the Little Theater at 8 p.m. Friday. Tickets are $1.

Bette Raya, a member of the company, wrote the show and will direct it. A mime artist in her own right, she formed the group some months ago when she decided to get more persons into the act and come up with a highly diversified performance. She is a resident of Cucamonga.

"A-Way with Words" is a mixture of pantomime and illusions, a demonstration of the creativity and inventiveness of Mirror Mime Troupe No. 1.

Reservations may be made by calling the box office, 987-1745 or the college, 987-1737, Ext. 322.

MOTOWN MIRACLES — Al Green and The Miracles will perform at the Universal Amphitheater in Los Angeles at 8:15 p.m. July 22-24. The group, specializing in Detroit's Motown sound, has been recording for 18 years. Sharing the stage with the group will be English-born rock artist, David Mason. Roberta Flack and Jose Felicano will appear at the amphitheater July 27 and 28.

Owens laughs at Hollywood

LOS ANGELES (AP) — New York TV types speak of Hollywood as a bronzed bin of sun-addled actors flim-flam artists, truss adjusters and no claim to sanity. But I grew up here and it never seemed crazy.

But just in case, when I hit town I called Gary Owens, the hand-on-the-ear announcer of the old "Laugh-In" show, to ask if Hollywood is the same stable community I knew as a tyke.

"Yes, indeed," he said. "It's still the same swell town. It's still true that underneath all this phony tinsel there's real tinsel."

Owens, a native of Mitchell, S.D., is what you'd call a veteran Hollywood observer. He came here 15 years ago, breaking in as a writer and voice on Jay Ward's "Bullwinkle" cartoon show.

A top personality at radio station KMPC here for nearly 14 years, he currently is hosting the nighttime version of a syndicated effort called "The Gong Show," scheduled to start on the tube in September.

In the show, a celebrity panel passes judgment on fresh new talent, some of which may strike viewers as unusual, Owens says.

"Our first show, for example, has a man dressed in a tire," he noted. "He pours chocolate syrup under his arms, puts spaghetti on his shoulders and stands before a magnifying glass and talks."

Nothing unusual there.

Veteran Hollywood observer Owens said other forms of activity here haven't changed much from the old days. TV and movie stars still meet at places like the Brown Derby and Polo Lounge to fib and seek work.

And the kids and geriatrics still are out on Sunset Boulevard, hawking maps to the homes of the stars.

"The kid on my block sells maps to the homes of movie extras," said Owens, marvelling at the lad's ingenuity. "For a slight additional fee, he shows where the extras milled about in an elevator scene."

He said although the stars don't appear in public as much as in past years, they do turn out by the droves to watch and appear in celebrity baseball games hosted by the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I usually announce those things and they let me play the last inning," he added.

Without insurance?

"No problem," the announcer intoned. "My voice is insured by Lloyd's of Tijuana."

Some sartorial changes have occurred in Hollywood, he said. The men here have taken to wearing hats, which in sunny Southern California used to be as common as a door buzzer on a tomb.

And because of shows like "Kojak," in which Telly Savalas wears a vest, vests are very big here now, Owens continued.

"I've always worn a vest, so I feel the world is catching up with me now," he said. "Of course, I don't wear anything else ..."

The veteran Hollywood observer mused for a minute when asked if he had any advice for the newcomer to the community.

"Well," he finally said, "don't ever sit and have breakfast with the Six Million Dollar Man. When he gets hiccups, garage doors open and close all over town."

CTA pushing proposal

Teachers seeking overtime pay for after-school events

A request by teachers to receive overtime pay for attending PTA meetings, parent conferences and after-school events, among other things, surfaced this week as contract negotiations throughout the valley's school districts got under way.

The proposal is part of a "master contract" advocated by the California Teachers Association for all affiliates in the state.

A local educator called it a "labor document, not an educational proposal, one that sets up adversary relationships between the parents and the teachers."

And a PTA official warned that the proposal, if accepted, would spell the end of parent support for teachers.

But a spokesman for valley teachers said such a contract already is in effect in Oxnard, where educators work an eight-hour day and get paid for assignments and meetings at night.

Locally, school boards are generally denying the request for now. But school administrators say they realize the issue will be coming up every year from now on.

In Claremont, the school board, in a counterproposal declared that teachers will put in 90 hours of time a year for such items as parent conference, professional growth, home visits, parent-faculty association meetings, back-to-school night programs and other things.

That amounts to two hours a week.

The master contract proposal is the result of the Rodda Act, which took effect July 1. It gives teachers full bargaining powers.

Del Pfeifer, executive director of the Association of Pomona Teachers, said every unit of the CTA was sent a model contract, along with other contracts more than six months ago. He said chapters then chose what to use in their own proposals.

A CTA proposal was submitted to the Pomona School board last March, but the proposal was tabled at that time without discussion, because board members felt it was too soon to consider it.

That proposal called for time and a half pay for non-teaching assignments during the school day and double time for assignments after classes are out. That request is now coming up for decision.

A similar proposal is before the Claremont, Ontario-Montclair and Bonita school boards.

It was Monday night's public hearing of the teachers' proposal at Bonita that brought the CTA requests to the surface.

In addition to the time and a half request for nonteaching activities, the teachers there also are seeking a reduction of classloads, as well as more teaching specialists, which, if accepted, would cost the district a one-third jump in expenses.

Supt. James Johnson said the district would have to hire 100 additional teachers to fulfill the request.

He said the proposal, if accepted, would cost the district nearly $3 million a year.

"It's a bad model," he said. "It leaves us no place to turn. It's a contract set up by labor consultants, who neither seem to understand nor care about education or children."

The teachers' demand to get overtime pay for attending PTA meetings and parent conferences also was criticized by the parents.

Mrs. Kay Borges, president of the Bonita Council PTA, said she was "not only disappointed, but disheartened" by the request.

And Mrs. Sue Moran, president of the Allen Avenue PTA said that if the board decides to pay teachers overtime for attending PTA meetings, her group would cancel them, rather than deprive the district of money needed elsewhere for the education of children.

Johnson said the proposal was "setting up an adversary situation between the parents and the children. Unfortunately, our teachers are caught in the middle. They are being told by the CTA that they should negotiate for the model contract; then they are being reprimanded by the parents for following those instructions."

Johnson said his school board has submitted a counterproposal to the teachers which provides for a two per cent pay raise and a 20 per cent increase in fringe benefits.

Will announce running mate Thursday

Carter makes it 'official' tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Carter reaches a crucial milepost on his long, once lonely journey from Georgia toward the White House when tonight he receives the Democratic presidential nomination. Not until he has that prize in hand does Carter intend to name his running mate.

Carter began this day of fulfillment by meeting a series of groups anxious to have his ear and also worked on his acceptance speech.

The third session of the Democratic National Convention is to open at 8 p.m. EDT, and sometime before midnight, during the call of the roll of delegations, Carter's vote total will top the 1,505 needed for the nomination.

With that accomplished, the nominee will call the six senators on his list of potential running mates and notify them of his choice. Carter then intends to announce his choice publicly at a news conference on Thursday.

Considered at the top of that list were Sens. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota and John Glenn of Ohio.

Also in the running were Sens. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Frank Church of Idaho and Adlai E. Stevenson III of Illinois.

Carter's choice will be ratified by the convention Thursday night just before the former Georgia governor delivers his acceptance speech.

The convention approached its climax in an atmosphere of unity with party leaders and delegates determined to do nothing to upset Carter's careful plans to win the White House, held by Republicans for nearly eight years.

Amon the meetings on Carter's schedule was one with Democratic governors. Gov. Reuben Askew of Florida, chairman of the group, said the purpose was "to try to help him in any way he feels he needs assistance rather than trying to lobby him on any particular candidate."

Carter also met with nine labor leaders for what an aide described as a "get acquainted session." After the meeting, a Carter spokesman said the union leaders urged Carter to choose Mondale as his running mate.

Carter is one of four candidates whose names will be placed before the convention tonight for the presidential nomination. The others are Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona, Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., of California and Ellen McCormack of Long Island, N.Y.

Udall doggedly but unsuccessfully pursued the nomination through the long primary campaign. Brown entered late and defeated Carter in six states, but the Georgian had the nomination all but clinched before Brown got into the race. Mrs. McCormack campaigned on an antiabortion platform.

Rep. Peter W. Rodino of New Jersey, who presided over the hearings into the impeachment of Richard M. Nixon two years ago will deliver the nominating speech for Carter. Seconding speeches will be given by Margaret Costanza, vice mayor of Rochester, N.Y., and by Rep. Andrew Young of Georgia.

Former Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox will place Udall's name in nomination. Udall has said he would release his delegates before the balloting begins.

Cesar Chavez, head of the United Farm Workers Union, will deliver the nominating speech for Brown. James M. Killilea of Boston will nominate Mrs. McCormack.

Some Massachusetts delegates wanted to place Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace's name in nomination. They circulated petitions and obtained the required signatures, but their plan was thwarted when Wallace refused to grant his permission. The convention rules require that an individual agree to having his name placed in nomination.

The Associated Press' poll of convention delegates showed Carter with 1,794 votes on the verge of the big roll call. Udall had 316.5, and Brown 281. It takes 1,505 delegates to win the nomination.

Before coming to New York Tuesday, Muskie told a news conference in Portland, Maine, it was "conceivable" he might decline the nomination if it is offered, noting he had passed up a chance to run with George McGovern on the 1972 ticket. He ran as Hubert Humphrey's vice presidential choice in 1968 when the ticket lost.

Diamond Bar man charged in beating death of wife

A 35-year-old Pacific State Hospital employe suspected of beating his psychologist wife to death in Diamond Bar in March will be arraigned on murder charges in the Valley Municipal Court in Fontana.

The case came to light Monday when Los Angeles County sheriff's homicide investigators arrested Danny Lee Dyer, 38, on murder charges at Pacific State Hospital in Pomona and booked him in the West End Jail in Ontario.

Dyer was arrested on an arrest warrant signed by a Fontana Municipal Court judge after a formal complaint was filed by the San Bernardino County District Attorney's office.

Dyer is accused in the death of his wife, Luann C. Dyer, 38, of 23559 Golden Springs Drive, Diamond Bar. Mrs. Dyer, a staff psychologist at the California Rehabilitation Center in Corona, admitted herself to Kaiser's Fontana Hospital on March 7 with severe stomach injuries. She died some 24 hours later.

According to Los Angeles County sheriff's investigators, on March 7 Mrs. Dyer called the Sheriff's Department complaining that she was beaten. When a deputy arrived at her home, she had already called an ambulance and requested transportation to Kaiser Hospital in Fontana. Deputies at the time were unable to determine whether or where Mrs. Dyer had been beaten.

When she died, a full-scale investigation was called. Deputies said it was still not known exactly where Mrs. Dyer was beaten, thus the decision on whether to prosecute was left in the hands of San Bernardino County officials.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Bill Parker said Tuesday that there was strong evidence, presented by Los Angeles sheriff's investigators and the San Bernardino County coroner's office that Mrs. Dyer was fatally beaten.

Parker said that murder charges may be brought against a person in the county in which the victim was allegedly killed or in the county in which the person died.

Los Angeles sheriff's investigators said the investigation is continuing in Los Angeles County, but more than likely the prosecution will take place in San Bernardino County.

Ford celebrates 63rd birthday; has checkup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President began his 64th year today as an underdog, slicing a birthday cake that urged him to "Give 'em Hell, Jerry."

The unnamed 'em on President Ford's cake could be Ronald Reagan or Jimmy Carter or both. Carter becomes the Democratic presidential nominee tonight and polls show he leads Ford in surveys gauging their relative popularity with voters.

Ford also took his semiannual physical today, with electrocardiogram and standard lab tests by his personal physician, Rear Adm. William Lukash, and that crimped an early birthday celebration.

The physical examination began at 8 a.m. in the White House residential quarters. It was expected to last an hour or so. Announcement of the results was expected later in the day.

Ford was the pre-game star at Tuesday night's baseball All-Star game and the celebration of his birthday began on the flight home from Philadelphia. Ford's staff brought out a birthday cake with five candles and the legend suggesting the presidential campaign of Harry Truman, an incumbent underdog who won.

Ford, confronted with the birthday cake, was reminded that he should not be eating prior to a physical exam. Turning to Lukash, Ford asked, "Couldn't it be postponed for 24 hours?" Lukash firmly shook his head in the negative.

So Ford cut the cake and passed pieces out to people on the plane. He did not eat a slice himself.

Penalizes heavy users

PUC adopts new energy price structure

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California has adopted a new price structure for household energy that penalizes heavy users and gives a break to the poor on their utility bills.

The "lifeline" formula approved 5 to 0 Tuesday by the state Public Utilities Commission cuts the cost for the minimum amount of electricity and natural gas needed to cook meals, heat and light a home, heat water and refrigerate food.

Above the minimum amounts of gas and electricity, which apply to all utility customers, the price climbs and the unit price goes up the more energy is used. Rates for lifeline amounts of energy will be frozen while rates for greater amounts will be allowed to rise until they are 25 per cent higher.

"It's a complete shift in philosophy, giving lower rates to people who use only a small amount of energy instead of granting substantial discounts to big users," PUC spokesman Eugene Raleigh explained.

"This is not a welfare measure. It applies to everyone. But the effect is to help low-income users," Raleigh said in an interview.

Two commission members said they voted for the new rate structure only because it was mandated by the 1975 California legislature.

"There is no such thing as a free lunch," said one, Vernon Sturgeon. He said a result will be that consumers will be paying more for products because of higher utility bills businesses and industries will have to pay.

"It's a cruel hoax," said the other, Wiliam Symons Jr.

The new rate formula provides for variation depending on climate and whether a home is all-electric. The PUC said up to 60 different rate arrangements are possible.

The system will be applied as the commission acts in the coming months on a series of rate increase applications from various utility companies, Raleigh said. He estimated the new formula will show up in consumer bills around November.

The new system will replace interim lifeline rates that went into effect eight months ago pending development of the new formula.

Lifeline amounts are plotted to fall short of energy used for air conditioning, domestic well pumping, washers and driers, television sets and small electric appliances.

Pomona hit by lawsuit over business tax

The state's Department of Health has filed a lawsuit against the city of Pomona charging that the city's institution of business license tax on board and care homes in the city is illegal.

The suit, filed in Los Angeles Superior Court, asks only that the city stop collecting and refund the $25 fee to those homes that have already paid the tax, said City Atty. Patrick Sampson.

The tax, being collected for the first time this year, applies to about 75 board and care facilities in the city. Most have already paid the fee, according to records in the City Clerk's Office.

Although a state law does prohibit cities from taxing for business license purposes board and care homes, Sampson claims the state's constitution supercedes the law with a guarantee that "charter cities are sovereign in all matters of municipal affairs."

Sampson said there is no doubt in his mind that "municipal affairs" includes the power to levy reasonable business license fees.

The tax would generate about $1,800 annually.

"If the state can eliminate a tax in this area, for whatever reasons, then theoretically it can also eliminate other taxing powers," said Sampson.

He said that general law cities, which would include the other cities in the valley area, could not levy such a fee because their taxing powers are limited to those areas designated through legislative action — which has never been done for board and care homes.

As an example of this difference between charter cities and general law cities, Sampson cited Pomona's utility tax, which only charter cities may levy.

Sampson said the case would probably be heard in about 60 to 90 days.

Controversial Claremont condominium given okay

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

The Claremont City Council Tuesday night by a 3-2 vote approved a tentative tract map for the controversial P. E. Howard development north of Foothill Boulevard and west of Claremont Boulevard.

Councilwomen Eleanor Cohen and Claire McDonald voted against approval because they had wanted to table the matter until July 22 after the Architectural Commission had been expected to finish its review of the proposed 16.7-acre condominium project.

Mrs. Cohen earlier had moved to table the matter, but her motion was rejected by Mayor Bertye Smith, and Councilmen Richard Newton and Frank Hungerford.

The Planning Commission June 1 had approved a conditional permit and unanimously recommended approval of the tract map.

The Architectural Commission had reviewed most of its conditions at its June 24 meeting, and had scheduled the remainder of the review at its meeting tonight.

But Mrs. Cohen pointed out that the developer was late in bringing in plans, and that the matter might not be considered by the commission tonight.

"I don't want to vote on this tonight," commented Mrs. McDonald. "It's the developer's fault that everything has not been completed."

She was joined by Mrs. Cohen who said she was concerned about the 6.7 units-per-acre density. "I had hoped that the planning Commission would lower the density," she said. "Because the development is under the Cable Airport flight pattern, it would have been better to have apartments."

Both women sided with residents to the west of the tract who don't want Blaisdell Drive as a through street into the project.

Several spoke Tuesday night, protesting the plan to link Blaisdell Drive with the tract.

Sid Hogue, 1532 Benedict Ave., said she didn't want Blaisdell Drive to go through because the planning Commission had failed to see the danger of the 90 degree turns in the streets in her subdivision, and cited several instances where city trees had been hit.

Robert Morsberger, 1530 Berea Court, recalled that 200 residents had signed a petition asking that Blaisdell Drive remain a cul-de-sac.

"Children would be endangered" by the increased traffic," Morsberger said.

Freeman Allen, 394 Blaisdell Drive, commented that the noise problem is likely to be severe.

"This is an area where you would want less density and better insulated buildings," he said. "The council should ask for a more imaginative plan."

Mayor Smith said that she had heard the Architectural Commission was satisfied with elements of the development, and as to the traffic problem on Blaisdell Drive, she told the residents: "You need some police patrol."

She directed Deputy City Manager Paul Brotzman to contact the Police Department.

She said she was pleased with the development plan, and commended the staff and commissions.

Hungerford said he doesn't know what a developer could bring in that would make everybody happy. ..He favored leaving Blaisdell open, because parents taking children to Chaparral School would need to go by Claremont and Foothill boulevards to Mills Avenue if Blaisdell were not open.

"I favor acting on this tonight," he said. "We have everything we need."

Newton agreed. "If we put this off we're not being fair to anyone," he said.

Mrs. Smith suggested adding the conditions that density cannot be transferred from one tract to another, that the ban on parking of boats, campers and trailers be included in the deed restrictions, and that any added conditions by the Architectural Commission be complied with.

The added conditions were approved.

Re-enact Harris incident at trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The judge and jurors stood to watch a prosecutor sprawl on the floor and a witness straddle him in a re-enactment of a May 1974 incident that brought wild gunfire from Patricia Hearst and a chase through the streets of Los Angeles.

Anthony Shepard, a sporting goods store clerk who was to continue his testimony today, gave the demonstration of how he tried to capture Symbionese Liberation Army member William Harris for shoplifting.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Richard Harbinger, a graying prosecutor in a blue suit, shed his jacket and played the role of the supine Harris while Shepard, a tall black man with a billowing Afro hairdo, sat on him.

Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler allowed the display in the heavily guarded bulletproof courtroom after an alternate juror expressed confusion about Harris' position during the scuffle.

Harris, his wife, Emily, and Miss Hearst are charged with kidnaping, assault and robbery.

Shepard's appearance capped an eventful first day of testimony in which store owner Carroll William Huett described Miss Hearst as the pale bewigged gunwoman who opened fire on his store. Miss Hearst has admitted she was the disguised assailant he saw.

Innocent plea in shooting

A Los Angeles policeman accused of wounding a private detective he found with his girlfriend May 10 in Rowland Heights has pleaded innocent in Pomona Superior Court.

The defendant is Victor Lee Denham, 30-year-old veteran of eight years on the Los Angeles Police Department. He entered the plea before Judge David F. Cunningham who scheduled Denham's pretrial hearing for Aug. 24 and his trial for Sept. 8. He is charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

Denham, who lives in Walnut, was arrested at his home shortly after the shooting. He surrendered without incident to sheriff's deputies and his own supervisor from Los Angeles.

The victim, Robert Lee Petrasich, 26, of Monterey Park, was wounded in the lower chest and for a time was in critical condition at County-USC Medical Center. The shooting took place at the home of Sandra Broussard, 26-year-old woman described by investigators as Denham's girlfriend. She was not injured.

Denham is free on $3,000 bail.

Truman Capote fined

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Truman Capote, the writer charged May 30 with driving while intoxicated, has been fined $165 after pleading guilty.

Capote, 51, agreed Tuesday to attend a state rehabilitation program for people who are convicted of driving under the influence of alcohol. The charges stemmed from a two-car wreck in Bridgehampton, where Capote maintains a home. No one was hurt.

The writer's attorney said if Capote had refused to attend the rehabilitation program, his driver's license would have been automatically revoked.

Margaret O'Brien

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former child film star Margaret O'Brien has given birth to her first child, a daughter named Mara Tolene Thorsen.

The baby was born two minutes before midnight Monday, weighing 7 pounds, 14½ ounces. The actress, 37, is married to business executive Roy T. Thorsen.

Landscape educators meet

One hundred twenty-five instructors of landscape architecture will attend a three-day meeting of the Council of Educators in Landscape Architecture at Cal Poly Pomona Thursday through Sunday.

The meeting is being coordinated by Stephen S. Bochkor, associate professor of landscape architecture.

The conference discussions will focus on the minimum basic courses that accredited landscape architecture schools should teach.

Staff section plans meet

All medical staff secretaries in the valley are invited to a general meeting sponsored by the Medical Staff Section of the Association of Western Hospitals on July 21.

The 6:30 p.m. dinner will be at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and reservations are requested by Thursday.

Mrs. Helen Boughton, secretary of the Medical Staff Section and executive secretary for the PVCH medical staff, said the program will stress how the medical staff secretary can help promote good public relations.

Speaker for the evening will be Lynn Rogers, director of public relations at PVCH.

Reservations can be made by calling 623-8715.

Commission seeks photos

Pomona's Centennial Commission is seeking additional historic photographs of Pomona for inclusion in its Centennial history scrapbook.

Water is Rotary topic

Lange Winckler, public information officer for the Pomona Valley Municipal Water District, will describe the valley's water problems when he talks to the La Verne Rotary Club Thursday noon.

The talk, "Water Supply in Pomona Valley — a Short(age) Story," will be given at Castaway Restaurant in Pomona.

Apartment unit to meet

James P. O'Neill, president of the Orange County Tenants Association in Fullerton, will be speaker tonight at the Apartment Association, Mt. Baldy area, monthly meeting.

The program, starting at 7:30 p.m., will be held at the Claremont library. The speaker will discuss the tenants' point of view in renting apartments and why they are organizing their own associations.

Vic Tessier, the association's attorney, will conduct his "problem" clinic.

Chino to close off divider

Work is scheduled to begin in Chino this week on closure of the Central Avenue median divider at D Street to east-west traffic.

Because of expected traffic problems near the city's new Civic Center, the decision was made not to allow east and west traffic through that intersection, said John Gerardi, acting city manager.

Persons traveling on D Street will be able to make only right turns at the corner of Central and D. The closure is in accordance with the Civic Center master plan.

Democrat platform offers all things to all people

NEW YORK (AP) — Now that Jimmy Carter has a platform applauded by Democrats as diverse as Coretta Scott King and George Wallace, there are some party figures who wonder how long he'll stand on it.

The platform, approved by Democratic National Convention delegates early today with hardly a murmur of dissent, performs the near political miracle of being all things to all people.

Carter said his supporters helped prepare the exact wording of the platform, labor leaders said they were successful in almost every item of the charter and a spokesman for the party's left said, "It's a platform which progressives in the party happily support."

Carter's supporters made sure that some platform planks contain qualifying language that falls short of an absolute commitment to proposed goals. But that didn't deter praise for the document.

Wallace, himself an unsuccessful candidate for the party's nomination, hailed the platform as a Democratic commitment to "cut the government to it's proper size," even though Carter has said his pledge to reorganize government is not a promise to reduce the size of the federal bureaucracy.

Reflecting the unity that has prevailed at the convention, Wallace shook hands on the platform podium with Mrs. King, widow of the late Martin Luther King, whose civil rights efforts put him at odds with Wallace.

Mrs. King told delegates the party's platform will make further strides in support of equal rights for all Americans.

Delegates gave their strongest applause to Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, considered a leading Carter choice for the vice presidential nomination. Muskie said the platform establishes for America "a very simple priority: let us put America back to work."

The convention made only one change in the document that was drafted by the party's platform committee in Washington in May. The change proposes legislation to ease restrictions of the Hatch Act and to allow federal workers to engage in some political activity.

Otherwise, the platform was approved as proposed, without opposition on the floor. Delegates seeking discussion of some sections, such as the platform's neutral stance on the abortion issue, were unable to win enough votes to allow debate. The abortion section says that while religious and ethical concerns about abortion are recognized, "it is undesirable to attempt to amend the U.S. Constitution to overturn the Supreme Court decision in this area."

Carter has said the platform should be "a contract with the people." But some Democrats said they question whether a Carter administration would deliver on the platform's promises.

Ben J. Wattenberg, a convention and platform committee representative of Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a former candidate for the party's nomination, said some Democrats probably will be disappointed that not all of the platform will be enacted.

"A lot of it is rhetoric ... politicians are not idiots; they know it can't all be done at once," he said.

A black leader, Rep. John Conyers of Michigan, said he was not optimistic that a Democratic administration would implement the platform. "We had some of our worst fights when Johnson and Humphrey were in the White House and when we expected them to live up to their promises and they didn't as many times as they did."

And Sam Brown, a member of the platform drafting committee and a former antiwar activist, told a rally of party liberals that if a candidate fails to live up to the platform, the party should "throw him out."

Michael Harrington, chairman of the Democratic Socialist Organizing Committee, told the rally that "we've got a full employment pledge in the platform, and we've got to make it stick." He was applauded by party liberals when he declared they must prevent a single Democrat "from sneaking off that Democratic platform plank."

A qualifying passage written in the employment plank by Carter supporters pledges the party to make "every reasonable effort" to reduce adult unemployment to 3 per cent in four years.

Pledges for federally financed national health insurance and guaranteed minimum incomes for the poor and elderly note that "accomplishing our goals in the areas of human needs will require time and resources." The platform does not carry an estimate of the cost of any program.

Some economists, including some Democrats, question whether unemployment can be slashed to the full employment level without setting off a new round of serious inflation. But Carter has said the nation can have low inflation, low unemployment and a balanced budget by 1980 if the economy grows at even a near-normal rate of 4 to 6 per cent a year.

Party conservatives are attracted by the platform's pledges for government reorganization and zero-based budgeting — a concept requiring programs constantly to demonstrate their usefulness.

The platform also says that the social programs it proposes do not require a larger bureaucracy. But if Carter could institute major new federal programs without adding to the federal payroll, he would be doing something not accomplished before.

The platform is only about 20,000 words long, about half the length of the party's 1972 charter.

In addition to full employment, health insurance and minimum income guarantees, it calls for tax reform to increase federal revenues by $5 billion a year and advocates an immediate cut of $5 billion to $7 billion in defense spending.

But it pledges support for adequate funds to meet the nation's defense needs and calls for continued pursuit of better relations with "traditional adversaries."

It supports busing to achieve racial integration of schools as "a judicial tool of last resort."

Under the platform, draft evaders and others in trouble because of peaceful opposition to the Vietnam war would be pardoned, but war deserters would be subject to a case-by case review before amnesty would be granted.

There is no mention in the platform of homosexual rights, marijuana or capital punishment.

Humphrey cheered by Democrats

NEW YORK (AP) — Hubert Horatio Humphrey, who has wanted to be president since the Articles of Confederation, maintained a stiff upper lip although the lower one may have suffered a slight quiver.

His reward was the longest, loudest ovation of Tuesday night's session of the Democratic National Convention, from a party that once more had passed him by.

By now the old warrior must be weary of trying not to be a sore loser. He tried four times to get his party's nomination for president and got it but once, in the worst of times, at the worst of conventions.

"I have good news for you tonight: we will have a Democrat in the White House Jan. 20," shouted the man who won't be that Democrat, and the crowd shouted back its approval.

"They say go slow, not now, no, no, veto. We've had enough of that defeatism. ... If America ceases to be good, America ceases to be great."

At the end, Muriel Humphrey took the hand of her twinkling husband and led him off the platform and he was gone, reluctant but smiling, a vivid memory in a baby blue suit.

He came and he went in a long procession of the party's familiar faces and last hurrahs, the former heroes and the forgiven villains, the widows, the passing symbols of profound change.

The delegates also cheered George McGovern in apparent forgiveness for the disaster four years ago. He issued a strenuous call for the defeat of those other fellows and then he, too, was gone, with less than 24 hours to wear a title nobody remembered, titular head of the Democratic party.

Ed Muskie appeared, attempted a casualness, tried a few jokes and then, with great effort, sounded the bugle for a cavalry charge that fell somewhat short of Light Brigade. In oratory, John Glenn and Muskie, two out of the three men believed to be Jimmy Carter's top choices for vice president, have now failed to light up the sky.

The chairman introduced a "very special person, for whom all Democrats have a special affection," and there she was, rising demurely from the VIP box, waving and smiling in her tentative way, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis. The convention came to its feet, turned to its right and cheered.

Inevitably, one was reminded of the appearance of another widow at Democratic conventions. But when Eleanor Roosevelt entered, she was somehow spotted without introduction and the word spread and the delegates stood and the galleries roared and the whole business of the convention came to a prolonged halt. Poignant in its moment, there is less veneration today for the reminders of past heroes.

George Wallace's appearance Tuesday night was framed in irony. He was preceded on the platform by the black mayor of Detroit, in whose office there now works one Rosa Parks. It was Rosa Parks, the Alabama seamstress, who began the Montgomery bus boycott, which ignited the civil rights movement in the South and the emergence of Martin Luther King.

Tuesday night, they cheered George Corley Wallace, who once stood in the school house door and now sat in a wheel chair, a gaunt face behind the microphones.

"Some of you need to laugh at me," he said, "but many of you are now saying the same thing: those bureaucrats in Washington ought to have their briefcases thrown into the Potomac."

Unseen hands pulled back George Wallace's wheel chair and he sank from the view of delegates. On the way out, he shook hands heartily with Coretta King, the widow of the civil rights leader. Nobody could remember whether her husband was ever invited to address a Democratic convention. She did Tuesday night, to a loud ovation, as "We Shall Overcome" swept the hall.

There were cheers, too, for Lynda Bird Johnson Robb, whose father has scarcely been mentioned in the last two Democratic conventions.

And for Richard Daley, the Lord Mayor of Chicago, who couldn't get a seat in the convention four years ago.

Insurance broker faces murder charge

A Rowland Heights insurance broker was arrested Tuesday afternoon on murder, conspiracy and loansharking charges after a man who pleaded guilty earlier to first-degree murder implicated him, sheriff's deputies said.

The broker, Samuel H. Brooks, 47, was arrested at his Amalgamated Insurance Brokers at 18415 Colima Road in Rowland Heights. He was booked at the sheriff's station in Industry.

Investigators today described Brooks as "the apparent kingpin" in Southland loansharking activities, and added that he was arrested after Arthur Rohwedder, 40, said Brooks hired him to kill a man in Calabasas Feb. 14 who had stopped making payments on a loan made him by Brooks.

Rohwedder, of Indio, named Brooks after pleading guilty to the murder charge in Van Nuys Superior Court, deputies said. They said he entered the plea and cooperated in the probe in an attempt to avoid a possible death sentence.

The victim was Michael Kenney, 38-year-old private detective who lived in Calabasas. Kenney was ambushed and shot once in the chest with a .45-caliber automatic pistol as he returned home that evening. Rohwedder was arrested three days later and charged with the murder. Brooks reportedly was questioned at the time but was released because of insufficient evidence.

Investigators said Kenney had refused to make further payments on his loan and they charged that Brooks carried a $100,000 life insurance policy on Kenney's life at the time Kenney was slain. The amount of the loan Brooks is accused of having made the victim was not revealed.

Homicide detectives said they were seeking additional victims in the alleged loanshark business.

Fourth suspect

ONTARIO police have charged a fourth person with the thefts of 10 police and military airmen's badges and wings at the Bellevue Mausoleum last week.

Donald Eugene Myrich, 18, of 1161 W. I St., Ontario, was arrested at the Police Department Monday on burglary charges following interviews with detectives. Police said that Myrich admitted going with three juveniles to the mausoleum last week and taking several of the 10 police and airman's badges and wings from their crypts. Myrich said that the youths told him they had made four different trips to the mausoleum, each time removing the items. Police said Myrich joined the youths the fifth time.

The three juveniles were arrested Sunday by police investigating the burglary. The youths were turned over to juvenile authorities for disposition.

Police said that the eight police badges and two airman's wings had actually no value other than intrinsic. Officers said the badge could not be melted down and sold for scrap as they were not of solid brass or any other valuable metals. Several of the badges have been recovered.

Almanac

Today is Wednesday, July 14, the 196th day of 1976. There are 170 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1789, the citizens of Paris stormed and captured the Bastille. The fall of the prison marked the beginning of the French Revolution.

On this date:

In 1536, France signed the Treaty of Lyons with Portugal for an attack against Spain.

In 1798, Congress passed the Sedition Act, making it a Federal crime to publish false, scandalous or malicious writings against the government.

In 1879, Congress provided a yearly pension of $3,000 for President Abraham Lincoln's widow, Mary Todd Lincoln.

In 1958, Iraq's King Faisal II, his heir and the nation's premier were assassinated in a coup in Baghdad.

In 1966, eight student nurses were slain in a Chicago apartment.

In 1969, President Richard Nixon announced a national attack on narcotics and asked Congress to enact heavier penalties for LSD and marijuana violations.

Ten years ago: Roving gangs and snipers in Chicago's Black West Side section were exchanging gunfire with police in the third night of rioting.

Five years ago: Government troops were in action in Jordan, attempting to crush a Palestine guerrilla movement.

One year ago: Secretary of State Henry Kissinger warned the third world majority of the United Nations that its tactics in the General Assembly were alienating the support of the American people for the U.N.

Today's birthdays: President Ford is 63 years old. Writer Irving Stone is 73.

Thought for today: I am for the restoration of order, but not for the restoration of the old order. — Mirabeau, French revolutionary leader, 1749-1791.

Bicentennial footnote: Two-hundred years ago today, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, expecting a British attack against New York, asked the Pennsylvania Committee of Safety to send any available musket cartidges and balls to American forces near New York.

Education

Created by Congress in 1867, the Office of Education collects statistics related to the condition of education, disseminates information to aid the states in maintaining efficient school systems, and, in general, promotes the cause of education.

NAVY CONTRACT — A Pomona firm has been awarded a $4,027,730 contract by the U.S. Navy to construct a device that monitors escaping gases in submarines.

The firm is the Perkin-Elmer Corp., 2771 N. Garey Ave. All the work will be performed in Pomona, said Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., who announced the contract award.

BUSY AIRPORT — The Ontario International Airport had 667,224 airline passengers and handled 3,479,175 pounds of air cargo during the first six months of this year, setting a new mid-year record.

This compared to the six month period last year with 592,728 passengers and 2,870,970 pounds of air cargo.

The airport also reported an increase in flight operations — 80,060 take offs and landings for the 1976 reporting period compared to 72,929 for 1975.

There was, however, a decrease this year in air carrier operations. Officials reported 15,515 operations so far this year and 15,745 last year.

John Dickinson, airport manager, said the load factor per plane is increasing while the number of airline schedules is about the same as last year.

JOURNALISTS ELECTED — Ben F. Thompson, professor of communications at Cal Poly, has been reelected vice president of the Inland Professional Chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists.

Other officers are Leonard Metz, feature writer, San Bernardino Sun-Telegram, president; Walter M. Brasch, free lance journalist and media consultant, vice president, membership; Charles Roberts, news director, KCAL radio station, Redlands, vice president, programs; Ila Wales Brasch, family editor, The Herald-News, Fontana, secretary; and Ruth Austen, feature writer, Riverside Press-Enterprise, treasurer and immediate past president.

The chapter sponsors seminars and workshops in journalism. Membership is open to professional journalists with at least one year of experience.

OPEN HOUSE — The Ontario Post Office will hold an open house for its new building Saturday from 1 to 5 p.m.

The post office recently moved its main station from Holt Boulevard and Laurel Street to 1555 E. Holt Blvd. The new structure, with 35,000 square feet of floor space, was built at a cost of $1.5 million.

Off-duty postal employes will serve as guides for tours. Other employes will be on duty to handle the mail.

FIRST AID CLASS — The Pomona Red Cross will offer an eight-hour course in cardiopulmonary resuscitation and basic life support on July 24.

Pre-registration is required by July 20 and a $3 fee will be charged for materials.

The class will meet from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Red Cross Center, 420 N. Reservoir St., Pomona. A certificate will be issued to those completing the course.

SWIM LESSONS — Mother-baby swim lessons will be offered by the Pomona Valley YMCA for five weeks beginning Monday.

The lessons will be offered on Mondays and Wednesdays from 9:30 to 10 a.m. Cost is $15 per child.

For information, persons may call 623-6433.

Railroad buff

HATBORO, Pa. (AP) — Bob McFadden is a railroad tycoon in the dream world.

He has a collection of 5,000 rolling stock models which range from an inch-long antique toy to an 85-foot, real dining car.

"It may not be the largest collection around, but I have 95 per cent of a major manufacturer's regular production in the 20-year post-World War II period."

Eager to work around trains, McFadden, a 29-year-old school teacher, has worked as an engineer for a railroad and once served as a ticket clerk at a terminal.

Ontario girl is contest winner

Loren Wingerd of Ontario, Tina Munson of Ely, Nev. and Annah Lee of Carmel are the grand prize winners in the Donald W. Reynolds Foundation Inc. Bicentennial Essay Contest.

The Foundation announced today that Wingerd won the elementary division, Miss Munson the junior high division and Miss Lee the senior high division.

As grand prize winners, Wingerd will receive a check of $300 from the Foundation. Munson will receive a $500 check and Lee will get $600.

The three also received $25 for being local winners and $100 for being regional winners.

Judges for the grand prize competition were Charles E. Bishop, president of University of Arkansas, Fayetteville; Henry J. Tobias, chairman of the history department at University of Oklahoma; and Nevada Gov. Mike O'Callaghan.

The winners will also receive special Nevada Bicentennial medals from O'Callaghan.

Topic for the contest was "What I Would Give America As a Presdent on Its 200th Birthday and Why."

The grand prize winners were selected from several thousand local entries in Arkansas, California, Hawaii, Indiana, Missouri, Nevada, Oklahoma, Texas and Washington.

"The response to this essay contest nationwide has been very gratifying," said Donald W. Reynolds, president of the Foundation. "Everyone who entered put a lot of thought into their essays, but I'm especially proud of Loren Wingerd, Tina Munson and Annah Lee. I'm very proud of them and the excellent essays that they wrote."

Area girl voted most congenial

Sue Anne Stewart, 7, of Upland, California's entrant in the National Little Miss Contest, was elected "Little Miss Congeniality" by other contestants during the competition.

Sue Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stewart, 704 Tulare Way, participated in the recent national pageant in Roanoke, Va., as the state's official representative.

A student at Baldy View Elementary School in Upland, Sue Anne will retain her title of "California Little Miss' until next year's competition.

At the competition in Virginia, Sue Anne presented Mayor Noel Taylor of Roanoke a key to the city of Upland from Mayor George Gibson and a certificate from the Chamber of Commerce.

The young contestants exchanged gifts among themselves. Sue Anne gave the other girls red, white and blue drawstring bags filled with balloons from Disneyland, wooden nickles from Knotts Berry Farm, pens from Sunkist Products and Sunmaid raisins.

SUE ANNE STEWART

Contestants, ranging in age from 5 to 9, were selected on the basis of natural charm, poise and personality.

Proceeds from the national pageant benefit the St. Jude's Children's Hospital in Tenneesee, founded by Danny Thomas.

Sue Anne was accompanied to the contest by her mother and her grandmother, Mrs. Frank Wallbaum of Upland, who designed her original costumes and party dresses.

Issues play key role in school board choice

8 candidates interviewed publicly to fill Chino school body vacancy

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Year-round school, fundamental programs and collective bargaining emerged as key issues as the Chino school board publicly interviewed eight candidates for a vacant seat Tuesday night.

The unusual public session, a result of new state legislation, drew a sizeable crowd to the board room, even though trustees took no action after the interviews.

They are expected to appoint a new board member at next Monday's meeting to fill the seat vacated by Roy Ward, who resigned on June 22.

Candidates questioned included Robert Bertschinger, a television repairman and former mayoral candidate; Patrick Hooven, a Monrovia teacher who lost a tie breaker drawing for a board seat in the March 1975 election; Kenneth Main, former deputy sheriff who ran for the City Council this year; Carol Dobrikin, a Pomona teacher; The Rev. Robert Erickson, pastor of St. Margaret Mary Church; Earl Owens, a school consultant; Paul Peterson, a Cal Poly professor; and Lawrence Walker, a recent law school graduate. Dennis Weik, who earlier declared his candidacy, did not show up for the meeting.

Bertschinger, who is a Chino native, said he supports collective bargaining. "We need a board that wants to work collectively with teachers."

Asked by Board President Al McCombs for his stand on the controversial year-round program, Bertschinger said "I'd be naive to say eliminate year-round school. There's nothing we can do about it. We can't throw our kids out in the street. However, I have no preconceived opinions on YRS at Don Lugo or Chino high schools."

Developers should pay toward construction of school facilities, he noted, adding that was an issue he raised in the recent mayoral race.

Hooven flatly stated that he was elected to the board in 1975. "It was just a matter of chance or I'd be sitting there now. I am the logical choice. It would be ethical and moral to appoint me to the board."

Asked whether there would be any conflict of interest over his job as a teacher, Hooven said, "Rather than excluding people like me it would enhance the board to have me on it. I don't see teachers having any conflict."

Hooven, who was endorsed by an anti-YRS group in the last election, claimed he was "objective" about year-round programs. "My position is that YRS is something we should look at, and see if changes are necessary. I questioned the methods of implementation of YRS. But I never said I'd abolish it."

As for fundamental school, Hooven said he has an "open view" on the issue.

Main indicated that he could represent new residents in Chino, being one himself.

Asked his views on collective bargaining for employes, Main said, "All I know is what I read, so I can't answer that."

He cited campus violence as one of his major concerns. "Bad apples who don't want education should be either let go or convinced to attend school. The kids who want education have a right to get it. The school is not a battleground."

Mrs. Dobrikin said she was concerned over the district's low reading test scores, and indicated more concentration on reading at the primary levels could solve that problem. The quality of teaching also could be improved, she added.

The idea of fundamental school is a good one, Mrs. Dobrikin declared. She also favors a free school and RISE programs.

Better communication between the district and developers is necessary, she noted, to insure a balance between residential building and commercial industry. Mrs. Dobrikin lives in Carbon Canyon and could represent "outlying areas of the community."

Father Erickson stated he saw no conflict in his role as administrator of St. Margaret School. He noted his school is filled to capacity so he is not competing with the public schools for pupils.

He claimed St. Margaret's receives "very little" federal assistance for education.

He noted that there is a need for a fundamental school in that "there has been a breakdown of moral order in society." With the city's rapid growth, he said year-round school is a necessity in Chino. "I'm not saying if I like it or not."

Owens said YRS is not an issue now because there is a committee studying it and the controversy will be on the November ballot.

By law, the board must take part in collective bargaining, he said. Not saying if he favors the bargaining, Owens said board members may find themselves negotiating four and five-year contracts.

Owens said his philosophy is that education is a "learning process. The board is there to facilitate that process."

Peterson, a parent of five children, placed stress on being a "pragmatist" and on fundamental education. "We should infuse the philosophy of maintaining order, morals and decency in schools.

He added that while he favors the traditional program, others want year-round school. "I would support them in their feelings."

Peterson said he is opposed to constant television watching, which is taking away educational time from children. "I don't mind expressing my opinions on what kids should watch."

Walker, 24-year-old son of the principal at El Rancho School, said he sees no conflict of interest in his seeking a board seat. His mother is a district teacher and his brother and sister-in-law also work for Chino schools.

Special emphasis should be placed on early childhood education he said. "It would enable each student to achieve what he is capable of achieving."

Walker said that despite his youth, he could represent all segments of the community.

Motorized help for handicapped

Two vans, specially equipped to transport handicapped Citrus College students between their homes and the campus, are now in operation at the college.

Purchased with state and local funds at a total cost of $24,611.10, the two vehicles will be operated under the college's handicapped program which is also supported by state and local funding.

One van is equipped with an electrically-operated lift for wheelchair students; the second van is designed to transport handicapped walking students. Passenger capacity, as designated by state law, is six students in the wheelchair van and 16 in the other vehicle.

There is a great need for these vans according to Vince O'Boyle, director of the handicapped program at Citrus College.

At this time, there are 30 daytime students in the program at Citrus. Some have cerebral palsy and muscular dystrophy. Others are blind, deaf or disabled because of polio or automobile accidents. Some are Vietnam veterans. All meet the legal definition of handicapped.

Before the vans were obtained, O'Boyle said, transportation of handicapped students was difficult. "It was a hit or miss situation, trying to find them rides," O'Boyle said. "Now, with the vans, we will attract more students," he added. RTD buses cannot accommodate wheelchairs, he explained.

The vans are driven by college bus drivers who are trained to work with the handicapped. They will pick up students at their homes and bring them to school prior to their 9 a.m. classes and return them to their homes in the afternoon.

D.B. may form council to represent it with county

The first Municipal Advisory Council (MAC) in Los Angeles County may be formed in Diamond Bar, giving the 20,000 residents in that unincorporated area official representation before the Board of Supervisors.

It will happen in another four months, if voters in Diamond Bar do two things: first, approve the formation of MAC, and second, donate money to pay costs of an election.

Authorization for this move was granted representatives of the Diamond Bar Homeowners Association by a unanimous vote of the Board of Supervisors Tuesday.

The action culminated several years' work by the association and is seen by association leaders as an important step which would give the community an alternative to city government, an identity and recognizable borders.

George Resh, chairman of the MAC feasibility study and secretary of the homeowners board of directors, said that he and Martin Speigel, association president, attended the meeting in Los Angeles where the proposal was presented by Supervisor Pete Schabarum.

Resh said the first step in implementation will be conducting an election in Diamond Bar, scheduled Nov. 2, with the Presidential election.

It will present a proposition asking voters to decide yes or no on forming the MAC. It also will be to elect four council members. A fifth person to sit on the council will be appointed by Schabarum.

Resh said the election will cost the homeowners $20,000 and must come from donations. This would pay costs for placing the proposition and names of 17 council candidates on the ballot. Even one additional name would add another $6,000 because it would require a second sheet.

"We are going to ask that those who file be very serious," said Resh.

Requirements for candidacy are that individuals live in Diamond Bar, be registered voters and be able to gather petitions favoring their candidacy bearing signatures of 20 registered voters living in Diamond Bar, Resh said.

Petitions and formal papers must be filed with the Los Angeles County Registrar of Voters office between Aug. 4 and Aug. 24. There is no filing fee.

Resh said he would file for a council seat, and he was sure that "dozens" of others in Diamond Bar would be "very interested."

Resh, senior marketing representative with Cutter Laboratories in Berkeley, has lived in Diamond Bar 9½ years.

"We hope people in the community will make donations to the election fund," said Resh. He asked that checks be mailed to Diamond Bar MAC Election Fund, P.O. Box 4085, Diamond Bar 91765.

Resh said formation of an MAC would give Diamond Bar a satisfactory answer to the state, "which now says it wants no unincorporated area. We have no financial base on which to incorporate, so this is a very good alternative. We can say we have borders, we are a viable community," he explained.

"We will have an official voice with the county and can deal with zoning and planning matters as Diamond Bar grows.

"It will give us a community forum. Monthly meetings will be held. One of the reasons I want to run is to open an office in Diamond Bar, with a telephone, where people with problems can call and get help here without having to go to the county.

"Also, MAC will give Diamond Bar a much greater voice in the educational process."

L.V. child drowned

A child who apparently fell accidentally into a swimming pool drowned in La Verne Tuesday evening, police reported.

The victim, Matthew Domenic Braley, 3, was found in the backyard swimming pool of his home at 1948 Craig Way by his sister, 13-year-old Tina Braley. She summoned help and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation was attempted until the arrival of firemen and paramedics, but the child was pronounced dead later at San Dimas Community Hospital.

Police said the victim's mother was visiting friends at the time of the accident.

Chino cyclist killed in fall

An 18-year-old Chino man was killed early this morning when he lost control of his motorcycle and crashed on Philadelphia Avenue near Monte Vista Avenue in Chino, police reported.

John Joseph Traister of 4857 Harrison St., Chino, was pronounced dead on arrival at Chino General Hospital shortly after the accident was reported at 12:17 a.m.

Police said Traister was traveling east on Philadelphia Avenue approaching Monte Vista Avenue when he lost control of the motorcycle and crashed. Traister was thrown to the pavement and fatally injured.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Griffith Mortuary in Chino.

Dispute continues over S.D. firings

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The controversy over three fired commissioners continued Tuesday night in San Dimas as the City Council rectified what courts have declared an illegal action and a citizen spokesman accused three councilmen of wasting tax dollars on a "Don Quixote attacking the windmill" court appeal.

The central item was an ordinance adding a provision for the appointment and removal of planning commissioners, thus giving the council the authority to remove commissioners with or without cause.

The ordinance was on the agenda as a routine item, but Councilman James McLean, who with Councilman James Lough had opposed the firings, requested that Mayor Marvin Ersher separate the matter for discussion.

"This is an ordinance that actually legalizes what our City Council did in firing three planning commissioners and is after the fact," McLean said, referring to the March 22 dismissal on a 3-2 vote of Clyde Bartman, Gerald Klein and Robert Sturrock.

The three subsequently filed suit against the city and in a May 24 decision, Judge Norman Dowds ruled that the firing was an illegal action. In the ruling, Judge Dowds accepted the argument of attorney Stephen Jones that each of the commissioners had been appointed to four-year terms and unless they were guilty of misconduct or malfeasance of office, they could not be fired until their terms expired. He ordered the city to re-instate them.

The city decided to appeal the decision and will spend approximately $3,000 on the year-long process. City Atty. George Wakefield, who was appointed to replace fired Norman Oliver, said at that time that if the city rewrote its ordinance on this issue and put in a removal cause it would probably satisfy the appeals court. This decision was also a 3-2 vote.

"This council should not have the right to remove appointed officials without cause," McLean declared. "A judge has said this is illegal and I agree. I am opposed to this ordinance."

Wakefield asserted that the "purpose of the ordinance is simply to correct what was and is a technical defect in a provision of the government code. There is an understanding that appointed officers serve at the pleasure of the City Council. There is a provision that addresses itself specifically to the Planning Commission, fixing the terms of planning commissioners and providing for their removal."

Ersher noted that the removal clause now applies to members of the Juvenile Justice, Parks and Recreation and Senior Citizen commissions and the city manager, He commented that "planning commissioners don't have any vested rights" of exclusion from the provision.

Councilman Philip Wax said "We're talking in terms of people who have done something wrong against their own city."

John Rudolph, a spokesman for a group of about 50 residents, objected to the action on the ordinance and the "legal battle of no purpose." He said the appeal of Judge Dowds' decision was "a waste of our tax money solely for the satisfaction of the personal whim of the mayor and Mr. Wax and Mr. Dipple."

Rudolph said that those who had voted for Ersher, Wax and Dipple are now questioning their actions and improper use of power. He asked that the "mayor and City Council accept the rulings of the Superior Court, immediately re-seat Klein, Bartman and Sturrock and do not waste our hard earned tax money on this 'Don Quixote attacking the windmill' appeal."

Doug Fordyce, whose wife Beryl served as Wax's campaign manager, spoke in favor of the council majority and said the action to terminate was "in keeping with due process."

Wax dismissed the opposition arguments, declaring that the city get on with "business as usual." To Rudolph's accusation of wasting tax dollars, he responded "Only the ones who were taken out are making the waves. They're the ones making the dollars be spent. They ought to just be quiet and stop trying to split the council. The people running the city now are not incompetent."

Contacted this morning, Sturrock agreed that the council was within its rights in adopting an ordinance giving them the specific policy for the removal of appointed officials. However, he said: "The planning commissioners had certainly put in more hours and years of service than Mr. Wax has put in. The commissioners served with unselfish dedication, responding to the needs and goals of the city."

Woman's body found in alley in Ontario

The body of an Ontario woman dressed only in housecoat and pajamas was found on a bloody bedspread in the alley behind the Alpha Beta market at Euclid Avenue and Francis Street in Ontario early this morning.

Harvey Castro, deputy San Bernardino County coroner, said the woman has been tentatively identified as Mrs. Camillia Reece, 208½ W. Francis Ave., Ontario.

Ontario police homicide investigators were at the scene this morning attempting to determine if the woman had been slain, the victim of an accident or died naturally.

Investigators said that there were several strange circumstances in the woman's death.

Castro and officers said there was a small laceration on the woman's forehead and no other signs of external injuries, although the woman appeared to have lost a great deal of blood. The woman's bedslippers lay together next to her left shoulder and she was lying on the blood soaked bedspread, said Castro.

On the woman's wrist a small bracelet read, "I am an alcoholic." Officers said they had questioned several friends of Mrs. Reece who said she had some difficulty walking.

Chino dairy fair underway

Chino's annual Junior Fair and Dairy Festival got underway today at the Junior Fairgrounds with rabbit and hog showings plus landscape exhibits.

The fair, at Central and Edison avenues, will be highlighted by the barbecue Friday night and crowning of a fair queen the same evening.

Various animals will be on display Thursday and showmanship classes will be judged. Dog obedience will take place at 4:30 p.m.

The queen will be crowned at 7 Friday night. Saturday will be highlighted by a calf weight and age guessing contest, and butter churning and milk drinking competition. Sunday will belong to the Chino Valley Junior Riders and their open horse show.

Sharing an arms problem

The pace of scientific discovery is so great today in the Soviet Union and United States that a goodly share of the megabuck weapons now on the drawing boards here and in Moscow will be obsolete or well on the way to it before they're in the hands of troops in useful numbers.

Witness the costly antiballistic missile systems developed by both countries. And now being abandoned. The new families of Russian weapons, used by the Egyptians in the most recent Arab-Israeli battles, raised questions as to the survivability of the present generation of tanks and some types of planes.

Because even the simplest of the new weapons systems, are now so costly — running in the multibillions each — national defense inevitably will be an increasing burden on the economies of both countries. Increasingly costly weapons systems will have to be replaced with increasing frequency to keep parity or rough equivalency, or whatever terms seems useful in describing approximate equality between the United States and the USSR.

This will be true whether the strategic arms limitation talks are successful or not.

For there is no way SALT or any other treaty can stop scientific advance. Gains in some lines can be slowed by bans — say on open or concealed testing. But these restrictions will be compensated for by more intensive work in areas where no effective ban exists. And since the avenues open to science are almost infinite, treaty makers cannot touch all bases or close all doors effectively.

New breakthroughs in the understanding of underwater characteristics and the promise of eventual vastly improved ability for undersea surveillance give warning that the virtual invulnerability to detection now enjoyed by Polaris and the upcoming Trident submarines and their Russian counterparts will most certainly be broken.

Parallel breakthroughs in intercontinental missile accuracy threaten the survivability of static U.S. Minutemen and similar Soviet systems, regardless of how much effort is expended in hardening targets.

If present research is successful, long-range drones programmed to recognize certain typical ship characteristics and to attack on sight without human intervention, may eventually destroy the effectiveness of some major types of surface naval task forces.

Pentagon studies are already under way on missiles which will fire automatically without human intervention upon sensing or "seeing" specific targets they have been programmed to recognize. The targets could be incoming missiles, tanks or airplanes, or ships, troop concentrations or whatever proves feasible to build into the missile system. Drones which could accommodate such super smart missiles are the subject of a great deal of work here, and presumably in the Soviet Union.

As is well known, there is hope, and some promise, that lasers can be made effective in space for the transmission of power and as weapons. And studies are under way on the use of lasers for launching military payloads into space.

Now none of these revolutions will come overnight. But in the Soviet Union and here, these or comparable advances are coming much more quickly than planners expected.

Whichever nation, the Soviet Union or the United States, discovers a way to effectively shorten the time between discovery of a revolutionary new weapon and its introduction into military service, and whichever times the building of new weapons with least cost to civilian economic development will have an advantage impossible to measure.

Joyce Hifler

Think on these things

The woods in early March definitely predicts the coming of Spring. Life is stirring beneath last year's leaves, and squirrels search every cranny for a forgotten acorn or pecan. Even before life comes to the woods you can sense it and smell the rich, moist aroma of the earth. Fern fronds, poke greens and wild onions are the first to make an appearance, and birds begin to scout for places to build their nests.

Even though March is known for its stormy temperament, Spring arrives just the same, and the change affects us all. It's a bit like living with an adolescent, one moment sunshine and the next cold wind and tears — but worth every moment of every hour and grows dearer with the living.

Thought

"I loathe my life; I will give free utterance to my complaint; I will speak in the bitterness of my soul." — Job 10:1.

"We exaggerate misfortune and happiness alike. We are never either so wretched or so happy as we say we are." — Honore de Balzac, French novelist.

Brown's double standard

Perhaps your readers don't realize that Governor Brown is not a friend of the nursing home patients. Last week when he signed the new budget, he deleted 17.3 million dollars that was earmarked for the nursing home industry to pay for spiraling inflation and wage increases for our underpaid hospital workers.

Every facility in the state has had to increase their professional and non-professional staff to meet the increasing demands for better quality of care for our aged. We need more depth of personnel — we need to educate our non-professional staff — we need additional programming, etc. In our proposal to the state budget committee all these items were included. The State Department of Health agreed that a $2.00 per day increase was needed just to cover inflationary costs. Our Nursing Home Association (CAHF) worked for six months with the legislature in Sacramento to get this bill passed. Governor Brown upon returning after a whirlwind Presidential Campaign, vetoed, in an instant, what many men had spent thousands of hours in preparing.

This week he signed a bill increasing the pay of state employees by $70.00 per month. These state employees are already making more than the minimum wage; yet lowly hospital workers are forced to stay at near minimum wage because of his veto. There seems to be a double standard here and it isn't fair. If there are any friends of patients or employees of nursing homes that read this letter, please write the Governor and voice your displeasure with his action.

Carter: An enigma

NEW YORK — To the Democratic delegates who came here to acclaim Jimmy Carter, he remains an enigma. Most of them will leave the Democratic convention still a bit chary about their nominee. What makes Carter run? They will go home wondering.

The key to his behavior, according to sources close to Carter, can be found in the example of his former commanding officer, Adm. Hyman Rickover. The salty, old curmudgeon battled the bureaucracy, slashed red tape, overcame obstacles, refused to be deterred.

And he abhorred any waste of the taxpayers' money.

Those who know Carter say his view of Washington was first shaped in the reconverted ladies' washroom where Rickover was banished to develop the nuclear submarine the naval bureaucracy pooh-poohed. The Democratic candidate, if he should become President, can be expected to pursue his goals with the same single-mindedness.

"It will be, 'Damn the bureaucrats and full steam ahead!' " predicted one intimate. Yet, like Rickover, the source said, Carter will operate within the system.

The admiral also demanded total dedication from his subordinates. Carter will expect the same commitment from the men around him. They will have to put on the crusader's armor, our sources anticipate.

Before Carter became an active candidate, he sought out Rickover and spent an evening with him. Our sources say the presidential aspirant went to Rickover more to draw inspiration than to solicit advice.

These sources say Rickover influenced Carter's "attitude toward achievement" but not necessarily his attitude toward the Pentagon. The man who tonight becomes the Democratic standard-bearer admires Rickover tremendously, they say, but may not agree with his military views.

It would be hard to find two more disparate men than the smiling, engaging Carter and the abrasive, waspish Rickover. Carter was brought up in Georgia, a scion of the upper class. Rickover came to this country at age five, an immigrant mite tossed into Chicago's slum land, the son of a Polish pants presser.

Both men made it to Annapolis, Rickover in the 1920s, Carter two decades later. The youth from Georgia was a model midshipman, polished, poised, popular. The immigrant from Chicago was always out of step. He was out of step on the drill field, out of step on the dance floor.

Yet Carter was later to say: "Adm. Rickover had a profound effect on my life, perhaps more than anyone except my own parents."

Carter has never forgotten their first meeting. He applied to Rickover for a job in the nuclear submarine program. "How did you stand in your class at the Naval Academy?" asked the admiral.

"Sir, I stood 59th in a class of 820," snapped back Carter, pleased with himself.

"Did you do your best?"

Carter paused. "No, sir," he admitted, "I didn't always do my best."

"Why not?" demanded Rickover. It was a question that has challenged Carter ever since, his friends say.

WALLACE'S LAST HURRAH? George Wallace's appearance before the Democratic convention is viewed by many political veterans as his last hurrah. After his poor showing in the primaries, they tend to regard him as a washed-out, politically impotent old man.

But even as they are consigning him to the political pastures, the Alabama governor is gearing up for his next campaign. His staff, according to inside sources, is preparing another political fund-raising appeal. "If people respond," said one source, "we can keep it going."

For the record, those who are authorized to speak for Wallace are cautious about the future. His chief political honcho, Charles Snider, acknowledged that they will keep a skeleton campaign staff "as long as possible."

As he explained it, "We're going to try to keep something going, to keep in touch with the constituents we have."

They speak vaguely of a judgeship or a federal appointment for Wallace. But they really have their eye on the seat that Sen. John Sparkman, D.-Ala., is expected to vacate in 1978, our sources confide.

Wallace may be less willing than his hangers-on, whose jobs depend on keeping him in office. Earlier this year, our associate Jim Grady spoke to the governor about his future.

"My wife and I talk a lot about what I'll do when I'm through," he said, his voice dropping as he sagged slightly in his wheelchair.

Our man in Washington

Special interest donations

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The list of major contributors to President Ford's campaign is as different from Ronald Reagan's as Reagan's is from that of Jimmy Carter.

A sampling of the Ford big donors — those who gave $100 or more — reveals an unusually heavy backing by men and women who classify themselves as business executives or corporation officers — and housewives.

The number of those listed as retired also was unusually great in comparison with the comparable Reagan and Carter reports.

Further down the Ford list in numbers came lawyers and bankers and self-employed.

In my sample, there was even one major donor who classified himself as "unemployed."

By contrast, Reagan's lists included relatively large numbers of engineers and technical men, airline pilots, physicians and surgeons, small businessmen, government employees, ranchers and blue-collar workers.

And attorneys, editors and publishers and small radio station operators and owners, stock brokers, investment men, real estate developers, contractors and builders stood out in Jimmy Carter's reports.

Mr. Ford also seemed to be receiving support from a wider range of political funds than his two major rivals.

Typical were the American Bankers Political Action Committee, the Gas Employes Political Election Committee, the American Insurance Mens Political Action Committee, the Hawaiian Telephone Employes Good Government Fund and political funds sponsored by Standard Oil of Indiana, the Lockheed, Central Soya, Burlington, the Carpet and Rug Industry, Chevron (petroleum), Olin (chemicals), Union Carbide (chemicals) and East Ohio Gas Employes.

There are, of course, some clear reasons why the Ford, Carter and Reagan lists differ.

One of the top men in the real estate development, construction business nationally said privately the other day that he and most of those he knew well in his field, would not support a Republican candidate for president in this election because of the way in which the Nixon and Ford administrations had treated the industry these past years.

Though it is certain this man had taken no poll, the sentiment he expressed no doubt accounts for the relatively low numbers of those in the Ford and Reagan big givers lists who classify themselves as being in the real estate, development or construction business and the frequency with which men in these fields appear on the Carter lists.

There have been reports of late of rumblings among government employes, bothered, it's said, by Mr. Ford's joining Carter and Reagan in downgrading the bureaucracy. There are indications, in fact, that this has hurt both Mr. Ford and Carter in the donor column — except, of course for donations by major Ford appointees. Curiously, however, Reagan's strong statements on the bureaucracy do not seem to have discouraged donors in that group.

It should be mentioned that in each case a runthrough, if it were possible, of the under-$100 donations, would give a far better picture of the depth and breadth of support, or lack of it, for each candidate by various occupational groups. The picture would be clearer, too, if more donors listed their occupations and the companies with which they're associated, a requirement of the law ignored in the majority of cases.

What's interesting is the number of groups and fund giving to all three of the frontrunners. In part, of course, this reflects the different outlooks of those who contribute to the funds. In other cases it means that donors are hedging their bets. By giving to all three men, they're certain to have picked a winner.

Just in jest

The first drive-in theatre opened for business in 1934. In those days vendors went from car to car selling their goodies. But that, of course, was in the good old days before drive-ins began to laughingly be referred to as "passion pits." It didn't take drive-in theatre managers long to realize that there are times when and places where vendors are persona non grata.

Well, now that we've got in an erudite latin phrase and are bordering on an X rated column, why not make the most of such an opportunity? — Since "All the President's Men" has hit the literary jackpot, I note someone has already suggested that the next best selling novel will undoubtedly be titled, "All the Congressmen's Women." —And if the Republican Party is looking for a real hot campaign issue to counteract Watergate, how about pointing out that, thus far, all Congressmen involved in sex scandals are Democrats?

Tom Tiede

Election near, hold nose!

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — As the parties make ready for Phase II of the election season — conventioneering — the political gossip is becoming toxic. The whispers are that Republican operatives have engineered at least part of the scandal involving Democratic congressmen. For instance: since Utah's Rep. Alan Howe swears he was tricked into approaching that Salt Lake City prositute-cop, it occurs to some that the tricksters would likely be a political enemy, and the natural enemy of Utah Democrats is the Utah GOP.

Surely the suspicion is absurd. There is manifest evidence that Utah Republicans are pure as snow in the Wasatch, and besides have no idea where the bimbos hang out. Yet the talk is instructive in that it gauges the pressures building up among partisans.

Sensing victory for the first time in twelve years, some Democrats will use any dodge to keep up momentum. Sensing defeat, some Republicans will do as much to stay afloat. The vibes are thus lousy. And in this first presidential election since Watergate, there is evidence the nation is about to suffer another nose-holding campaign.

Maybe not. Jerry Ford is straight up and Jimmy Carter is the Right Hand of God. The combination does not suggest devilment so much as organ music in the cathedral. Yet what happens when angels fight? Heaven trembles. This may be the first election in history where Dick Tuck gets up during Mass and says: "Friends, I'd like to say something about Brother Ford. Now I have no proof he beats his wife, but . . ."

Already the road to the White House has been muddied by one side or the other. In North Carolina, Ronald Reagan's people distributed literature reminding that Ford is soft on Sen. Ed Brooke, a black. In Florida, somebody printed posters saying that Carter was "Wanted, Dead or Alive." The George Wallace headquarters in Jacksonville was burglarized. Reaganites in California received numerous calls (false) cancelling scheduled rallies. And Mo Udall was understandably upset when Carter accused him, a Mormon, of subscribing to that church's belief that black people are inferior to whites.

As a general observation it should be noted that it was square shooter Ford who caused much of the most off-target trouble in the primaries. A letter over his signature, for example, was sent to at least one tax-exempt organization asking for money that, if given, would have jeopardized the group's special tax standing. And too, the President has delivered some remarkably low blows to rival Reagan. In California he suggested, via television advertisements, that his opponent is the kind of nut who, if elected, would lead us right into war.

Consequently, it is Ford who worries the election watchers most. Sam Archibald, who used to head the Washington-based Campaign Fair Practices Committee, says that "Abuse is most likely in a contest where the incumbent is in danger of losing power," i.e. Ford. Archibald says he can't predict low-roading this autumn, but proposes that observers can. "When a candidate's strategy turns negative, that's the time to worry. If rather than speak of his own attributes he talks of the other guy's failures, it's a sign he may be getting desperate."

If Ford does get desperate he knows there is little anyone can do about it. The Federal Elections Commission has received more than 140 complaints of dirty politics this year, but is so paralyzed by confusing laws and responsibilities it has not yet acted on any of them.

Also, the Federal Communications Commission received 1,200 complaints in April-May alone, an unusually high number. Except for a handful of cases, it is powerless to do anything but sit back and cluck tongues.

In sum: low politics is still largely legal, Watergate be damned.

So, it is, though it's by no means certain, the name of the game this Bicentennial fall may be presidential Rollerball, at least if the tense gossip in Washington is an indication. Did you hear that Carter grows pot on his southern 40? Did you hear that the second part of Ford's deal with Nixon is to make him ambassador to China? Oh, boy. Do you think if we ask, Britain would take us back?

Two sides to police probe

One evening last month my family and I noticed there were many cars driving around my house, on the alleys and streets, without any lights on.

One member of my family called the Chino Police Department and asked what was going on. We were told that there were gunshot type sounds in the area.

Shortly afterward my house was completely surrounded with police cars and officers. A nice big spotlight shone on the southeast windows of our house.

We went to our living room door and opened it. I asked the men outside what was going on. When I saw the men were police officers, I asked for their badge numbers. I did not get any answers.

Instead I was commanded to go out into the street area. My mother and I were asked for identification. We said we lived there and they should come to the door.

Without responding to us, the officers took off just as fast as they had come without even an apology for the disturbance or an explanation as to why they had come to my house. — D. D., Chino.

Chief Gerald W. Doyle of the Chino Police Department told us he offered to discuss the matter you refer to at a Community Action Council meeting but your family said they didn't want to talk about it except in the presence of their attorney.

The facts of the incident, he says, are these:

On the evening in question several shots had been fired in the vicinity of your residence.

Officers were called to the scene to investigate and a young man, later identified as having a name almost identical with yours, was seen darting in and out of your house.

Officers converged on the residence and tried to talk to occupants of the house.

A lady, later identified as Mrs. D., came out of the house, according to the chief "in a highly emotional state making communication with her highly impossible."

The chief said that one of the nicest of officers who works with the Chino Police Department was attempting to communicate with Mrs. D. "to absolutely no avail."

It was then determined there was no probable cause for arrest or search of the residence.

Later, he said, someone called the Police Department but was so highly emotional that the complaint desk operator could not find out who it was.

Chief Doyle is sure of his facts, he stated. He was there. As a routine part of his job, he occasionally rides in uniform with various officers.

Chief Doyle said he feels that the police could not have handled the incident any differently logically, legally or morally.

Are tents and sleeping bags really very subject to fires? My husband and I have done very little camping but are thinking of taking it up. — S.R., Diamond Bar.

Yes, they are subject to fires, according to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.

The commission advises the use of flame retardant tents and sleeping bags if possible but says you should assume any tents and sleeping bags are flammable and be careful with fire.

BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Thursday, July 15, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't employ coy or clever methods to get others to do your bidding today. They'll produce anything but favorable results.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Daydreaming is not the same as being visionary. Don't indulge in wishful thinking today and feel you're on the way to solving the world's problems.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Should you be too uncertain about your aims today you'll accomplish little of value. Have definite purposes in mind. You can pull off a victory.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Others today are likely to determine your productivity. If your cohorts are lazy, you'll probably lay down your tools, too.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're still not at your best in the commercial world. Watch yourself every step of the way if buying, selling or trading.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Important decisions should not be made for expeditious reasons today. Weigh matters carefully, then come up with what's best for all.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's the kind of day when good intentions about health or diet matters could go by the boards. Try to keep your worthwhile resolutions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today, avoid being pretentious in any manner. Such action will have an effect exactly opposite of what you hope for.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your attention span is very short today. You must concentrate or have another check your work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Guard against reporting on information where you are uncertain of the facts. You could unintentionally hurt someone.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) One who borrowed and who is still not current on her indebtedness may try to touch you up again. Keep her record in mind.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You want some things at present, but apparently not badly enough to make the sacrifice needed to attain them.

Your birthday July 15, 1976

A very profitable market opens up for your talents and experience this year. It will come about only if you seek out the right people to exploit it.

Ann Landers

Welfare recipient speaks out

Dear Ann: Are you courageous enough to print this? These days everyone is yelling that "welfare cheats" are parasites and responsible for high taxes. Well, I'd like to tell you what it's like for someone who has been on welfare for several years.

My husband was badly wounded during the Korean War, lost his leg and shattered his nervous system. He became an alcoholic. We have a 23-year-old daughter, brain-damaged. I must care for her as if she were an infant. I also have an eight-year-old granddaughter living with me. She has cerebral palsy and a host of other problems — speech defect, bad eyes, poor hearing — been ill all of her life. This child's mother was deserted shortly after she gave birth.

I am in poor health, yet I drive my granddaughter to a special school — a total of 52 miles a day. I also manage to raise my own vegetables, can and freeze them to supplement our diet.

How do I like being on welfare? I hate it. I'd give anything if I could earn my way, but I can't. The medical bills are staggering. When I take out my food stamps in the market I get accusatory looks, as if I am stealing bread from the mouth of "taxpayers."

Of course there are lazy bums who won't work, and A.D.C. mothers who are milking the government, but there are also thousands of people like myself who desperately need help. No one speaks for us. Will you? — Thank God I'm In America

Dear Friend: Yes, I will speak for you — by letting you speak for yourself. Here's your letter, and bless you for writing it.

Dear Ann Landers: The wedding is over, but I'm a wreck. Had we foreseen the trouble, we would have given our daughter a ladder. This letter is "therapy." If I put my gripes in writing I might feel better.

The limit was agreed on — 300 people — 150 from each side. We ended up with 225 from our side alone.

As soon as the invitations were in the mail we began to get calls from friends and relatives telling us, "You forgot So-and-So. They are hurt. Invite them right away."

The responses began to trickle in. When we invited "Mr. and Mrs." some replied, "We're bringing our daughter and son-in-law." Or, "Of course you know we can't leave Mother home . . ."

Four days before the wedding we had NOT heard from half the people. I got on the phone. (Ann Landers says you're supposed to call the clods if they don't R.S.V.P.)

I was told, "Of course we'll be there. We figured you'd know." ((One card came back, "Sorry we can't make it." No signature.)

At the reception our daughter was in tears. There were 61 children (ALL uninvited) under 16 years of age. The kids took over the dance floor, pestered the band and played in the restrooms. It was a disaster.

Please, Ann, tell your readers kids don't belong at weddings. If parents can't afford a sitter they should all stay home. — Glad I Said It

Dear Glad: So am I. I hope somebody out there listens.

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Love or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." Washington Oedipus complex

Activity in official Washington, which customarily makes the Madhatter's tea party seem like the epitome of logic and reason, took an even loonier turn last week when officials of the Office of Civil Rights of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare decided that father-son banquets in public schools were illegal because they discriminated against women.

I haven't laughed so much since the Boy Scouts opened their ranks to girls. Next step: the League of Person Voters.

Fortunately — if surprisingly — President Ford had enough sense to revoke the HEWlarious ruling, and Americans can now attend father-son dinners, mother-daughter banquets, graduation parties and even PTA meetings without fear that Uncle Sam is going to withhold what is known as "federal assistance" (i.e. pots of money) on grounds of sexual discrimination.

The tempestuous teapot was stirred last year when HEW drafted new regulations to Title IX ($ to schools) that said boys and girls must be treated equally, or no federal moola. This led to boys in the girls showers, girls on boys' football teams and other enchantments undreamed of in my youth. It also led to the Scottsdale (Ariz.) school district writing nervously to Washington to inquire whether the aforementioned parental festivities were in violation.

"Absolutely!" intoned the Madhatter. "Functions such as father-son or mother-daughter breakfasts would be subjecting students to separate treatment and would not be permitted." Next thing we know, HEW will outlaw Mother's Day.

In the days of my years I have put four children through an endless chain of elementary, junior and senior high schools, and my personal feeling is that Ford should have let the HEW edict stand. A more painful ceremony than a father-daughter dance or a senior party I cannot envision. During these lugubrious festivities, parents and offspring are thrown together in uneasy and embarrassing relationship, in the company of similarly discomfited families, for an unnatural and interminable evening.

Long speeches by bespectacled school officials no one ever heard of; awards to countless young athletes, scholars and Students of the Year; a grinding chorus from "The Sound of Music" by the chamber singers; gingerly dancing between two generations that gap — it all adds up to the longest evening of the year. Ford should have let the ruling stand.

HEW would care?

Antibiotics fight infections

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you explain the medication tetracycline to me? How many different illnesses is it used for? My grandson's doctor prescribed it for his acne condition and my doctor prescribed it for me to take as an antibiotic in case of a virus infection. Is the constant use of this drug harmful?

DEAR READER — The tetracyclines include several different antibiotics. The best known of these are Aureomycin, Terramycin and Achromycin. They are broad-spectrum antibiotics, meaning they are effective against a large number of different organisms. That is why your doctor and your grandson's doctor used them for different infections.

Your doctor did not give you tetracycline to treat viruses since this drug is not effective against viruses. He probably gave it to you to counteract any secondary infection from bacteria.

Some people are aware that these medicines are used in treatment of "virus pneumonia." The catch is that what was once called virus pneumonia is not caused by a virus at all but by a very small bacteria that is treatable with antibiotics.

In common concentrations they stop reproduction of bacteria and are therefore called bacteriostatic. In greater concentrations they may actually kill the bacteria and are then called bacteriocidal.

No medicine is entirely safe. Antibiotics are safe when used as directed. The most common problem is that the patient fails to follow the doctor's advice. As soon as the patient feels better he stops the medicine. This may enable the development of resistant bacteria. For the full effectiveness against some infections it is important that the full course of treatment be carried out.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am troubled by insomnia. A phenobarbital pill helps solve my sleeplessness, but I'm worried that I might become addicted if I take it night after night. Is my worry groundless?

I find Tylenol helpful too, but I worry about that for the same reason. Do you think I may take one or two Tylenol tablets to overcome my insomnia? If you advise against both of these, I'd appreciate your letting me know the name of something I can take without fear of addiction.

DEAR READER — There are countless methods people use to get to sleep. What works for one does not work for another. I would agree that the continual use of phenobarbital may not be a good idea. I see no reason why you cannot take two Tylenol tablets if that does the trick for you, but I would not want my other readers to consider this an endorsement for Tylenol for sleeplessness. In this amount it should not harm you and if it works for you that is fine.

I have found that the antihistamines are often very useful to induce a pleasant sleep without any hangover effect or problems of addiction. Many people do well with a Banadryl capsule at bedtime. You would need to get the prescription from your doctor.

A blocking defensive bid

By Oswald & James Jacoby

	NORTH 14 ♠ 9 7 ♥ 3 ♦ Q J 9 8 ♣ K 8 6 5 3 2
WEST (D) ♠ J 10 4 3 ♥ Q 9 8 4 ♦ 7 ♣ A Q 9 7		EAST ♠ A Q 8 2 ♥ A K J 10 7 ♦ 10 2 ♣ J 10

East-West vulnerable

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	2 ♦
3 ♥	5 ♦	Dbl.	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead — 4 ♥

Take a look at the North hand only. You are not vulnerable and pass in second seat. Third hand, whose side is vulnerable, opens one heart. Your partner bids two diamonds, dealer three hearts. What should you do?

You are sure that the hand belongs to your opponents. They have a major suit — you have a minor. What do you think they can make?

Four hearts surely, maybe five — possibly six. If you pass or bid just four diamonds they will go about their business cheerily.

Suppose you jump right to five diamonds. This bid is what is called a premature save. You are forcing your opponents to go about blindly in a fog. They can't use Blackwood. They can't make any slam try without actually bidding the slam.

When we watched this hand in a recent rubber-bridge game North made his bid. East studied a long while. He hated to give up game, rubber and 100 honors, but finally made the right decision and doubled.

This way he did get 100 points for setting South. Better than going down one at five hearts, but a far worse result than playing and making four hearts.

Ask the Jacobys

We continue to get questions about the use of the five-club response to a Blackwood four notrump to show either no aces or four.

This variation in Blackwood is standard expert practice and is used by Easley Blackwood himself. The idea is that the Blackwood bidder who has at least one ace will know what the bid means. If he has no aces he should be able to tell that his partner is showing all four.

Tooth decay an old problem

Question arises as to how long the science boys have known that sugar causes dental cavities. That goes way back. Queen Elizabeth I in the late 1500s complained mightily of toothaches, and a German scholar named Hentzer blamed her love of sugar. Neither the old Romans or Greeks knew about sugar itself. But the writings of Aristotle in the Fourth Century B.C. contained the query: "Why do figs, which are soft and sweet, damage teeth?"

BUY A BABY?

Not only can a childless couple buy a newborn baby in Los Angeles now, but they can pick out the natural parents of their choice 10 months in advance. Or so say the city's legal officers. UP WITH FLAG — Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire receives the American flag from Harriet Harrison, in costume at the dedication of a new Ganesha Park flagpole. The flag once flew over the nation's Capitol.

Ganesha Park flagpole dedicated at ceremonies

It's taken the efforts of the Pomona Avenue of Flags Committee, financial contribution of the Pomona Host Lions Club and the participation of city officials.

The result: a flagpole in Ganesha Park.

Former Pomona Mayor James Baker, immediate past president of the Host Lions Club, served as master of ceremonies at the July 4 dedication of the newly installed pole.

The first flag to be flown on the pole was presented by Harriet Harrison, president of the Avenue of Flags Committee. Once flown over the nation's Capitol, it was purchased through the joint efforts of Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., and the committee.

Mrs. Edwin Greenwood, representing the Rancho San Jose Parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, presented the California flag.

The Pomona Fire Department honor guard raised the flag. Members of the committee, club and other patriotic and fraternal organizations attended the ceremony.

Cuts corners

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Cliff Baxter sent her 8-year-old son Bobby to mail a letter. He soon returned and handed her some change.

"But the money was for the stamp," Mrs. Baxter pointed out.

"Oh, I didn't have to buy a stamp," the boy said proudly. "I put the letter in the box when nobody was looking."

Chino not impressed with Cable

Chino residents apparently will not be getting cable television in the near future.

City officials, with council approval, have decided not to pursue any cable TV service until that industry "regains its financial stability."

Staff members will continue to monitor the industry and report any changs to the council.

In a survey of five area cities which have Theta Cable TV, Chino's planning staff concluded that financial instability was the major problem.

Ontario, Montclair and Upland "all have had problems with their existing CATV system," said Gale Carr, director of community development. "Lack of finances caused several repercussions; systems were not completed on schedule, areas were not being served, programming was cut and rates were increased."

Carr added the staff feels at this time that "The cable industry would not be able to provide an adequate CATV system to Chino that would serve the community needs."

Mineral fuels

The value of all mineral fuels produced in 1970 was $20.2 billion, 168 times the value in 1880, according to the Census Bureau's "Historical Statistics of the United States."

Grafting means joining parts of two or more plants together so they grow to be one plant.

If the top of a young crab apple tree, for example, is cut off and a live twig of a golden delicious apple tree grafted in its place, a new golden delicious apple tree will grow.

The apples will be the same as those that grew on the tree from which the twig was cut.

A tree that bears specially fine fruit may supply grafts for many ordinary trees, thus improving an orchard.

Grafting is also important for growing fruits that have lost their ability to produce seeds, such as seedless oranges, grapefruit and grapes.

In grafting, the stems are cut so that the layer of living cells just inside the bark of the two parts touch each other and grow together. The joining is usually tied together and protected with a coating of grafting wax.

Practically all our fruit today is from fruit trees that have been grafted.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Suicide pact or just 'contagious?'

Three friends end lives in span of 16 days

OIL CITY, Pa. (AP) — The three young men traveled in the same circles. Same friends, same bars, same parties.

Their lifestyles were similar, including a history of drugs, alcohol, depression and psychiatric treatment.

And within a span of 16 days last May, each committed suicide and was buried by the same priest in the same cemetery.

"I haven't heard of anything like it before," said Dr. Alan Beck, a psychiatrist at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School and a specialist on depression and suicide.

About 12 suicides occur each year per 100,000 persons. Thus a city the size of Oil City, a community of 17,500 along the banks of the Allegheny River in northwestern Pennsylvania, should average less than two suicides a year of all ages, he said.

There was talk that the three made a suicide pact, but no evidence has been found.

"It sounds like 'contagious' might be a good word to use," said Beck. "I think it wouldn't be too far off to say that the suicide of the first one helped to crystalize the plans of the next two. But they had to be predisposed that way."

It was May 9, Mothers Day, when Robert J. Morgan Jr., 23, a lift operator at Joy Manufacturing Co. in nearby Franklin, shot himself to death on the back porch of his home. The fatal wound was inflicted from beneath his chin with a .16-gauge shotgun, the coroner's report says.

His body was found at 5:45 a.m. His shoes were off, he was wearing a blue denim shirt and jeans. A cigarette butt and an open can of beer were nearby.

"He was a close friend," said Elizabeth McCloud. "We were together the night before. Playing pinball at the Oasis, a local tavern.

"He left early, didn't drink much. He was excited because he had just got promoted. He had just bought a new car. Things were looking better. It had taken a long time for him to come back."

She was talking about a previous suicide attempt in 1973 when Morgan was hospitalized with slashed wrists. He had been under psychiatric treatment until October 1974, the coroner's report said.

On May 23, Joseph Paul Grieff, 24, an attendant at Polk State School and Hospital in Franklin, shot himself with a .30-30 rifle. The top of his head was blown away. Just before killing himself, he took out his high school photo and shot several holes in it.

Grieff and Morgan were graduated from high school in 1970.

The night before his death, Grieff admitted himself to the psychiatric care unit of the Oil City Hospital, but he stayed only two hours before signing himself out and returning home.

"Grieff told his brother that he planned on killing himself," said the Rev. Angus Watkins, head of Youth Alternatives, a local counseling service.

Four days later, on May 27, David Lewis Lamberton, 21, unemployed, still on probation from jail sentence for robbery, committed suicide, hanging himself in his bedroom clothes closet.

His mother and sister found him at 7 p.m. He had tied a webbed strap around his neck, then attached the strap to a clothes bar.

Watkins believes that most people would prefer to forget what happened instead of ask why the suicides occurred. He said.

Lebanon's death figures unknown

BEIRUT Lebanon (AP) —No one knows how many people have died in the Lebanese civil war, which has destroyed the country's record keeping system along with the central government. Estimates range from 15,000 to 50,000.

The low figure comes from a combination of totals given by the Palestinian guerrilla command, best organized force on the Moslem-leftist side of the war, and the fledging provisional administrations starting to run things in the Christian enclave on the other side.

The Palestinian command said it has kept a record of Moslem and Palestinian deaths and the total is 12,000, only a small percentage of them combatants.

The Christian organization Ear Al Amal (Labor House) says no more than 3,000 Christians have been killed, 500 of them combatants.

The official radio in Syria, which has sent troops into Lebanon to try to stop the war, says 50,000 have died.

In between is an estimate based on figures compiled each day by a Beirut police reporter who checks with big hospitals, private armies and his sources in the disintegrated police force who still try to stay in touch with the situation.

Each day, the newsman, Bahjat Jaber, visits Hisham Shaar, former chief of the national police. Shaar has nothing but a title — general director of an administration which has ceased to exist.

Like the 18,000-man armed forces, police have either drifted to their homes or have taken to fighting with one side or the other in the 15-month-old war.

Shaar, talking with former colleagues, gets an idea each day of the level of combat and number of casualties. Hospitals give their figures, which are factual, and the private armies give their figures, which are self-serving.

The total dead in the entire war, according to Jaber's daily compilations, is about 32,000. But he thinks this figure is low.

"Who knows how many bodies were bulldozed underground after the Christians overran the Moslem slum of Karantina, or how many were shoved into mass graves when the Moslems retaliated and took Damour," he said. Damour was a Christian enclave in the Moslem-held sector.

He said 5,000 to 6,000 persons are "missing."

There are several dreadful repositories for bodies of people captured by both sides and killed, as well as for victims of private quarrels or robbery — killed with impunity in the absence of police. Prisons have been emptied of 7,000 criminals.

Bodies are dumped each day at the former skeet-shooting grounds at the Christian edge of the front line which divides Beirut. Under an overpass at the Moslem edge of no-man's land more bodies rot, believed mostly Christians.

Occasionally, a self-appointed team with face masks brings wood, tires or kerosene and burns the bodies.

Lebanon was a country of about three million before it started destroying itself.

BERRY DAIRY DESSERT

Cool as a breeze berry dairy dessert for summer

Light as a cloud . . . cool as a breeze . . . heavenly desserts from dairyland. What more could you ask for a summer dessert than berries and cream done up in two exciting new ways? These colorful desserts are not only appealing to see and taste but they are also easy to make. Start with wholesome dairy foods and fresh or frozen berries for two delightfully refreshing creations.

Heavenly Strawberry Cream is a light fluffy mixture of beaten egg white, sugar and strawberries blended into dairy sour cream. Chill or freeze, whichever you wish. It's a perfect summer dessert either way. Garnish each serving with the prettiest, juiciest strawberry you can find. If you're having a party, make it the night before, spoon into dessert dishes and freeze so all you have to do is add the garnish and it's ready to serve.

The handsome Raspberry Mallow Dessert has a milk, whipped cream and marshmallow filling which takes no big effort. To assemble, simply melt the marshamllows in milk and fold into whipped cream. We suggest baking the graham cracker and butter crust because we like the way its crisp texture contrasts with the light filling. However, you can skip the baking step if it seems like too much work or you don't want to heat the oven. The colorful topping is made with a package of frozen raspberries. It adds a lively flavor and color accent to the creamy filling. Use your own artistry to design the marshmallow petal garnish. Slice big marshmallows with scissors, dip their sticky centers into colored sugar and make your own posy design.

As a little reminder, milk and all dairy products are perishable foods. Heat and light destroy the nutrients in milk so be sure to store it and all other liquid milk products in the refrigerator as soon as purchased.

RASPBERRY MALLOW DESSERT

- 1½ cups graham cracker crumbs
- 6 tablespoons sugar
- ¼ cup butter, melted
- ½ pound large marshmallows (32)
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract
- 1 cup milk
- 1 pint whipping cream
- 1 (10-ounce) package frozen raspberries
- ½ cup water
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch

Mix crumbs, 2 tablespoons sugar and butter. Press against bottom and sides of 8-inch springform pan. Bake in 375 degree oven about 8 minutes. Meanwhile heat marshmallows, milk and almond extract over medium heat until marshmallows melt. Stir to blend. Chill until mixture begins to set. Whip cream until stiff. Fold in marshmallow mixture. Pour into crumb crust. Chill until firm. Partially defrost raspberries and strain off juice. Combine juice with water, remaining 4 tablespoons sugar, lemon juice and cornstarch. Cook and stir over medium heat until clear and thickened. Return raspberries to glaze and spoon over top of filling. Decorate as desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

HEAVENLY STRAWBERRY CREAM

- 1½ cups sliced strawberries
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg white
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract
- 1 pint dairy sour cream

Beat strawberries with sugar, egg white, salt and almond extract with electric mixer at high speed until mixture is light and fluffy and forms soft peaks. (This may take 5 minutes.) Fold into sour cream. Chill until ready to serve or freeze until firm. If frozen, let soften slightly before serving. Makes 1½ quarts.

Sing a song for tart early summer apples

Comes July and summer apples starting appearing in produce displays. A greater choice of varieties may be found at retail farm markets in producing areas. These are fresh apples produced this year. Unlike Red and Golden Delicious, McIntosh, Jonathan and Rome Beauty and other apples that travel well from state to state, the early apples generally stay put in the community where they are grown. They don't store or ship well because the skins are tender and they bruise easily and become overripe rather quickly. But many epicures believe they make the best apple pies, applesauce and jelly.

What are the best varieties of early apples? That depends on where you are located as no one variety is widely distributed. Popular varieties include: Lodi, Yellow Transparent, Summer Rambo, Williams Red, Red Astrachuan, Crimson Beauty, Early McIntosh, Julyred, Starr, Wealthy, Dutchess, Gravenstein, Summer Champion, and a number of others. And these July and August varieties are followed by early fall varieties such as Melba, Beacon and Kendall, in late August and early September.

"Early" apples are fully mature — they are not the "green" apples associated with summer complaint and upset stomach. They have a higher acid content and are a bit more tart than apples that mature in the fall and this, plus being "first of the season" accounts for their popularity.

For superb applesauce and jelly cook the apples with the skins on as that's where most of the pectin is. If the skin is red, the red color comes through as a most appealing pink. There are many connoiseurs of apple cookery, who insist that that first summer apple pie is unmatched for flavor throughout the rest of the year.

Fresh applesauce is often served as a meat accompaniment with summer meals. It has a tart, full apple flavor specially good with ham, pork chops, spareribs and barbecued chicken. Some persons like smooth applesauce, run through the colander or sieve. Others like the chunky style. Following are suggestions for both.

SMOOTH APPLESAUCE

Quarter 6 medium summer apples and remove cores. Do not peel. Place apples in 3-quart saucepan over high heat and add 1 cup apple juice. Bring apples to a boil, then reduce heat to low. Cover and simmer 10 to 12 minutes until apples are tender. Add 1/3 cup sugar and press apples through a mill to remove skins. Or, the mixture may be put into a blender. The skins will be pulverized making a smooth sauce. Makes about 4 cups.

CHUNKY APPLESAUCE

Peel, core and cut up 6 medium size summer apples and place in a 3-quart saucepan. Add ½ cup water, 1/3 cup sugar and bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low; cover and simmer 8 to 10 minutes or until tender. Makes 3½ to 4 cups.

UNCOOKED FRESH APPLESAUCE

Peel, core and cut up 6 medium summer apples, placing the sections in cold salted water for at least 10 minutes and not over 1 hour. This prevents browning. About 5 minutes before serving time drain the apples, place half in the blender with ½ cup apple juice, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and 3 tablespoons sugar. Cover and blend at high speed until pureed. Pour into serving dishes and blend remaining apples. Makes 3 cups, about 6 servings.

VARIATIONS FOR APPLESAUCE

To make applesauce more tart, add a teaspoon or two of lemon juice. Cinnamon, nutmeg, orange and lemon peel are freindly flavors with fresh applesauce. A ¼ cup of raisins or chopped candied ginger give interesting texture and flavor. Honey, molasses or light brown sugar may be used in place of white granulated sugar.

APPLE JUICE BASE FOR JELLIES

Cut 4 pounds (3 quarts) tart apples into quarters. Do not pare or core. Add 2 quarts water. Cook 20 to 30 minutes, or until apples are tender. Strain through a dampened jelly bag. Makes about 6 cups juice.

APPLE JELLY

Measure apple juice (above). Add 1 cup of sugar to each cup of juice. Stir until sugar dissolves. Boil rapidly until a good jelly test results. Skim; pour into sterilized glasses at once. Paraffin. Cool. Put on covers and labels.

Try this cool salad

Take the simmer out of summer and keep your cool on these hot, muggy days by serving spectacular and simple salads. Whatever the occasion, there's a salad to suit it!

This Scrumptious Chicken Salad would be a beautiful buffet brightener for a summertime patio party. Prepare it in the cool of the morning and let the flavors mellow and blend during the day.

Dainty macaroni rings, flavorful chunks of chicken, juicy pineapple tidbits and plump sweet peas makes this salad a rainbow of color. It's a main dish attraction . . . all that needs to be added is a bread, beverage and luscious dessert.

SCRUMPTIOUS CHICKEN SALAD

- 1½ cups uncooked macaroni rings
- 1½ cups cut-up cooked chicken
- 2/3 cup finely chopped celery
- 1 (17-oz.) can young tender sweet peas, drained
- 1 (13¾ oz.) can pineapple tidbits, drained
- ¼ cup slivered almonds
- 2 tablespoons diced pimiento
- 1 to 1¼ cups mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1¼ teaspoons seasoned salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper

Cook macaroni rings according to package directions; rinse and drain. In a large bowl, combine marcaroni, chicken, celery, peas, pineapple, almonds and pimiento. Combine remaining ingredients in a small bowl; gently stir into chicken mixture. Cover and chill several hours. If desired, garnish with paprika, fresh parsley or almonds at serving time. Serves 6.

These curried beef balls are sure to be a big hit

Summer meals too often fall into a "hit or miss" pattern. With the family's many summer activities and varying time schedules, meals are frequently rushed, staggered, late or skipped all together. Yet if the family is to meet the demands of summer and to feel in top shape, relaxed, well-balanced meals are a must.

How can a homemaker meet the challenge of serving meals that score points for good nutrition?

One step in the right direction is to strive for menus that are so varied and appealing that the family will go out of their way not to miss them. Keeping interest high, of course, means continually revising and updating menu plans with new and unusual main dishes. Curried Beef Balls and Macaroni is one such offering that will help win the good nutrition game.

It's a three part entree attraction with plump, juicy meatballs, a flavorful curry sauce and a macaroni and celery base. While curry dishes are often thought of as exotic and mysterious, this one fits right into everyday meal plans for the curry is used as a subtle seasoning to accent the popular meatballs. Cooked macaroni, a good base for the meatballs and sauce, takes on extra interest when cooked with sliced celery and brightened with snipped parsley.

CURRIED MEAT BALLS AND MACARONI

2 pounds ground beef
1 egg
¼ cup water
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 medium onion, chopped
¼ cup water
2 teaspoon sugar
2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon dry mustard
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1¼ cups water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ cups sliced celery
1 cup uncooked macaroni
2 tablespoons snipped parsley

Beat egg with ¼ cup water, salt and pepper; combine with meat and bread crumbs, divide into 16 equal portions and shape into balls. Brown in lard or drippings in large frying-pan; remove balls from pan and pour off all but 1 tablespoon drippings. Lightly brown onion in drippings, return meat balls to pan and add ¼ cup water. Cover tightly and cook slowly 15 minutes. Combine flour, sugar, salt, curry powder, mustard and pepper and gradually add 1¼ cups water and lemon juice to blend; stir into cooking liquid in frying-pan and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Cover tightly and cook slowly 15 minutes. Cook celery and macaroni in 3 cups boiling salted water for 8 minutes; drain thoroughly; fold in parsley. Remove meat balls from sauce and place on platter with macaroni and celery. Serve with curry sauce. 8 servings.

Since nutrition is a primary concern for family meals, it's reassuring to know that the ground beef in this recipe is an excellent source of important nutrients. There's plenty of high quality protein with all the essential amino acids necessary to build, maintain and repair body tissues and strengthen the body's defenses against infection and disease. You also can count on ground beef to supply B vitamins such as niacin, thiamin, riboflavin, B6 and B12 and minerals, especially iron.

Think of good nutrition, too, when planning the rest of the menu. Buttered green beans will boost the mineral and vitamin rating as will a cool gelatin salad studded with fresh fruits such as diced peaches, green grapes and sliced bananas. For a final serge of energy, end the meal with vanilla ice cream and chocolate brownies for those who need it.

Carrots—tops for all seasons

Wearing feathery carrot leaves in one's hair was considered the height of fashion among ladies in 15th century England, where the carrot had recently been introduced. Carrots are fashionable today — for eating — according to U. S. Department of Agriculture figures on per capita consumption of fresh vegetables.

Each person on the average in 1974 ate more than seven pounds of fresh carrots, an increase of 11% from 1967. For today's carrot lovers, fresh carrots are coming to market in plentiful supply. In fact, carrots are listed as a "special" in the monthly Food Marketing Alert published by the USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service. Fresh carrots are available on the market all year, however, with ample supplies at most times.

Carrots for fresh market are usually harvested before reaching full maturity and are shipped immediately. They are smaller, more tender, milder in flavor and brighter in external color than carrots which are harvested for storage.

Although a small volume of bunched carrots, with tops attached, can be found in some markets, you will usually find carrots topped or sold in packages. Packaged carrots are often labeled U. S. No. 1. This U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) grade means good quality. (See following story).

U. S. No. 1 carrots are firm and fairly well formed, and few carrots in the package have defects. Their color is orange to orange-red, not pale orange or yellow. Most of the carrots in a package must be at least 5 inches long and between ¾ and 1½ inches in diameter, unless the package is marked otherwise.

Look for firm, well-formed, smooth, orange to orange-red carrots with well-trimmed tops. Wilted, flabby, soft, shriveled carrots or carrots with large green areas (sunburn) at the top should be avoided. Also avoid topped carrots that have green shoots and bunched carrots that have yellow tops. Carrots which are excessively forked, rough, or cracked may cause considerable waste in preparation. Decay usually appears as soft or watersoaked areas which may be partially covered with mold.

Fresh carrots can be stored in the hydrator of your refrigerator for three to four weeks.

SAVORY CARROTS

1 pound scraped carrots cut in ¼ inch stripes or pennies
1 cup celery cut in 1 inch chunks
2 tablespoons chopped onion
½ teaspoon caraway seeds, basil, or dill (optional)
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups hot milk
1 tablespoon butter

In a greased one quart casserole, layer carrots and celery; sprinkle with flour, salt, spice, onion and dot with butter. Repeat layers until all the vegetables and ingredients are used except the milk and the last tablespoon of butter. Pour the hot milk over the top and dot with remaining butter. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Remove cover and continue baking until vegetables are tender — about 30 to 45 minutes. Serves 6.

CARROT SOUP

3 cups sliced carrots
1 cup diced potatoes
6 cups chicken or beef stock
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground mace
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons butter

Chopped fresh parsley

Cooked carrot rings

Cook carrots and potatoes in stock until tender, about 25 minutes. Push through a sieve. Add seasoning and butter. Serve hot, garnished with chopped parsley and a few cooked carrot rings. Yields 6 servings.

Sardines are savory snacks

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The Portuguese have long insisted that the only true sardine is a silvery fish whose technical name is Sardina Pilchardis. For centuries it has been caught off the coast of Portugal, as well as Spain and France. At one point, a British court upheld this claim and ruled that the name "Sardine" must apply to members of the Sardina Pilchardis family.

Actually sardine has become a marketing term applied to a number of richly-flavored species of the herring family that have soft bones and can be preserved in oil.

Until a few years ago, California fishermen netted thousands of tons of pilchards each year. They gave these cousins of the European pilchard the name sardine and created a $50 million-a-year industry. Then the pilchards began to disappear from American waters.

In Maine, fishermen haul in Atlantic herrings known as fingerlings and call them sardines, causing some indignation among the purist types in Europe.

Off the shores of Italy's Lake Como, fishermen catch a small flat freshwater fish which goes by the name of Lake Sardine and is held in high esteem. For an hors d'oeuvre it is cooked in oil, then marinated in vinegar, which has been boiled with

Empty nesters are streamlining their kitchen techniques

Appears that homemakers in their middle years are streamlining their kitchen techniques. They cook creatively but take fewer steps, placing an importance on convenience and ease in preparation.

"I don't work as hard in the kitchen as I used to. Before, everything was made from scratch. Now, I open a package of this and a package of that."

These are the comments made by homemakers in their middle years, age 45-65, whose children have grown and left home. To learn more about this newly identified market segment, sometimes referred to as "empty nesters", the Frozen Food Industry interviewed these mature consumers in the West and Midwest recently.

It was learned by Frozen Food Facts that mature consumers are focusing on self-fulfillment and a rich full life. Many have adopted new life styles for themselves, fulfilling a need to be more personally creative. Almost one-third of consumers over 50 see the homemakers role less rigid and rigorous and they are expanding their individual options. In fact, 10 million women between 45 and 65, that is nearly half of all women in that age bracket, are part of the work force now.

In a time of emerging new freedoms and attitudes, how are these mature homemakers spending their leisure time and disposable income? How do they approach meal preparation now that the children are gone? What is important in terms of menu selection . . . cost, nutrition or taste? These are the kinds of questions asked mature consumers by the Frozen Food Industry in a series of focus group discussions in Chicago and Los Angeles. Through their dialogue with these homemakers, it was learned that mature homemakers are working less in the kitchen and enjoying it more! They approach mealtime in a much more casual manner.

With a more relaxed attitude about food preparation, many seem to have acquired a confidence and know-how over the years.

"I improvise more now than I did. I guess I know more about cooking than when I was younger," "The older I get, it seems the more I can take a little of this and a little of that and put a fine meal together, I create my own recipes" "I read the basics and then I substitute. If it calls for nuts, I add raisins or something else."

The mature homemakers interviewed place great importance on convenience and ease in meal preparation. "I've started to buy frozen bell peppers already cleaned and diced because of the convenience." "I like the convenience of frozen vegetables like broccoli. It is already washed off and chopped up." Another homemaker said, "I buy frozen pies and waffles rather than keep the things around to make them with."

It was generally agreed that the "empty nesters" interviewed entertain less than when their children were around. When asked why, they responded: "I don't like all the cleaning up." "It is expensive to entertain these days." "The relatives I used to entertain, entertain us now."

It may be true that this group is entertaining less than when their families were growing up, but when asked how they spend their disposable income, most said on entertainment and travel. "Entertaining at mealtime is too much for us. Now, we just have people over for dessert and coffee or for drinks." "If I'm going to have company, I like to serve frozen pies. The French apple and strawberry rhubarb are very good." So, they are still entertaining, but the style is changing!

Cold beef is perfect for picnic lunches

One of the most pleasant, easy ways to entertain friends is a picnic lunch. Serving hearty cold roast beef always makes it a special occasion. And what could be easier for the cook and more pleasing to all! For the beef, select a lean bone-less cut, such as the compact rump roast used here, to cook a day ahead. It should be well chilled to take on the picnic. Pack along a sharp knife and a board for slicing the roast when you reach the picnic spot. With a loaf of french bread, salad greens, pickles, condiments and dressing you have all the fixings for gourmet beef sandwiches. Guest assemble their own. Iced white wine makes a refreshing and festive beverage to complement the cold rare beef.

Consumer specialists for the California Beef Council suggest using rump roasts and other less tender cuts that can be successfully oven roasted, rotisserie roasted or cooked on the grill. The key to tender beef is in marinating the roast overnight or longer. The tomato juice and vinegar marinade accented with chili, all-spice and garlic produces a terrific barbecue flavor with a slightly sweet sour quality. Piercing the beef after pouring on the marinade aids in better penetration for flavor and tenderizing effects. Whether the roast is oven cooked at 325 degrees, spit roasted or cooked on a raised grill over the coals, brush it occasionally with the marinade for extra flavor and juiciness. The council also recommends that less tender roasts should never be cooked beyond medium rare for the juiciest, tenderest meat. Other economical choices for cold picnic fare are boneless chuck, cross rib, sirloin tip and top round roasts.

During the warmer months, protect beef and other perishables by transporting to beach, campsite or picnic area in ice chests or insulated carriers.

MARINATED BEEF RUMP ROAST

2½ pound beef rump roast
2 cups canned tomato juice
¾ cup vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoon chili powder
2 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon allspice
1 large clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons cooking oil

Place beef in deep bowl or other tight fitting container. Mix all remaining ingredients. Pour over roast. Pierce with skewer in many places. Cover and marinate in refrigerator several hours or overnight, mount and balance roast on rotisserie spit, tightening holding forks. Insert meat thermometer into center of roast without letting it touch spit. Cook beef several inches above medium hot coast 1½ hours or until done as desired. (When internal heat register 140 degrees, beef is medium rare.) Add coals while barbecuing to maintain even heat. Brush now and then with marinade. Makes enough for 8 to 10 sandwiches.

Picnic Menu: Sliced beef, french bread, crinkle cut pickles, carrots and mustard mayonnaise dressing.

Sauerkraut stretches meals

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Sauerkraut helps stretch dishes and goes well with poultry and meats other than frankfurters. Have you thought of a chicken-kraut skillet dish which is zipped up with peppers and tomato? This is a one-dish meal because you also may add potatoes to the skillet or serve the chicken and kraut over rice.

CHICKEN AND KRAUT SKILLET

¼ cup butter or margarine
1 large onion, sliced
1 cup green pepper strips
1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes, undrained
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
2 cups diced cooked chicken
2 cups drained sauerkraut (about 16 ounces)
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon crushed oregano
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 cups cooked rice

In large skillet, melt butter over low heat. Add onion and green pepper and cook 5 minutes. Add remaining ingredients except rice; mix well. Cover and cook 20 minutes. Serve chicken and kraut sauce over rice. Makes 4 servings.

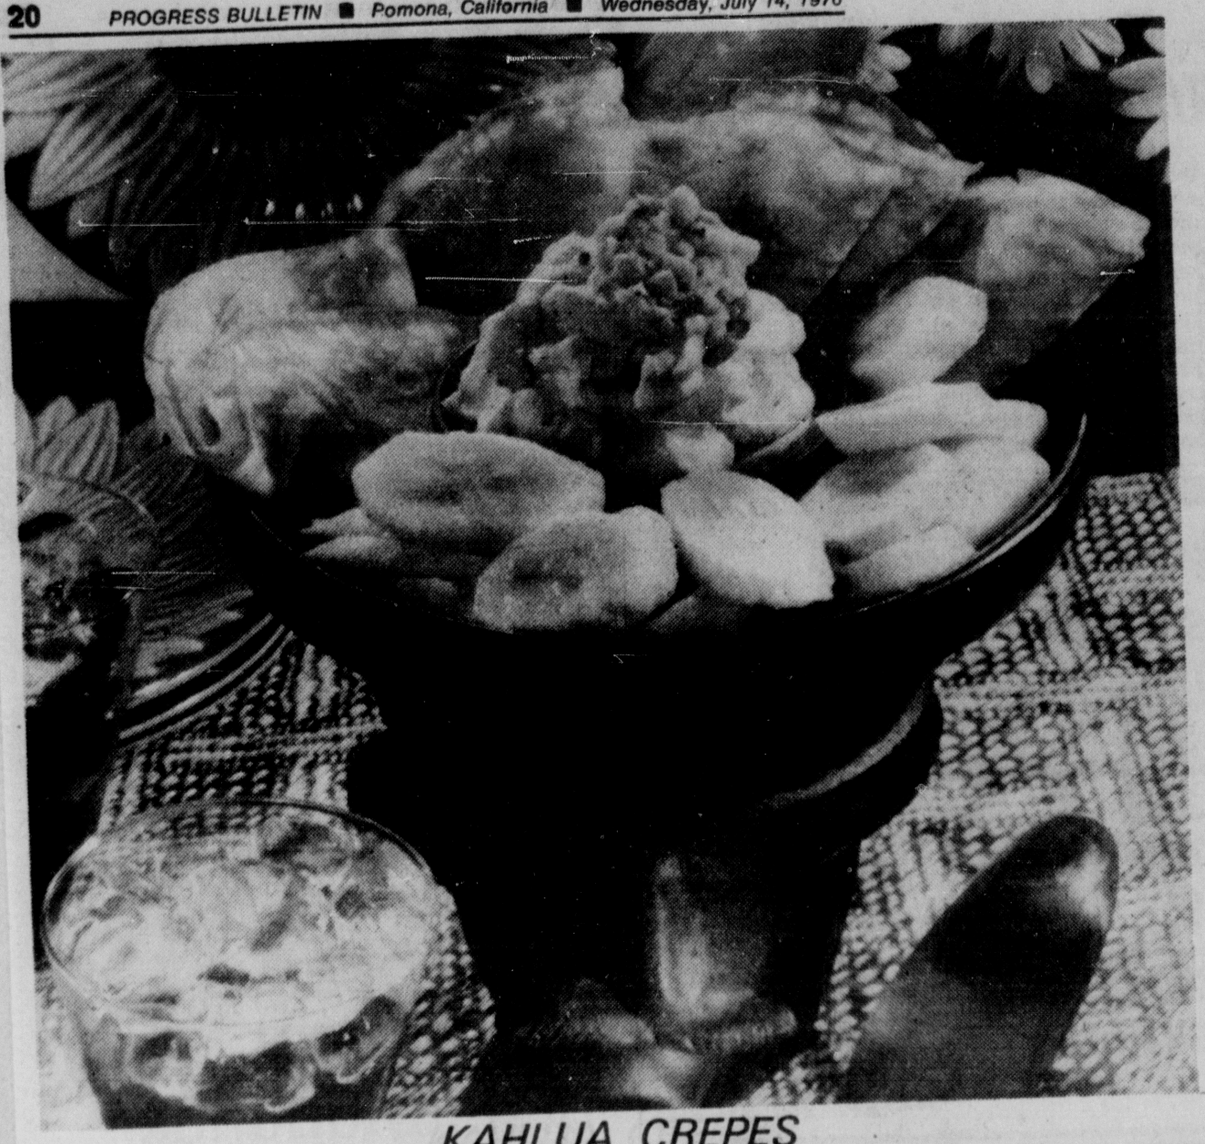
ROUND DOGS WITH CARAWAY KRAUT

2 cups undrained sauerkraut (about 16 ounces)
1 teaspoon caraway seed
3 tablespoons bottled French dressing
½ teaspoon seasoned salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
8 frankfurters
8 frankfurter buns, split and toasted

In bowl, combine undrained kraut, caraway seed, French dressing and salt; mix well. Chill. Cut 10 deep slits in each frankfurter without cutting all the way through. In skillet, melt butter or margarine. Add frankfurters and cook until browned on all sides. Arrange kraut mixture on bottoms of buns. Top with frankfurters and tops of buns. Makes 8 servings.

English gill

Delving into some of our early American cookbooks? When recipes call for a "gill," you can use ½ cup. But if the cookbook is an English one, remember that the English gill is ⅔ cup plus 2 tablespoons.



KAHLUA CREPES

Kahlua crepes make a elegant, delicate dessert

Dessert, after-dinner drink and coffee all in one! Adding versatile Kahlua to most dessert crepe batters enlivens the often nondescript taste with subtle sweetness. And the coffee-flavored cream topping teams up for a delightfully delicate dessert.

KAHLUA CREPES

- 2 large eggs
- ¾ cup milk
- 2/3 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons Kahlua
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Butter or oil for cooking crepes
- 2 small bananas, sliced
- Kahlua Cream
- Kahlua

Combine eggs, milk, flour, melted butter, 2 tablespoons Kahlua and salt in blender jar. Blend smooth. (Or, beat with rotary beater until smooth.) Let batter stand 1 hour. Heat a 7-inch crepe pan, brush lightly with butter or oil, and turn 2 tablespoons batter into pan. Tilt pan quickly to spread. Cook over moderate heat until lightly browned. Turn and brown second side. Turn out, and repeat until all of batter is baked. Crepes may be baked a day or two in advance of serving, if desired. Cool, stack with waxed paper between, cover closely and refrigerate. To serve, reheat in low oven. Fold each crepe in quarters. Serve 3 crepes to a person, topped with banana, Kahlua Cream and a drizzle of Kahlua. Makes 4 servings.

Kahlua Cream

Combine ½ cup whipping cream, 1½ teaspoons each sugar and Kahlua, ¼ teaspoon each instant coffee crystals and vanila. Let stand a few minutes to soften coffee crystals. Beat to soft peaks. Fold in 2 tablespoons chopped toasted filberts or almonds.

Go easy on snack food this summer

By Gaynor Maddox

Summer is here and that means hot humid weather and in general less interest in heavy, complete meals. We tend to eat more snack foods and quick foods bought along the road when traveling.

How wise is it to go easy on food when the temperature is high? Should we limit ourselves to salads and tall cold drinks?

In general, the answer is a definite NO.

Most nutritionists agree that the answer is no, but with some qualifications. For the elderly and the overweight fewer calories are needed in hot weather. For the rest of us, eat as much as you are comfortable with, but where possible, change to more easily digestible foods.

The human body requires nourishments whether the weather is cold or hot. Particularly if you go in for ahtletics during the long and sunny summer days. Swimming, tennis, bicycle riding, walks, through the woods, mountain climbing, yes, and even jumping rope, demand more nurishment, explains Anita Fial, nutritionist, trained at Cornell, and an executive in a large food affiliated corporation.

She adds, "You will need just as much protein, calories and other nutrients on hot days as on cold days. Your body requires a balanced diet, not a specialized diet, during the hot weather just as it does in cold weather. It may require a little more in fact, because warm weather lures people into more strenuous activities."

She stresses the importance of a sound breakfast before the sun gets too hot. All experiments and tests have shown that the average person resists summer wilt and body exhaustion when the day starts with a good breakfast — some protein, some cereal, some fruit and milk. "That is a demonstrable fact, not just talk," she stresses.

"The mid-morning coffee break is not the same thing. At least start your hot day on a solidly nutritious base and you'll be surprised how well you can exist throughout the day, no matter what the temperature is."

Restating her conviction that more protein and other nutrients will be needed in summer for athletically-inclined people, she reemphasizes the importance of balanced meals.

"No miracle diets, no crank diets, but the basic diet pattern established by nutritionists and doctors at universities and in research laboratories. In general — fruit, some protein such as eggs, cheese, fish or meat, peanut butter, and cereal and bread. Plus milk to drink and ice cream. Don't rely on trick diets!"

Poaching fruit cooks in flavor

The first fresh peaches of the season are in — and California, where more than half of the nation's peaches are grown, expects to deliver a bumper crop this year.

That means lots of good fresh peach eating through September. After a long winter of waiting, the very first varieties (primarily the Springcrest, Early Coronet and Royal May) taste especially delicious fresh and whole from the warm California orchards for out-of-hand eating. These first peaches are also excellent for poaching, though, so save a few for this new easy peach compote.

Blushing Peach Compote is a luscious summer dessert — refreshingly light and cool. Fresh peach halves are gently simmered in a spicy, orange-flavored syrup for a few minutes, then chilled so the flavors can mellow. The poaching process enhances that wonderful peachy flavor, yet protects the fruit's tender, juicy texture.

For additional ways to use and serve fresh peaches and other California summer fruits, write for your free copy of a colorful 48-page booklet. Prepared by the growers of California summer fruits, this beautifully illustrated booklet contains more than 100 tested recipes. Please send a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope to "FRUITS OF SUMMER," P.O. Box 255383, Sacramento, California 95825.

BLUSHING PEACH COMPOTE

- 8 large fresh peaches, peeled
- 2 cups water
- 1 cup orange juice
- 1/3 cup lemon juice
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons red cinnamon candies
- 12 whole cloves
- 1 cinnamon stick

Have peaches and remove pit. Combine remaining ingredients in large saucepan. Add peach halves; simmer 10 minutes, or until peaches are easily pierced. Cool peach halves in syrup. Chill. Serve with cookies or light cake.

Makes 8 servings.

Super Coupon Savings at Ralphs and Special Purchase of Western Yearling Beef

Ralphs has made a special purchase of western grass-fed yearling beef. Because it's leaner than mature grain-fed beef, it's lower in fat and it's much lower in price. Because this yearling beef is so lean, we recommend that you tenderize or marinate it before broiling or barbecuing. In fact, cooking instructions are included with each package. You can also choose from our regular selection of Ralphs Meat Master Beef, but while supply lasts, you have an alternative in type of beef and price. As always, Ralphs unconditionally guarantees satisfaction or your money refunded.

AMARETTO DI SARONNO, STRAWBERRIES

Berries, liquer are a delicious pair

Some of us never outgrow that marvelous childhood trait of saving the best for last . . . be it the biggest strawberry on the strawberry shortcake, the maraschino cherry atop the sundae, or the jelly part of the jelly doughnut. Today we offer a couple of recipes that will delight the best-for-last contingent. In fact, they might even pose all sorts of mouthwatering decisions as to what should constitute the last bite.

Both recipes make excellent use of those yummy strawberries that beckon so temptingly at produce counters currently. Incidentally, did you know that the wild strawberry — the forerunner of today's cultivated strawberry — had its origin in northern Italy? We also have Italy to thank for another ingredient in today's recipes. Amaretto di Saronno, the delectable liqueur, was created in 1525 by a beautiful young innkeeper in the little village of Saronno near Milan. Centuries later, Amaretto di Saronno is still produced in Saronno and appreciatively enjoyed by a growing number of fans in this country.

On the assumption that you can never had enough of a good thing, both recipes are "super-strawberried" and therefore doubly delicious in our estimation. The Double-Strawberry Cream calls for both fresh and frozen strawberries for maximum strawberry flavor while the Strawberries di Saronno team up fresh strawberries and strawberry ice cream.

And for a sublime strawberry dessert that's the height of simplicity, just sweeten bowlful of beautiful strawberries with Amaretto di Saronno instead of sugar.

DOUBLE-STRAWBERRY CREAM

- 2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen sliced strawberries, thawed
- 3 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- ¼ cup sugar
- 4 egg yolks
- ½ cup Amaretto di Saronno
- 3 cups sliced fresh strawberries
- 1 cup (½ pint) heavy cream, whipped
- 4 egg whites, stiffly beaten
- Additional whipped cream and fresh strawberries

Put strawberries through strainer. Measure and add enough water to make 2½ cups. In a saucepan, combine gelatin, sugar, egg yolks, Amaretto di Saronno and strawberry mixture. Stir over low heat until mixture thickens and coats a spoon. Chill until mixture is slightly thickened. Fold in strawberries, whipped cream and beaten egg whites. Pour mixture into a lightly oiled 2-quart mold. Chill until firm. To unmold, dip mold into lukewarm water for a few seconds, tap to loosen and invert onto a serving platter. Garnish with whipped cream rosettes and strawberries. Chill until ready to serve. Makes 1 2-quart mold.

STRAWBERRIES DE SARONNO

- 1 pint strawberries
- 1 pint strawberry ice cream, softened
- ¼ cup Amaretto di Saronno
- 1/3 cup toasted, sliced almonds

Wash and hull strawberries. Halve lengthwise and place in dessert dishes. Quickly combine softened strawberry ice cream and Amaretto di Saronno. Spoon over strawberries. Sprinkle with toasted almonds. Makes 4 servings.

President . . .

this region nestled in the Rocky Mountains.

Vail is one of the most cosmopolitan towns in the American West, boasting more than 70 different restaurants and nightclubs and the President has apparently taken a broad sampling of the local cuisine.

Vail restaurants go in heavily for game dishes, such as roast elk, filet of antelope and venison stroganoff. One of the President's favorites, we are told, is elk; especially elk steaks more than an inch thick that have been well marinated in a mixture of red wine, soy sauce and olive oil, then grilled over hot coals after being sprinkled with salt, pepper and garlic.

Last winter, the Fords decided to have something different and the chef at one of his favorite inns served a slab of fresh veal liver that had been simmered in butter. But the Chief Executive's chief delight perhaps is fresh fish; particularly Rocky Mountain trout.

Like many resort areas, Vail and half a dozen neighboring ski centers are getting ready to salute the Bicentennial, mindful of the fact that Colorado is known as the Centennial State, since it was admitted to the Union in 1876. As an added gimmick the local chambers of commerce are hailing the occasion as the "suntennial" in an effort to point up the fact that Colorado can serve as a destination for summer travel as well as a winter sports mecca.

Colorado, which I have always considered one of America's most beautiful states, lies higher above sea level than any other state in the union. It has an average elevation of more than 6,800 feet and boasts hundreds of mountains that rise more than 1,000 feet; 53 of the peaks soar 14,000 feet or more into the sky.

Here is the recipe for fresh trout amandine, which is one of President Ford's vacation favorites.

- 2 10-ounce whole fresh trout, clean and dressed
- ½ cup flour
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 1 cup sliced blanched almonds
- 1 lemon sliced
- 2 sprigs parsley

Dust trout in flour and pan fry in 2 tablespoons of butter till golden brown, about 5 minutes for each side. In separate pan, melt remainder of butter and add almonds. Pour almonds and melted butter over trout. Garnish with lemon slices and parsley. Serves 2. Good with well chilled dry white wine.

Here's some tips for preparing sea food

Convenience in cooking is what every busy cook and working homemaker seeks in planning the family's weekly menus.

It takes only a matter of minutes to get a family meal out of the freezer and onto the table when the main course is a frozen fish or seafood dish. Frozen or thawed, fish cooks quickly and easily.

Unlike meat or poultry, fish is never cooked to tenderize it, but rather is cooked to bring out its delicate flavor and make its protein easier to digest.

Breaded frozen fish sticks, fish portions and specialty items, like shrimp and crabcakes, usually are best prepared when deep fat fried or oven finished, without prior thawing. You'll know fish is done when the flesh turns creamy white and becomes flaky. Do not overcook it, and never re-freeze already thawed fish.

Here are some quick tips for the most common methods of preparing frozen fish and seafood conveniently and easily. Fillets and steaks may be cooked without thawing, additional cooking time is allowed.

PAN FRYING — Thaw frozen fillets and pat dry. Season lightly and roll fish in a mixture of flour and cracker meal or cornmeal. Coat bottom of heavy skillet with oil or shortening, and fry fish over moderate heat until browned on both sides. Thickness of fish will determine frying time, but it is generally eight to 10 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper and serve.

DEEP FAT FRYING — Fill half of a deep kettle with fat and heat to 350 degrees. Place a single layer of small fish portions or fillets in a wire frying basket and lower basket gently into kettle to prevent excess bubbling. Fry until golden brown, usually three to five minutes. Drain fish on absorbent paper, return fat to 350 degrees and fry remaining fish.

BAKING — Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Place thawed fish fillets or steaks on greased baking pan. Season fish lightly and brush with butter, oil or sauce. Bake 15 to 25 minutes, depending on size and thickness of fish, or until fish flakes easily. Fish may be basted during baking.

BROILING — Brush fish with butter or oil, then place a single layer on well-greased broiler rack. Since broiling heat is direct and intense, keep fish three to four inches from heat. Baste well with shortening or sauce during broiling to keep fish moist. Thicker portions and whole fish should be turned half way through the broiling period. Allow five to 10 minutes to cook if fish is thawed, and 10 to 15 minutes if frozen.

POACHING — Place a single layer of thawed fillets in a wide, shallow frying pan or skillet. Barely cover fish with poaching liquid, such as lightly seasoned water, milk or court bouillon. Bring liquid to a boil, reduce heat and simmer until fish flakes easily, usually five to 10 minutes. For court bouillon: To water add lemon juice or white wine, salt, white pepper, bay leaf, thyme, coarsely chopped celery, onions and carrots.

STEAMING — Use a steam pot cooker or a deep pot with a wire rack and tight fitting lid. Pour about two inches of water, plain or seasoned, in the pot and bring to a rapid boil. Place thawed fish on rack or in basket, making sure fish stays above water level. Cover pot tightly and allow steam to cook fish for five to 10 minutes, or until fish flakes easily.

PLANKING — Oil plank or board and heat slowly in oven. Arrange thawed fish on warmed plank, season lightly and brush with butter or oil. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven until fish flakes easily. Serve on plank and garnish with potatoes and vegetables.

Skillet dish will be a barbecue hit

Why barbecue out-of-doors this summer? Just for the fun of it! Food cooked on the grill just naturally tastes better and has become an All-American summer pastime.

No need to make your outdoor cookery a repeat of hamburgers and hot dogs. Try these Barbecue Burgers in a skillet on the grill. Bottled barbecue sauce and the addition of a jar of sliced mushrooms give the gound beef its zesty rich flavor. Nothing's more fun to enjoy with your barbecues than corn-on-the-cob. And, convenient frozen corn-on-the-cob is like fresh-from-the-garden corn all year round. During the cookout months you'll want to wrap the corn in foil and pop it on your grill.

No picnic is complete without potato salad. Why not add a drained can of sweet peas to your favorite potato salad recipe. The peas add a bright touch of green and a flavor surprise.

BARBEQUE BURGERS

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 cup bottled barbecue sauce
- 1 2½-oz. jar sliced mushrooms, drained
- 1 tablespoon instant minced onions
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper

Brown ground beef in large skillet; drain off grease. Stir in remaining ingredients and simmer 5 to 10 minutes. Serve piping hot in fresh sandwich buns. Makes about 3 cups.

GRILL IT OR ROAST IT!

Using scissors or knife, remove frozen corn-on-the-cob from bag. Place on a large piece of heavy duty aluminum foil.

Double-fold foil tightly across top, leaving a little space for expansion of steam. Seal ends securely.

Place on grill over hot coals for 50 to 60 minutes, turning occasionally, or in a preheated 400 degree oven for 1 hour.

For a real taste treat, spread each ear of corn with softened butter and season with grated Parmesan cheese, chives and salt. Then wrap in foil and cook as directed.

Fried dandelion

Fried dandelion blooms, according to some who have tried them that way, taste like fried mushrooms.

Lucky is still the price leader!

Wheat germ adds texture

What's new about old fashioned cooky favorites? Taste, texture and extra nutrients when those oldies but goodies are made with delicious natural wheat germ. This handy, healthful cereal product zips up the peanut butter cookies, gingersnaps and chocolate refrigerator cookies shown here with its subtle nutty flavor. Somehow all these cookies made with wheat germ seem more substantial, more interesting and even better than mother used to bake. Offer 'em by the basketful this summer — they're super pickups to enjoy with chilled milk or other cooling beverages.

Here are the recipes for these all purpose wheat germ cookies to bake anytime and serve anywhere. The dough for the chocolate refrigerator cookies is shaped into a roll and refrigerated — great to have on hand during warm weather. Slice and bake as needed. The peanut butter cookies have a rich golden color and sweet buttery taste that makes them favorites of young and old alike. Equally delicious are the gingersnaps — perfectly spiced and crisp. All these recipes may be made with either regular wheat germ or wheat germ with sugar & honey. The jars are vacuum packed and available in the cereal section of your market.

When making fine quality wheat germ cookies, the baker always wants the best possible results for the investment of time and money. Food consultants offer these baking tips. Put dough on cool baking sheets so cookies will not lose their shape. Always fill out baking sheets spacing cookies evenly. Preheat oven. And last but not least, cool cookies on racks before storing.

CHOCOLATE WHEAT GERM COOKIES

. . . make now and bake later

¾ cup butter, softened
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
2 cups flour
¾ cup vacuum packed wheat germ (regular)*
1/3 cup cocoa
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon soda
¼ cup finely chopped walnuts (optional)

Beat butter and sugar until fluffy. Beat in egg and vanilla. Mix in flour combined with wheat germ, cocoa, salt and soda. Stir in nuts. Divide dough in half. Shape each part into 1½-inch diameter roll. Wrap. Chill 2 hours or longer. Cut into ¼-inch thick slices. Place on lightly greased baking sheet. Bake in 350 degree oven about 10 to 12 minutes. Remove cookies and cool on rack. Makes about 6 dozen.

*Or use wheat germ with sugar & honey.

PEANUT BUTTER WHEAT GERM COOKIES

. . . new taste for old fashioned favorite

1½ cups peanut butter
¼ cup cooking oil
1 cup brown sugar (packed)
1 egg
¾ cup milk
2 cups flour
1 cup vacuum packed wheat germ (regular)*
¾ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt

Beat peanut butter with oil, brown sugar and egg. Stir in milk. Add flour mixed with wheat germ, soda and salt. Mix just enough to combine. Shape dough into 1-inch balls. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Flatten with fork dipped in flour, making crisscross marks on top. Bake in 350 degree oven 10 to 15 minutes. Makes about 5 dozen.

*Or use wheat germ with sugar & honey.

WHEAT GERM GINGERSNAPS

. . . thin, crisp and spicy

½ cup butter, softened
¾ cup sugar
1 egg
¼ cup light molasses
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¾ cup vacuum packed wheat germ (regular)*
1¾ cups flour
1½ teaspoons ginger
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda

Beat butter with sugar until fluffy. Beat in egg, then molasses, lemon peel and juice. Combine ½ cup wheat germ with flour, spices, salt and soda. Stir into molasses mixture. Chill dough. Shape into 1-inch balls. Roll balls in remaining ¼ cup wheat germ. Place about 3 inches apart on greased baking sheet. Flatten with bottom of glass dipped in sugar. Bake in 350 degree oven 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove from baking sheet and cool on rack. Makes about 3 dozen (3 to 3½-inch) cookies.

*Or use wheat germ with sugar & honey.

Tequila and shrimp make great pair

Really a salad in a sandwich, this recipe features marinated shrimp in a special Tequila Marinade. Adding a little chopped celery, green onion, cucumber and mayonnaise, this tasty shrimp also serves as a zesty cocktail. Or served alone with toothpicks, they're a novel cocktail party hors d'oeuvre.

TEQUILA SHRIMP SANDWICH

Tequila Marinade
6½ ounces (20) jumbo cooked shrimp*
½ cup mayonnaise
4 slices whole grain bread
mayonnaise for bread
Crisp lettuce
16 small thin tomato wedges
16 thin cucumber slices
2 hard cooked eggs, halved
4 carrot curls
4 pitted ripe olives

Prepare Tequila Marinade. Pour over shrimp, cover and refrigerate 1 hour or longer. When ready to serve, drain shrimp, saving marinade. Blend 2 to 3 tablespoons marinade with ½ cup mayonnaise, depending on consistency desired; set aside for dressing. Spread bread slices with plain mayonnaise. Top with lettuce. Arrange tomato wedges, cucumber and drained shrimp on lettuce. Garnish each sandwich with egg half, carrot curl and ripe olive. Serve dressing over each sandwich. Makes 4 servings.

TEQUILA MARINADE

Combine ¼ cup tequila, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon oil, 1 teaspoon capers, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ¼ teaspoon each dried dill, onion powder, salt and sugar.

*Or use 2 4½-ounce cans deveined shrimp.

Lentil salad

Lentils make a delicious lunch or supper salad. Nowadays they do not need soaking and take only a short time to cook. Dress the drained lentils with oil and vinegar and garnish with hard-cooked egg; serve on lettuce. Add sliced tomato and cucumber if you like.

'Frankie and Johnny' are great cookout pair

Food as well as fiction provides some famous pairs. Ham and eggs, pork and beans, bread and butter, peaches and cream—these are but a few of the Romeos and Juliets of the food world.

Every so often a new food combination is so obviously compatible that it shows promise of joining the list of immortal menumates. The combination of frankfurters and cornmeal pancakes is one such tasty twosome.

Named for "Frankie and Johnny," that tempestuous couple chronicled in folk song, Frankie and Johnny Cookout Combo is a more congenial compionship. Frankfurters, hot and flavorsome from the grill or pan, are wrapped in light cornmeal pancakes, a modern counterpart of the journey cakes or Johnny cakes of pioneer times. Since this is an ideal plate partnership for a hearty outdoor meal, it's presented as grill fare — for campout or cookout — for breakfast, lunch or supper. However, Frankie and Johnny Cookout Combo can be prepared and served indoors when cold winds blow across the cookout trail.

This recipe is good on-the-go food. It's easy to include a package of corn muffin mix in the camp kitchen supplies. Better make it several packages for serving this frankfurter and pancake combo once brings requests for repeats. Applesauce and syrup, pleasing accompaniments, are fine camp staples too. Frankfurters, along with eggs and milk, are readily available at most trading posts along today's well traveled trails.

A bit of grill strategy is required since cooking pancakes requires higher heat than does warming frankfurters. This can be managed with careful placement of food in relation to coals or by cooking one food partner first and keeping it warm while the other is cooked.

FRANKIE AND JOHNNY COOKOUT COMBO

- 1 pound (8 to 10) frankfurters
- 1¼ cups milk
- 1 egg
- 2 tablespoons shortening, melted
- 1 package (8½ ounces) corn muffin mix (approximately 1¾ cups)
- Warm applesauce or pancake syrup

Broil frankfurters on grill or in frying-pan at moderate temperature, turning occasionally until browned evenly and heated through (5 to 6 minutes). Keep warm. Add milk, egg and shortening to muffin mix and stir to just combine (batter should be lumpy). Pour batter, ¼ cup for each pancake, on a hot, lightly greased griddle or frying-pan and cook at high temperature until golden brown. Turn and brown second side. Remove pancake from griddle, place frankfurter on top and fold to enclose. Repeat for remaining pancakes. 4 to 5 servings of two pancakes each.

Whenever a food is as popular as frankfurters, originality in preparation is appreciated upon occasion. Frankie and Johnny Cookout Combo offers just such welcome variety.

Frankfurters are a nutritious food as well as a popular one. Each provides 5 to 7 grams of high quality protein plus several essential vitamins and minerals that contribute to good health.

Try fiesta scramble for brunch

Turn scrambled eggs into a regal weekend brunch for the family or friends by adding smoked sausage to the eggs and spooning the combo into a puff shell. You will be proud to tell your guests that you made this tasty, nutritious, easy-to-prepare dish "from scratch". Serve with fresh melon, cinnamon rolls or coffee cake, sparkling white wine and coffee to complete your menu.

FIESTA SAUSAGE EGG SCRAMBLE IN PUFF SHELL

- ½ cup diced green pepper
- 6 ounces fresh mushrooms, sliced
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 12 eggs, slightly beaten
- ½ cup milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ¾ pound smoked sausage, cut into ¼ inch slices

Make Cream Puff Shell.

Prepare scrambled eggs during last 10 minutes of baking. Saute green pepper and mushrooms in butter in 10-inch skillet over medium heat until green pepper is tender, about 5 minutes. Combine eggs, milk, salt and pepper. Pour eggs over pepper and mushrooms.

Lift cooked portion of eggs gently with spatula, letting uncooked portion flow to bottom. (Avoid constant stirring.) Cook until eggs are set but moist, about 8 minutes.

CREAM PUFF SHELL

- ½ cup water
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup all-purpose flour
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs

Heat oven to 400 degrees.

Heat water and butter to boiling in saucepan. Stir in flour and salt. Stir over low heat until mixture leaves side of pan and forms a ball, about 1 minute. Remove from heat; let stand 10 minutes.

Add eggs all at once, beating until smooth and glossy. Spread batter evenly in greased 9-inch pan (do not spread batter up the side.)

Bake 40 to 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Note: Smoked Thuringer or Ring Bologna may be substituted for the smoked sausage.

Dymally trip gets aircraft commitment

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally says his trip to Trinidad last month paid off with a commitment from his native country to buy three airliners from Douglas Aircraft Corp. of Long Beach.

Dymally, whose trip was financed by the state Commission on Economic Development of which he is chairman, urged the government-owned British West Indies Airways to buy Douglas DC9s rather than Boeing 737s, which are made in Washington.

Dymally said the $23-million sale will mean about $1.5 million in additional state and local taxes and 1,200 jobs.

His office reported that the June 15 air fare of $640 was paid by the state.

TWO LAYER SHRIMP RING

Shrimps small but not insignificant

In the language of slang, a shrimp is an insignicant, small person. In the tasty world of marine crustaceans, the shrimp may be small but it's certainly not insignificant. In many ways, in all seasons, shrimp is a favorite.

Shrimp is available fresh, frozen or canned. Canned shrimp from the Gulf has been an American delicacy for more than a century. Those who buy it fresh or frozen often like it equally small. Such shrimp are native to the Pacific. Shrimp prove the point that in every case, good things come in small packages or cans!

When winter winds blow, imaginative cooks delight family and guests with jambalaya, chowder, bisque or creole. In summertime, when the sun is strong and breezes try to be cooling, the same creative hostesses star shrimp in salads — then serve them as weekend suppers. It's easy-made for easy living or entertaining.

Two Layer Shrimp Ring should be concocted in the cool of the morning, then placed in the refrigerator where it sets and chills. Later, served on tomato slices and cucumber discs, the main dish salad looks cool and pretty, tastes crunchy and refreshing. The shrimp satisfies the appetite but it is not excessively filling. Hot rolls and butter are pleasing salad go-alongs, following a first course of pineapple chunks with lime sherbet and sprigs of fresh mint. Later, dessert, made ahead of time and frozen, can be reheated at the table and served with flair. Crepes or blintzes serve as the meal's finale, surely a memorable note.

A cooling shrimp-featured weekend supper is fixed early in the day, then enjoyed in the evening. It's true that good things come in small packages — or cans!

TWO LAYER SHRIMP RING

- 2 cans (4½ ounce each) small shrimp or ½ pound tiny Pacific shrimp
- 2 envelopes (2 tablespoons) unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups boiling water
- 1¼ cups cold water
- ¼ cup white vinegar
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- ½ cup salad dressing or mayonnaise
- ¾ cup finely chopped celery
- ¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
- 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
- Crisp salad greens

Drain and rinse canned shrimp; drain well. Arrange shrimp in oiled 4½ or 5-cup ring mold. Chill while preparing gelatin mixture. Combine gelatin, sugar and salt; mix well. Add boiling water; stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add cold water, vinegar and lemon juice. Chill 1 cup gelatin mixture until it begins to thicken; pour over shrimp. Chill until second layer is ready to pour into ring mold. Add salad dressing or mayonnaise to remaining gelatin mixture; beat until smooth. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in celery, green peppers and pimiento. Pour over shrimp layer. Chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens. Makes 6 servings.

Sardines...

wild thyme, and served cold.

The salt water sardine is very popular in Italy too and you can spot them in the market places in the early morning, glittering like silver coins.

Among gourmets, sardines by most any name are a treat. In France, the best ones are aged as carefully as vintage wines. The tins are turned at regular intervals to allow the olive oil to penetrate the fish evenly, thus improving the flavor and texture.

The French sardines are packed only in the finest oil from Provence, made from freshly-picked olives. A mystique grew up around French sardines with connoisseurs treating them almost as reverently as French wines, a recent report of the National Geographic Society said. Sardines buffs even met for tastings.

Here is a recipe from Spain for sardines and green peppers and white wine.

- 5 tablespoons butter
- 2 large diced carrots
- 1 pound small white onions, sliced
- 2 cups diced fresh bell peppers
- ¼ cup finely diced green beans
- 4 ounces dry white wine
- salt and pepper to taste
- 4 tomatoes skinned and diced
- 2 4½-ounce cans skinless and boneless sardines
- 1 tablespoon grated parmesan cheese

Melt 4 tablespoons butter in pan. Add carrots, onions, bell peppers, beans and wine. Season and stir well. Cover pan and simmer about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add tomatoes. Place on bottom of serving dish. Arrange sardines on top and sprinkle with parmesan and remaining melted butter. Brown under grill and serve. Serves 4. Good with chilled dry white wine.

Scoring

Are you a new cook? When a recipe suggests that you "score" a cucumber, pare it. Then run the sharp tines of a fork lengthwise down the cucumbers. When it is sliced, it will have pretty serrated edges.

Cool off fast with these milk specialties

Temperatures are up and the forecast is sizzling. What can you do to keep your cool and vitality?

Before making your way to a morning's game of tennis, try a great breakfast pick-up combining milk, egg, orange juice and honey. It's breakfast all-in-a-glass.

Then there's that afternoon bowling game on the agenda. Cold milk with banana, peanut butter and honey are a sure-fire energy combination.

Or, if the afternoon brings an invitation to go boating, get into the mood with a green spray of a beverage that's as cool and refreshing as the water you'll be gliding on. Milky Lime Refresher is made with cold milk with pineapple juice, limeade concentrate and just a bit of sugar.

With each glass (8 ounces) of fortified milk, you will get 20 per cent of the daily protein recommendation plus these others: 30 per cent of the calcium recommendation (this is a hard-to-get nutrient in as small an intake as given by milk); 20 per cent phosphorus (which works with calcium); 25 per cent vitamin D (which works with calcium and phosphorus in a delicate balance); and 25 per cent riboflavin, as well as lesser amounts of several other vitamins and minerals.

BREAKFAST-IN-A-GLASS ORANGE NOG

1 cup cold milk
1 egg
3 tablespoons frozen orange juice concentrate
1 tablespoon honey

Combine milk, egg, orange juice concentrate and honey. Blend well in a blender or with a mixer. Garnish with orange wedge, if desired. Serve immediately. Yield: about 1½ cups.

PEANUT BANANA COOLER

1 cup cold milk
1 ripe banana, sliced
2 tablespoons creamy peanut butter
1 tablespoon honey

Combine milk, banana, peanut butter and honey. Blend well in a blender or mixer. Garnish with banana slices, rolled in chopped peanuts, if desired. Serve immediately. Yield: about 1¾ cups.

MILKY LIME REFRESHER

1 cup cold milk
¼ cup chilled unsweetened pineapple juice
2 tablespoons frozen limeade concentrate
1 tablespoon sugar

Combine milk, pineapple juice, limeade concentrate and sugar. Blend well in a blender or mixer. Garnish with a lime slice and strawberry, if desired. Serve immediately. Yield: about 1½ cups.

Whip inflation with turkey

What the world needs now is a high-protein, nutritious maincourse meat that is easily digested, low in cholesterol and fats, and modestly priced. No such animal? There is one meat that fills the bill, and it's a bird — turkey.

In most areas, turkey is priced even lower this year than last. It's not only easy on the budget, it's more versatile than ever before. You may still enjoy roasting a whole bird for a special family dinner, but the new cut-up turkey parts combine well with many other foods and can be used creatively in a number of different recipes.

Turkey wings, for instance, provide a lot of meat for your money. Buy them already cut up and wrapped in the frozen meats section of the grocery store. Keep them well-wrapped in your refrigerator and use within one or two days. Turkey wings in your freezer should be used within two months for the most flavorful quality.

Turkey wings respond best to long, slow, moist cooking to bring out flavor and tenderness. Braising is a favorite way of preparation.

Our recipe for "Turkey Wings Fricassee" uses four young turkey wings (about 2½ pounds of meat). They are floured, browned, and simmered with spices and carrots until tender. Serve on a platter over cooked, buttered noodles and add glazed carrot strips, tossed green salad, and perhaps a fruit sherbet for dessert.

That's the kind of whip-inflation meal turkey provides when you use convenient cut-up turkey parts. Turkey can be a welcome change from the old hamburger standby.

TURKEY WINGS FRICASSEE

4 young turkey wings (about 2½ lbs.)
¼ cup flour
4 tablespoons butter or shortening
2 medium onions, chopped
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
¾ teaspoon paprika
4 cups chicken broth
½ cup celery, sliced
2 carrots, sliced
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 bay leaf
¼ teaspoon rosemary
¼ cup cold water
Wide egg noodles

Rinse wings and pat dry. Combine flour, salt, paprika, and pepper. Roll turkey wings in flour mixture to coat. Reserve remaining flour. Melt butter in Dutch oven or large heavy pot. Brown turkey on all sides. Add onions, garlic, and saute' for 5 minutes. Add broth, carrots, celery, bay leaf, and rosemary. Cover and simmer for 2 to 2½ hours or until turkey is tender. Transfer wings to heated platter. Remove bay leaf. Mix remaining flour with cold water to form a smooth paste; add slowly to hot liquid, stirring to keep smooth. Cooked over medium heat about 5 minutes, or until sauce has thickened slightly. Pour over turkey in serving platter. Garnish with parsley. Serve over cooked, buttered noodles. Makes 4 servings.

DIETER'S MACARONI SALAD

Dieters, too can have macaroni

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Those on a diet often are surprised to find macaroni remains as an acceptable food. That doesn't mean you can eat it morning, noon and night without damaging your weight-loss goal. However, macaroni dishes are allowable and macaroni combines with cheese, eggs, meat, poultry and seafood for a healthful dish. Those on low fat or low sodium diets also find macaroni listed. Just remember not to add salt or drench your pasta dishes in butter, heavy cream or cheese sauces since these are high in animal fat.

MACARONI GARDEN SALAD

2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
1 cup creamed cottage cheese
1 cucumber, thinly sliced
8 radishes, thinly sliced
1 cup diced celery
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
3 tablespoons low calorie Italian salad dressing
1 medium head Boston lettuce

Gradually add macaroni and salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse in cold water; drain again.

Combine remaining ingredients except lettuce; toss with macaroni. Chill. Serve salad in lettuce-lined bowl. Makes 4 servings, about 290 calories per serving.

TURKEY NOODLE TOSS

1 can (1 pound) cut green beans, undrained
1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, undrained
Water
1½ cups skim milk
½ cup diced celery
¼ cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon each: pepper, marjoram leaves
2 cups diced cooked turkey
8 ounces medium egg noodles (about 4 cups)
1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water

Drain beans and mushrooms, reserving liquids; set vegetables aside. Add enough water to reserved liquid to measure one and one-half cups. Combine with milk and set aside. Saute celery and onion in butter about 3 minutes. Quickly stir in flour. Gradually stir in milk mixture, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper and marjoram. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce boils 1 minute. Add beans, mushrooms, and turkey; heat to serving temperature.

Meanwhile, gradually add noodles and 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Toss with turkey mixture. Makes 4 servings, about 500 calories per serving.

CHP says traffic deaths increased

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Highway Patrol says traffic fatalities rose 3.04 per cent during the first six months of this year compared to the same period in 1975.

CHP Commissioner Glen Craig reported that numerically, the increase was 60, to 2,036 deaths.

The toll was only 338 in June, however, 56 fewer than in the same month of last year, he said. There were also fewer fatalities in February. But in all the other four months, there were increases.

Craig said that on roadways within CHP jurisdiction — freeways, state highways and county roads — the increase in fatalities was 86 during the first six months. But on city streets, there was a decline of 26 fatalities.

Said Craig: "A combination of higher speed and heavier traffic volumes is probably the major cause of the greater number of deaths."

He said that in 1975 when the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit went into effect and the gasoline shortage lowered the traffic volume, the death toll in the first six months was 1,719 — 18.44 per cent fewer than during the same period this year.

COTELETTES D'AGNEAU DIJONNAISE

Make simple French meals

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Good French cooking actually is quite simple and it is not necessary to spend hours making special sauces for your favorite meats or poultry. For example, butter, Dijon mustard, herbs and wine or lemon juice make a basic dressing for less expensive shoulder lamb chops or chicken legs. And, for a different flavored steak, spread it on both sides with mustard before broiling. Serve with scalloped cups of fresh orange slices, asparagus, lettuce salad or French fries.

COTELETTES D'AGNEAU DIJONNAISE

6 round bone shoulder lamb chops
salt and pepper
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
1 can (14 ounces) hearts of celery
1 cup tomato juice
½ cup French dry white wine or apple juice
¼ cup finely chopped parsley

Sprinkle chops with salt and pepper. Melt butter in a skillet. Brown chops on both sides. Spread mustard on chops. Add celery and juice in can, tomato juice and white wine. Cover and simmer 1 hour or until chops are tender. Place lamb chops on a platter and keep warm. Pour pan juices into blender. Whirl until smooth. Pour into pan again and reheat until bubbly and thick. Spoon over chops. sprinkle with parsley. Garnish platter with scalloped orange cups filled with orange sections. Makes about 6 servings.

CHICKEN LEGS DIJONNAISE

Juice of 1 lemon
½ teaspoon taragon leaves
1 teaspoon Dijon mustard
4 tablespoons soft butter
6 chicken legs
Salt

Mix together first four ingredients and let sit at room temperature for half an hour to allow flavors to blend. With fingers, carefully lift up skin from chicken legs to make space for mustard-butter mixture. Allow one teaspoon of mixture for filling second joint area and one teaspoon for drumstick area. Place filling between skin and meat and then press down skin to spread filling evenly in area. Salt chicken legs and broil, 6 to 8 inches from source of heat, turning twice until completely cooked. Makes about 6 servings.

PORTERHOUSE DIJONNAISE

Before broiling steak, spread on both sides with a thin layer of Dijon mustard and let sit at room temperature for half an hour. Broil to desired degree of doneness, then season to taste with salt.

N.L. stars are just too good

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ho Hum, the National League beat the American League again in the All-Star Game.

So what's new?

Just for the record, the score in the National's fifth straight triumph and 13th in the last 14 years was 7-1. San Diego's Randy Jones, the starting pitcher, threw three scoreless innings and was the winning pitcher.

And George Foster, the Cincinnati Reds' outfielder who leads the majors with 72 RBI, drove in three runs, two with a third-inning homer and was selected the game's Most Valuable Player. The loser was Mark Fidrych, the Detroit Tigers' rookie sensation who pitched two innings and left trailing 2-0.

The National League now leads the All-Star series 28-18-1. And no relief is in sight for the beleaguered American Leaguers.

Perhaps, John Montefusco, the outspoken San Francisco Giants' pitcher, put the dull game in its proper perspective.

"I didn't have my good fastball, but I didn't need it against the American League."

It would seem that all the National League needs in this annual American League summer nightmare is gloves, bats and balls.

"It's a little bit embarrassing," said Fred Lynn of the Boston Red Sox, whose fourth-inning home run accounted for the loser's only run against five National League pitchers.

Lynn said the big difference was the National League bats. "They hit," he said. "And they hit the long ball too. They have a bit more power than we do."

Lynn's boss, manager Darrell Johnson, who directed the American League, had a different view.

"It was National League pitching," said Johnson. "Their pitchers did a damn good job."

There you have it, good hitting, good pitching, and throw in those three snappy double plays the National League turned and you have another American League defeat.

"I think it (the latest loss) means we have to break a cycle," said Johnson. "The National League has won twelve of thirteen. Before that the American League won most of them."

The 27-year-old Foster outwardly took his MVP accolade almost with a yawn.

"I was quite honored to be selected," he said, his face and voice devoid of emotion. "But I didn't come out here to play to win any honors. I just wanted to play the best I could to help us win. Whatever came my way in honors, fine."

Jack Armstrong, the All-American boy couldn't have said it better. But Foster wasn't acting. He plays and acts the same way every game of the season. He's a non-smoking, non-drinking, bible-reading son of God.

"I say a silent prayer before every game," Foster confided to a swarm of reporters.

What kind of prayer?

"I ask God to help me be a good sport in life and to give me health, strength and stamina to do my best if hard knocks come my way," said Foster. "I like the 23rd Psalm best. It tells you that if you want a certain thing you have to go out and get it, work. If you don't seek you won't get."

Foster, who drove in the National League's second run in the first inning after Pete Rose had singled and scored on a Steve Garvey triple, defended his stoic attitude.

"Some guys express their emotions silently," he said. "Others do it openly. I've learned to control my emotions. You don't have to be jubilant to be happy. You don't have to drink it up. That's not me."

Foster said he would return to Cincinnati and reflect on his All-Star performance. "I'll get a good feeling about it. Then I'll keep trying to do better."

Foster said he wants to be remembered as a guy who went out and did his best even if his team was down 10 runs.

"I'm always working hard, doing the best I can," he said. "People identify with ball players. If they hear you don't drink and smoke...they try to emulate you."

So much for philosophy George. How about that home run? George showed he had a little humor behind that poker face.

"It was a fastball. If you want to know was it up or down or in or out, I'd say it was in reach of my bat."

Foster said he wasn't sure the ball was going out. "I thought maybe that cross wind out there might be holding up the ball. The main thing is I was trying to be aggressive at the plate."

Aggressive. That was the tone of another Montefusco gem. "The American League pitchers don't challenge anyone on three-one or two-one. They go to the breaking ball. We challenge people."

The Cincinnati Reds produced seven of the National League's 10 hits. That didn't surprise Pete Rose, the wise cracking Reds' third baseman.

"We got more bats than anybody, so we're supposed to get more hits," said Rose, who singled, tripled and scored a run. "Foster did what he's been doing all year. The only difference is that he got only one hit. He usually gets two or three."

The 21-year-old Fidrych, a free spirit who says what's on his mind, took the loss in stride. The rookie, 9-2 in the first half of the American League season, gave up four hits and two runs in two innings.

"No one should smile after a loss," said the curly-haired Tigers' pitcher. "But this is a different game. I can go home proud because I was on an AllStar team. You can't forget anything like this. There's this ball with everyone's name on it, a trophy and the ring...I never even had a high school ring."

Winning manager Sparky Anderson of the Reds said he believed the dominance over the American League stemmed from the office of former NL President Warren Giles.

"He believed the National League had to win," Anderson recalled. "And there is an enthusiasm in the National League to win."

San Diego's Jones, as always, kept a low profile. He said the only thing wrong was that he gave up a walk. He said he was nervous at the start, but settled down after a two-out first-inning walk to Kansas City's George Brett.

As for the game itself, before a sellout crowd of 63,974, including President Ford, the Nationals built a 4-0 lead with their two in the first and Foster's home run after a one-out single in the third. Lynn's homer made it 4-1. The NL put it away in the ninth on an RBI single by Ken Griffey, and Cesar Cedeno's two-run homer, all off California's Frank Tanana.

The President might have seen a better show on television from Madison Square Garden, New York.

Leo ballplayer turns to umpiring

A most interesting change has occurred in the life of former La Verne College baseball player Jim McNamara.

McNamara, captain and right fielder on the Leos' 1972 national championship team, is now embarking on a career as an umpire in professional baseball!

Writing from Great Falls, Montana, McNamara brought us up to date on what he has been doing since he graduated four years ago.

"I was not fortunate enough to continue playing," McNamara writes. "But I stayed in the game as a high school coach while teaching."

The former Leopard player taught at Damien and coached sophomore football and baseball. Then he moved on to Royal Oak where he also coached football and baseball. Last year McNamara was a substitute teacher in the Garden Grove Unified School District.

At the same time he worked as varsity assistant in football at Pomona High.

But McNamara couldn't get baseball out of his system. So this spring he signed up for the Umpire School run by former major league arbiter Bill Kinnamon.

It was eight hours a day, six days a week for five weeks. When it was over, McNamara was judged the top prospect among the 50 student umps.

Only 20 of the 50 got pro jobs.

The former Leo started work June 25 in the Class A Pioneer League.

Works in Canada

There are four teams. Two, Billings and Great Falls, are in Montana. The other two are Idaho Falls, Idaho and Lethbridge in Alberta, Canada.

"We work a two-man system," writes McNamara, "so my partner and I travel together all summer between these four cities. The drives are long, but the consolation is the beautiful country and fresh air."

Naturally, Jim's opinion of umpires and umpiring has undergone a radical change.

"I'll tell you this," the letter reads, "I was known as having a temper and yelling at umps when I played ball. Now I'm on the other side.

"I definitely have a completely different idea about umpires now. I wish I was still playing because I understand the tough job the umps have. No matter what an umpire does, one side will say he's wrong."

In the off season, McNamara will continue teaching and coaching. He's been hired by former Damien athletic director Mike Churchill at Cortez High near Phoenix, Arizona.

McNamara will be sophomore football coach and jayvee baseball coach while teaching full time. But he hopes to make the grade as an umpire.

"I hope someday to be fortunate enough to be in the major leagues and see my former teammates Jack Maloof, Willie Norwood and some of the players I coached such as Frank Pastore of Damien," is the way the letter ends.

As Jim advances he might work in the same league as La Verne coach Ben Hines and Mt. San Antonio College coach Art Mazmanian. They have both managed in the Pioneer League and currently are in the Applachian League.

What a matchup!

McNamara might find himself in a game with Hines on one side and Mazmanian on the other. Now wouldn't that be an experience for a young umpire?

HERE 'N THERE — It was good to see another former Leo, John Verhoeven, called up to the Angeles. Besides skill, the big Dutchman has one other ingredient necessary to winning in the big leagues. Heart.

One of Mazmanian's former players, third baseman Kevin Bell, is making a good impression after being called up by the Chicago White Sox. Bell attended an Angels' tryout camp in 1972 but didn't impress.

"All they seemed to care about was how fast you were," Bell remembers. "I thought I hit with pretty good power and threw pretty good, but I never heard from them."

Maybe that shows why the Angel farm system has never produced a power hitter in its 15 years of existence.

Three Dodger players failed to take a poll by the Cincinnati Post seriously. The paper distributed ballots to every National League player and asked them to vote for an all-star team.

Two Dodgers voted for a team consisting of Latin players only. Another picked an all-Cincinnati team but named only backup players.

The remaining returns apparently were legitimate and the team picked was as follows: Ted Simmons, St. Louis (C); Steve Garvey, Dodgers (1B); Joe Morgan, Reds (2B); Mike Schmidt, Phils (3B); Larry Bowa, Phils (SS) and George Foster, Reds, Dave Kingman, Mets, and Al Oliver, Pirates (OF).

Olympics has new squabble

MONTREAL (AP) — The International Olympic Committee assembled today and was expected to receive the official word that Taiwan would pull out of the Games opening Saturday and to face another possible political squabble over black African threats to boycott the event.

In Taipei today the Nationalist Chinese Olympic Committee reiterated its decision to withdraw from the Olympic Games "because of Canada's discrimination."

The decision to pull out came in a closed door session in Taipei today by the Republic of China Olympic Committee and ranking sports officials. It was reached after reports indicated that the full session of the International Olympic Committee Tuesday night here approved its executive board's proposal.

The IOC executive board suggested the Taiwanese athletes march behind the IOC emblem and insignia without using the name Republic of China at the opening of the Montreal Games. Nationalist China rejected the idea Saturday.

The Canadian government had said it would not allow athletes from Taiwan to enter that country if they used the name Republic of China. Canada recognizes mainland China.

In Taipei, Niu Ping-yi, secretary general of the Nationalist China Olympic Committee, said the withdrawal decision might be revised only if its Olympic team was allowed to use the Nationalist Chinese flag and anthem, and its official name "Republic of China," exactly the things Canada has forbidden.

Meanwhile, Tao Yung of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the legislative Yuan, Nationalist China's legislature, urged that the nationalist delegation stay in the Games and march in the opening ceremony Saturday to win international sympathy and support for its stand.

"To fight for justice and to maintain the prime spirit of the IOC, we should not pull out of the Games," Tao said.

Meanwhile, Abraham Ordia, passionate campaigner for Africans' rights in sport, keeps Olympic officials on edge, having it in his power to spring another crisis.

He leads the Supreme Council for Sports in Africa, and threatens to pull African athletes out of the Games in protest against New Zealand, which has sent a rugby team to segregationist South Africa.

Ordia is an enigmatic figure. One day he appears at the IOC's hotel headquarters in flowing blue Nigerian robes with traditional headdress, looking like a potentate.

The next day he wears a sports jacket and a battered straw hat.

He smiles and bows to sports officials from all over the world, shakes their hands and clasps them in a brotherly embrance. But what will he do next?

In 1972, Ordia led the campaign which ended in Rhodesian athletes being shut out of the Munich Olympics. Whenever he decides to move, every African sports body falls in behind him.

The race-proud Africans first quarreled with New Zealand last winter, over a visit to that country by a South African softball team. As a result, Tanzania withdrew its athletes from an international track and field meet at Auckland.

The current tour of South Africa by the New Zealand rugby team has fueled the fire.

Yet IOC sources say the Africans have a weaker case now than when they campaigned against Rhodesia at Munich. Rugby is not an Olympic sport, and the New Zealand Olympic Association has no control over rugby teams touring abroad.

Moreover, Lance Cross, IOC member for New Zealand, has drawn up a list of 26 countries which, he says, have sent sports teams to South Africa in the last eight months. One was a rugby team from the United States.

"They might as well ask for the United States to be excluded from the Olympics," said Cross.

The Taiwan issue simmered as Ordia's organization delayed any move it might be contemplating. Some IOC members thought Ordia might be waiting until the Taiwan question was settled and Africa could enjoy a bigger share of the publicity spotlight.

"Nothing today," Ordia said politely when newsmen asked him what was happening. "Later in the week, perhaps."

Canada refused to allow the Taiwanese into the country unless they dropped the name of the Republic of China and their national flag. The IOC bitterly accused Canada of a breach of faith.

The Taiwanese were asked by the IOC to march in the opening parade under the Olympic flag, and without a name. They refused at first, but the IOC had new hopes today they might change their mind and come in.

As political problems continued to bubble, some 6,000 athletes had arrived in the Olympic Village. The number will grow to 10,000 by Saturday.

But the Taiwanese still were held up in the United States, waiting hopefully for the dispute to be settled and for Canada to grant them visas.

There's no doubt O.J. wants L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There are no doubt more than one or two National Football League teams that would be quite happy to acquire the services of O.J. Simpson.

But, to the chagrin of Simpson's current team, the Buffalo Bills, he apparently has his heart set on finishing his career in Los Angeles.

Negotiations between Los Angeles and the Bills over Simpson, however, broke down recently with Rams owner Carroll Rosenbloom saying the Bills wanted too much in the trade.

On Tuesday, Bills owner Ralph Wilson Jr. indicated in a statement that the club still wants to trade Simpson, who has said he intends to play just one more year.

Wilson said the Bills would ask Simpson if he will allow them to try to negotiate a trade for him with teams in New York, Washington, Miami or other "so-called glamor" National Football League cities.

Wilson, in a statement read by Buffalo Coach Lou Saban at the Bills camp in Niagara Falls, N.Y., said: "Limited in our trading scope, we have not been successful to date, gaining players even closely approximating Simpson's value. We promised O.J...that we would make every effort to trade him to a West Coast team and this we have done. But it would help immeasurably if we could broaden the market."

But Simpson said, "I want to play in Los Angeles so I can be close to my family. Being traded to a glamorous city has nothing to do with it. I wouldn't ask to be traded if I didn't want to play on the West Coast."

Officials of one West Coast team apparently interested in Simpson said Tuesday they had not had a chance to deal for him.

"The Oakland Raiders have never been given an opportunity to discuss a trade for O.J. Simpson," the team said in a statement.

Issuing the statement would seem to indicate the Raiders would like the chance to get in the bidding for Simpson's services.

Asked if he thought announcing that he planned to play just one more season hurt his chances of playing in Los Angeles, Simpson replied: "I wanted to be honest about it, so I told the Rams my decision.

"I hear Carroll Rosenbloom has said he doesn't want to tear up the team to get me. I don't think it would tear up the team. I think a trade could be made that would benefit both Buffalo and Los Angeles."

Simpson, although stressing that his current plans call for quitting football after this season, admitted that, if he were traded to Los Angeles and played on a championship team, he might consider extending his career.

OMS dedicates Hall of Fame

Twenty-three great race drivers, including two who are still active competitors, will be enshrined in auto racing's Hall of Fame during dedication ceremonies Thursday evening at Ontario Motor Speedway.

Founded in 1971 by the American Auto Racing Writers and Broadcasters Association, the Hall of Fame has been located at Ontario Speedway as a permanent shrine honoring those individuals who have distinguished themselves in the field of auto racing since the sport was organized just after the turn of the century.

The current roster of members is made up of drivers from six separate eras beginning with pre-1920 competitors and including a category for contemporary drivers. All phases of the sport are covered, including championship or Indianapolis competitors, sports and stock car drivers and Grand Prix greats.

The two members who are still active drivers are A.J. Foyt who was elected in the inaugural balloting in 1971 and Richard Petty, the NASCAR stock car ace who was elected in 1973. Three foreign drivers are also on the roster.

Thursday's ceremonies will be attended by several of the Hall of Fame's living members including 1925 Indy 500 winner Peter DePaolo and Dan Gurney, along with many old timers such as Ernie Olson and Reeves Dutton who were riding mechanics for Hall of Fame members Jimmy Murphy and Earl Cooper. West Coast members of the AARWBA and other prominent members of the racing fraternity will also attend.

The Hall of Fame, which will be opened to the public on July 21, is located in the foyer of the new OMS restaurant which will also open on a full-time basis on July 21 and is being re-named the Hall of Fame restaurant.

On display are portraits of all 23 members plus showcases of artifacts and memorabilia such as helmets, goggles, driving uniforms, medals and trophies. Many rare and historic photographs are also being exhibited. There will be no admission charge to the public, and the Hall of Fame and restaurant will be open on a daily basis, Tuesday through Saturday and on all Sunday race days.

The American Auto Racing Writers and Broadcasters, similar to football, baseball, golf and boxing writer organizations, was established in 1955 and includes more than 500 members nationwide. The membership votes annually on Hall of Fame candidates, and 1976 election will take place in August with new members scheduled to be enshrined in September.

A list of Hall of Fame members follows.

Palomino wins monthly award

LOS ANGELES — World Boxing Council welterweight champion Carlos Palomino has been named Southern California's Athlete of the Month for June by members of the Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation's selection board.

Palomino, a resident of Westminster, won the WBC title by KO'ing defending champ John Stracey of Britian in the 12th round last month at Wembley Empire Pool in England. The Sonora, Mexico native who boxed his first pro bout at the Olympic Auditorium in September, 1972 had had only one meaningful bout previous to his fight for the welter crown, a 10-round draw with Hedgemon Lewis last November.

Palomino attended Westminster High and Orange Coast JC before enrolling at Cal State Long Beach, where he plans to graduate in December. Managed by Jackie McCoy, Palomino's four-year pro record is now 24-1.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Four-time United States Olympic equestrian team member Frank Shapot guided Coach Stop to a first-place finish in Sunday's Adirondack Grand Prix jumping event which closed the seventh International Lake Placid Horse Show.

Shapot earned $4,500 for his owner by winning a jump-off with 15 other horses. Seventy horses were originally entered in the event.

Second place went to Rodney Jenkins, who rode Mr. Demeanor. Conrad Homfeld rode Balbuco to the third-place finish.

Olympic team members from Australia, Japan, Guatemala, and Canada also participated in the 10-day event which officials claim is the largest horse show for hunter and jumpers in the United Etates.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Second-round play began today in the $100,000 Western Tennis Championships with the top seeds emerging unscathed from the first two days of action.

The top four seeds—Eddie Dibbs, Roscoe Tanner, Harold Solomon and Stan Smith—all posted first-round victories Tuesday afternoon on the Coney Island clay courts.

The next two seeds, Dick Stockton of Dallas and Tom Gorman of Seattle, won opening matches Monday.

Eddie Dibbs, the top seed from Miami Beach, beat Fred McNair, Chevy Chase, Md., 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, while the second-seeded Tanner, Kiawah Island, S.C., disposed of Ken McMillian, Ft. Worth, Tex., 6-1, 6-2.

The No. 3 seed, Solomon, Silver Spring, Md., beat Hubertas Hoyt, Newberry, N.Y., 6-2, 6-1, and Smith, the No. 4 seed from Sea Pines, N.C., scored a 6-1, 7-5 victory over Steve Turner of New York City.

The only seeded player to fall in Tuesday's matches was No. 12 Jim Delaney, Potomac, Md., who lost to Charlie Ownes, Tuscaloosa, Ala., 6-3, 6-4.

LATROBE, Pa. (AP) — Tom Keating's whereabouts are a mystery to the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Keating, 33, a 13-year veteran of the National Football League, was cut by the Steelers before the start of the 1974 season and sent to the Kansas City Chiefs.

However, a federal judge ruled earlier this month that the defensive tackle should be reinstated to the Steelers. The case involved a number of onetime officers of the NFL Players Association who contended their teams cut them because of union activity.

Keating was supposed to fly to Pittsburgh for a physical from his home in Oakland, Calif., on Sunday.

However, a Steeler spokesman said Tuesday, he still hasn't shown up.

COON RAPIDS, Minn. (AP) — A 25-year-old groundskeeper from Boise, Idaho whose only goal in the U.S. Public Links Golf Championship was to be among the 64 qualifiers for the match play title won medalist honors Tuesday.

Left-hander Jeff Thomas compiled rounds of 69 and 71 to finish four under par after two days of qualifying on the windswept, hot and muggy Coon Rapids Municipal course.

Thomas was the only player to break par both days of the qualifying for match play, which begins today. It took a score of 155 or less for the low 64 players who inter-match play.

SEATTLE (AP) — Second-round draft choice Dennis Johnson of Pepperdine University has signed a four-year contract with the Seattle SuperSonics despite the objections of another National Basketball Association team.

Johnson, a 6-foot-4 forward-guard, inked the contract Tuesday which begins at $45,000 a year and ends at $75,000 a year with a one-year, no-cut provision.

Sonics owner Sam Schulman said the NBA gave its blessings to the transaction, which had been opposed by the Los Angeles Lakers.

Johnson, a college junior, was Seattle's second pick in the second round even though he had not applied for hardship status. Los Angeles argued that Johnson was not eligible to be drafted.

But the NBA ruled that because Johnson did not attend college in what would have been his normal freshman year, he was eligible to be drafted this year.

MONTREAL (AP) — Soviet gymnast Olga Korbut fell Tuesday night while practicing on the balance beam during a dress rehearsal for Olympic competition next week. Her right arm struck the bar but was not injured.

ABC interrupted its telecast of major league baseball's All-Star Game from Philadelphia to show her fall and assure viewers that she was not hurt.

Maria Filatova, 14, upstaged Miss Korbut in the competition which had 100 competitors from 19 nations and drew a crowd of 10,000 at the Forum.

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Steve Fink of Studio City slipped to a 74 Tuesday but won the fifth Western Amateur Golf Association Summer Series tournament with a three under par 141 at San Luis Rey Golf Course.

The UCLA sophomore won by two strokes over Rick Mallicoat of San Diego, Dave Stanley of Bakersfield, Keith Eggersten of West Covina and Ray Vanyo of San Bernardino.

The sixth tourney in the series will begin Monday at Mesa Verde Country Club in Costa Mesa.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The Albuquerque team of the Pacific Coast League has given former major league pitcher Ron Bryant his unconditional release.

Bryant, a left-hander, pitched in 13 games for Albuquerque, the Triple A farm club of the Los Angeles Dodgers. He had a 2-3 record with a 6.89 earned run average in 49 2-3 innings.

He was acquired by the Los Angeles organization in March after five seasons with San Francisco and one with St. Louis. Bryant won 24 games for San Francisco in 1973.

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. — Adrian Dantley scored 25 points to lead the U.S. Olympic basketball team to an 85-75 victory over Canada in the team's final exhibition game.

KITZBUEHEL, Austria — Top-seeded American Arthur Ashe rallied to defeat Peter Szoeke of Hungary 4-6, 6-2, 6-4 to advance to the third round of a $75,000 tournament.

HILVERSUM, The Netherlands — No. 1-seed Wotjek Fibak was upset on the opening day of the Dutch International Open Tennis Championship by Fred Hemmes of The Netherlands 7-6, 7-6.

Urquidi's home run paces Montclair win

Montclair's Legion team held off Ontario Post 112 for a 5-4 victory Tuesday night at John Galvin Park while La Verne Post 330 lost to Anaheim by an identical score at La Verne College.

Dave Urquidi got Montclair's offense going in the top of the first inning when he blasted a two-run homer clear out of the park over the leftfield fence. Montclair added a run in the second when Ed Salazar singled, advanced on two ground outs and scored on an error.

The winners completed their scoring in the fifth inning as Kent Gurney singled and stole second and third, Urquidi walked, Mike Kizziar singled home Gurney and Urquidi scored on another big error.

Ontario did not get untracked until the seventh inning, when starter and winner Mike Breslin (4-5) was chased by a three-run uprising.

Tom Bessett and Dave Crowe singled and Neal Weeks doubled them both in and scored himself on an error.

Ontario scored another run in the eighth on Crowe's fourth hit of the game and left the tying run at third base in the ninth inning when reliever Don Pierce got the final out on a pop up.

Salazar and Kizziar each finished the game with two hits for Montclair, now 10-11 overall and 6-7 in conference play after four straight conference wins.

La Verne jumped off to a 4-0 lead after two innings but saw Anaheim score twice in the eight and final inning of a game called by darkness, giving the visitors a 5-4 victory.

An error, a balk, a walk and a passed ball put Anaheimers at second and third before a bloop single brought home the tying and winning runs.

Ron Pickinpaugh hit a two-run homer for Post 330 in the first inning and a third run scored when Paul Richards walked, stole second and third and raced home on Bill Bumstead's single.

The final La Verne run scored in the second inning when Curt Burkhart tripled home Richards, who had walked again.

Anaheim scored three runs in the top of the third — two of them on a line drive single off the forehead of starting pitcher Burkhart, who suffered a bump on the head and a headache but was able to finish the game on the mound and in right field. Ralph Ortega relieved Burkhart in the fifth inning and suffered the loss, his first in two decisions.

La Verne, 23-10, will send Dave Drury (5-1) against Arcadia Post 247 at Arcadia County Park tonight at 7. Montclair will meet Claremont in a non-league game Thursday at Pomona College at 5:30 p.m.

Seals' move near fruition

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Mel Swig, co-owner of the apparently Cleveland-bound California Seals, will be in Chicago tonight at a meeting of the National Hockey League's Finance Committtee to try to consummate the franchise shift.

The Coliseum got a new owner Tuesday in Washington's Sanford Greenberg. Greenberg announced that he signed a tentative lease with the Seals because he wants to fill the arena with excitement.

Swig's meeting could help bring Greenberg's dreams to fruition. Swig signed a five-year, no option lease with the new Coliseum brass over the weekend, and believes that he can now satisfy the demands of the committee that rejected him several weeks ago.

Finance committee acceptance will guarantee the advent of NHL hockey to Cleveland, since the Board of Governor's has already approved the switched pending finance committee acceptance.

Diamond Bar wins B.L. championship

Diamond Bar number 2 made five hits count for nine runs and a 9-3 win over Glendora South Hills Tuesday night to win the Big League championship.

Diamond Bar under Clint Park finished the second half of the season with a 9-2 record and compiled a 16-4 mark for the season.

Winning pitcher Butch Long struck out nine and walked only one. Except for the fourth inning, he kept Glendora from scoring.

The winners picked up a run in the second without benefit of a hit. Two walks and the error did the trick. Two more runs were added with one hit in the third. Mark Stanley singled off the top of the left field fence for the only hit of the inning.

What turned out to be the winning run scored in the fifth on a hit, walk, stolen base and wild pitch. Ken Wilson's two-run homer in the fifth iced the game. A walk, two stolen bases and another wild pitch accounted for the third run of the stanza.

An error, walk, double steal and another error gave Diamond Bar its final two runs in the seventh.

Glendora scored all its runs in the fourth inning on two singles, a wild pitch and a two-run home run by Dick Sorina.

Sr. Division teams open tourney action

Post-season baseball play begins Thursday for the valley's Little League Senior Division (ages 13-15) teams.

District 20 action begins Thursday evening with four games scheduled at Pomona's Ralph Welch Park while two contests will open District 23 action at Ontario's John Galvin Park Monday night.

In both cases, the tournaments are double-elimination events.

The championship game in District 20 will be on either Friday, July 23, or Saturday, July 24, depending on how the tournament goes while the District 23 title game is slated for Saturday, July 24.

District 20 will use both diamonds at Ralph Welch Park.

KNX lands SC football

LOS ANGELES — USC football returns to KNX radio (1070) this year after a nine-year absence.

Tom Kelly, "voice" of Trojan football, will do the play-by-play. Columnist Bud Tucker will again supply the color.

KNX formerly broadcast USC football for 10 years, from 1957 to 1967. First game of the season is Saturday, Sept. 11 at 7:30 p.m. against Missouri.

Cooke keeps seeking coach

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lakers' owner Jack Kent Cooke apparently is shopping around for a new coach for his National Basketball Association team, but in the meantime he doesn't want to lose the services of Bill Sharman, who's guided the team for the past five years.

Minutes before Sharman's five-year contract with the Lakers was to expire, Cooke announced that he had "agreed in principle to a multi-year contract employing Sharman as an executive in the Laker organization."

That announcement made just before midnight Monday means that, if Cooke hires another coach, Sharman will move into an executive suite in the Forum. If Cooke cannot come up with a coach he prefers over Sharman, then Sharman will once again be down on the floor running the team.

Sharman, who's apparently highly respected by Cooke, said he was happy to have the chance to stay with the Lakers, whether as coach or executive.

"I'd always hoped," Sharman said, "that as long as I was involved in professional basketball that it would be with the Lakers. Therefore I'm happy that my future is now tied so tightly with the Laker family."

The question of Sharman's longevity with the Lakers arose in the last two years when the team failed to make the playoffs for the first time in their history in Los Angeles.

The Lakers were 40-42 last season, improving 10 games from the 1974-75 season, but still fell just shy of making the playoffs. Cooke was quoted as being upset with his team's performance, especially in view of his big deal in which he acquired Kareem Abdul-Jabbar for four players.

Sharman, however, has been a very successful pro coach after an 11-year career as a player in the NBA, the last ten years with the Boston Celtics.

He broke into coaching with the old American Basketball League, coached later at Los Angeles State and in the American Basketball Association and won the NBA's Western Division title as coach of the San Francisco Warriors in 1966-67.

Sharman took over for Joe Mullaney five years ago and began to win almost immediately. His 1971-72 team set an all-time pro sports record for consecutive victories, 33, and the squad that season won Los Angeles' only NBA title.

As a player, Sharman teamed with Bob Cousy to give the Boston Celtics one of pro basketball's all-time great backcourts. He led the Celtics in free throw shooting for ten seasons and his lifetime foul shooting percentage of .883 was an NRA record for a decade.

His 56 consecutive free throws stood from the 1958-59 season until this year and he had a career scoring average of 17.8 points per game which is still No. 5 on the all-time Boston list.

Africans may ask blacks for support

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Black American Olympics entrants are to be asked today to follow various black African countries in withdrawing from the games, says The Sacramento Bee.

The Bee quoted an anonymous source Tuesday as saying black Africans would approach the American blacks "individually in an attempt to promote the pullout."

"A traumatic political experience" could result, the source said.

The Bee said the requests, in Montreal, would come from representatives of about 30 countries in the "Supreme Council For Sports."

The request would be "to follow Tanzania's lead and follow the black African countries in pulling out...."

The reference to Tanzania meant that country's protest against the New Zealand rugby team's tour of South Africa just after 170 Africans were killed in Soweto race riots.

The Bee said the countries protesting against segregation are "such places as Algeria, Cameroon, Chad, Andorra, People's Republic of Congo, Antigua, Ethiopia and the Ivory Coast. They are supported by delegations from Nigeria, Morocco, Mali, Kuwait, Kenya, Zambia, Uganda, Zaire, Tanzania, Senegal, Sudan, Swaziland and others."

Said the source, who asked to remain unnamed: "If the most powerful nations — Kenya, Nigeria and Ethiopia, those who've had success in the Olympics — decide to boycott, all the black Africa teams will follow.

"It nearly happened at the Munich Olympics when Africa protested Rhodesians being allowed in the Village and IOC President Avery Brundage labeled it 'blackmail' at the services for the murdered Israelis."

Eight years ago in Mexico City, The Bee said, a black student from San Jose State University, Harry Edwards, tried to promote a protest against prejudice toward blacks in the United States.

The Bee said that resulted in Tommie Smith and John Carlos, who placed first and third in the 200-meter dash, wearing black gloves and bowing their heads while on the victory stand.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS CALLING FOR BIDS

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Trustees of the WALNUT VALLEY UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT of Los Angeles County, hereinafter referred to as the "District", will receive up to, but no later than 11:00 A.M. of the 22nd day of July 1976, sealed bids for the award of a contract for the RELOCATION OF EXISTING RELOCATABLE BUILDINGS FROM VEJAR ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, WALNUT, CALIFORNIA; AND CASTLE ROCK ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, DIAMOND BAR, CALIFORNIA; TO WALNUT HIGH SCHOOL, WALNUT, CALIFORNIA; including all appurtenant work. Such bids shall be received in Conference Room No. 1 at the District Administration Center, 476 S. Lemon Road, Walnut, California 91789; and shall be opened and publicly read aloud at the above stated time.

Each bid must conform and be responsive to the contract documents. Copies of the contract documents are now on file and open to public inspection in the said offices of the District and of Davis-Duahime Associates, Architects, 2031 E. Cerritos, Suite H, Anaheim, California, and may be obtained at the office of the Architect.

Each bid shall be accompanied by the security referred to in the contract documents and a list of proposed subcontractors.

All bids shall be made on the bid form furnished by the District.

The District reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any irregularities or informalities in any bid or in the bidding.

The District has determined the general prevailing rate of hourly wages in the locality in which this work is to be performed for each craft or type of workman needed to execute a contract, which will be awarded to the successful bidder or bidders, to be as listed below:

Any classification not anticipated and below listed shall be paid at the current wage rates for the applicable trade and classification in effect with the Building & Construction Trades Councils. If any rates listed below are not current or are revised by labor agreements during the bidding time or construction time, such revisions shall be considered a part of the below listed rates.

Overtime shall be paid for work performed in excess of the regular day's work and at the rate for overtime of the craft involved.

It's a Racquet

THEIR SCHEDULE MAY SEEM somewhat of a nightmare but 12 junior players definitely won't be asleep the night of July 23-24. Instead, they'll be putting their fondness for tennis to use in the fight against cancer.

The 12 will gather at the Claremont Tennis Club at 8 a.m. July 23 and for the next 24 hours all will be playing doubles continuously on three courts set aside for their marathon. Their only breaks will be five-minute rest periods each hour and a 15-minute pause for dinner.

Tennis is fun, and all that, but the youngsters, all ranging in age from 15 to 18, are committing themselves to the event with a higher purpose in mind. Each will solicit pledges from relatives, friends and the general public for contributions per hour of play. All the money will go to the American Cancer Society's Northeast Los Angeles County Unit.

Fifteen-year-old Steve Norin of Claremont is chairman of the marathon as well as one of the participants and his brother Scott, 13, is co-chairman. The cancer society has endorsed the project in memory of their grandmother, Violet Kauffmann, who died last month of cancer.

As a child star under the name of Violet Wilkey, Mrs. Kauffmann performed in "Birth of a Nation" and other movies of that era.

Besides Steve Norin, other combatants on the Claremont courts — partners will switch around and scores will be tallied — will be Ken Lindberg, Mark Christian, Gregg Betts, Bob Conner, Tai Martin, Eric Gosswiller, Mike Leos, Pete Mabie, Randy Mason, Robin Su and Pam Papa. McDonald's Restaurants and Winchell's Donut House will provide food for the players, while the Sportsman will furnish the tennis balls. The Norins can be reached at 626-0602.

SPEAKING OF TENNIS GRINDS' the finalists in the San Jose Hills Racquet Club's mixed doubles event last Saturday must have ended up feeling they'd had the game up to their Adam's apple. Here was the format for the "Guys and Dolls Superstars" competition at Mt. San Antonio College:

To start with, the 48 entrants were dispersed to six courts, four men, four women to each court. They played through four rounds of eight-game contests, switching partners for each round. At the end of that phase, the man and woman with the best records from each court teamed up for a play-off series against other champs. By the time Reno Frigo and Heidi Kirkland defeated Claro Guico and Joyce Shaffer, 5-3, in the finale, seven hours had elapsed since play began at 8 a.m. Of course, that time included a lunch provided under the entry fee.

CLAREMONT TENNIS CLUB will have that long awaited handball-racquet ball building by November. Club general partner Stan Clark announced the start of construction this month by Alco Corp. of San Diego, specialists in this type of work at a site south of the club's swimming pool and children's play area.

The half-million-dollar stucco building will be the first major handball-racquetball facility in the valley, Clark says, and its 19,000 square feet will be a catch-all for these uses: 10 paneled courts, pro and snack shops, a lounge with glass viewing window for the championship court, a completely equipped exercise room and men's and women's locker rooms, each with steam bath, dry sauna and hydrotherapy pool. Although the building will be predominately one story, a second floor viewing area will overlook each of the courts.

VALLEY RACQUET CLUB has a new pair of mixed doubles front-runners. Bob and Sue Haag moved up from the No. 2 spot on the club's ladder by beating the leaders, Nancy Smith and Mike Ashbrook.

Meanwhile, in last Thursday's mixed-up doubles competition Lou Wright and Don Smith were the winners, with Bob Haag and Bunny Luce sharing the consolation title The Claremont club hosted a Red Hill Country Club team in an informal match last Saturday, Red Hill winning 10-5.

"POT OF GOLD" references to the $125,000 prize money for this year's Pacific Southwest Open are out. "Black Gold" is in. Atlantic Richfield Co. has agreed to sponsor Sourthern California's most distinguished tournament in this, the event's Golden Anniversary year. But the oil company's support means a slight name change. The ARCO Pacific Southwest Open will run from Sept. 18 to 27 at UCLA, where it moved last year from the Los Angeles Tennis Club. Fifty years ago, Bill Tilden won the first Pacific Southwest and other past winners have included Ellsworth Vines, Fred Perry, Don Budge, Jack Kramer, Pancho Gonzales, Rod Laver, Jimmy Connors and last year's champion, Arthur Ashe.

The Southern California Tennis Association, which is presenting the event along with the UCLA Alumni Association, will use tournament proceeds to develop tennis in the area.

CHRIS EVENT and the Phoenix Racquets will make their final regular season appearance at the Forum tonight against the Los Angeles Strings. On Friday night, Ilie Nastase is scheduled for his first Forum performance with the Hawaii Leis. Starting times are 8 p.m.

THAT TV BUBBLE apparently will soon burst. The networks are saying that ratings don't justify all the tennis programming, hence, the net sport will feel the ax next year. Up to this point, though, it's been some kind of spree. Sports Illustrated reported recently that tennis in 1971 was alloted only 30 hours of air time, only two per cent of the sports total. Now it's 13 per cent of the sports air time for 225 hours. And the number of events on TV has increased from seven to 70 in the five years.

But Carl Lindemann, head of NBC sports, told and affiliates convention in Los Angeles: "It becomes obvious that the earlier glowing predictions for tennis as a television attraction are not being realized. We will be cutting back substantially in 1977." And this recently from Clarence Cross, director of sports for CBS: "The days of tennis by the ton are over. We love tennis and make money with it, but the number of tournaments and overlapping of them confuse viewers."

O.K., so tennis fans are players, not watchers. Even so, one wonders what kind of a mass audience NBC expected by showing the World Team Tennis all-star match last Saturday night at 11:30. Only the insomniacs were still eyeing the tube until 3 a.m. when the West finally pulled out its super tie-breaker, 28-27 victory.

Old motorcycles to be displayed

The grace and craftsmanship of old-time motorcycles will be on display Sunday at Ontario Motor Speedway in the West Coast-East Coast Roadracing Association's Motorcycle Fair and Antique Motorcycle Show.

Motorcycles have a rich and varied history largely unknown to the general public. For example, the first motorcycles were built, experimentally, way back in the 1890's. And right at the turn-of-the-century, 1900 in fact, the first Indian was manufactured in Springfield, Massachusetts, when the whole country was raising its eyebrows over Henry Ford's Model A.

Back in those good old days, the only American "moto-cycles" were Indian and Harley. The Harley was nicknamed the "Milwaukee Tremor" because it shook so much. And the Indian was dubbed the "Prince Albert can" due to its resemblance to a popular tin of tobacco that was colored red, just like the bike.

Also on display at the Antique Show Sunday will be "Classic" Vincents. Antiques are motorcycles produced prior to 1928. Classics are bikes produced after that time that are no longer manufactured. Two Englishmen joined their creative juices in 1929 to design and build a machine far ahead of its time. The "Vincent H.R.D.," named after its engineers — H.R. Davies and Vincent — averaged 120 m.p.h. when other motorcycles of the day had to strain to make 100 m.p.h.

'Cycle race set at OMS

West Coast-East Coast Roadracing Association (W/ERA) is hot to make motorcycle roadracing a prime spectator sport in California as it is in Europe. W/ERA is sanctioning its premier Pro-Am National road race and — as an extra added attraction — Motorcycle Fair Antique Motorcycle Show Saturday and Sunday at Ontario Motor Speedway.

The W/ERA event is the only national road race to be held this year at Ontario.

Though only two years old, the Philadelphia-based racing organization found good reception to the sport in the east; so good, in fact, that a year ago it added the "W" when it decided to go national. The W/ERA battle at Ontario kicks off a series of Nationals scheduled throughout the year in Indianapolis, Missouri, Sebring, Las Vegas and Texas.

According to Dr. Peter Frank, a physician-roadracer and president of W/ERA, the emphasis in motorcycling has been traditionally on dirt track racing, leaving road racing behind "as a poor second cousin with second-class status." He pointed out that of 40 scheduled races put on by the American Motorcycle Association (AMA), only four will be national road races. "W/ERA, though still in its infancy, has lined up six national road races," Frank stated.

Better than 300 amateur and professional roadracers are expected to "burn their fairings" trying to give it their best shot at Ontario, because it is the points qualifier for the Texas Grand Finale National in December.

Dr. Frank said he feels that the major factory teams unfairly dominate the sport, and usually garner "up to 90% of the purse." This is one of the primary reasons W/ERA is stressing the pro-am aspect of road racing in its attempt to "open up" the sport to the individual competitors.

Pursuing further that objective, the roadracing organization has taken out ads in several large motorcycle publications that say: "Race More With W/ERA," which reflect a different style of putting on a road race: classes have been simplified and streamlined; starts have been made more like short bursts; number of heats per class have been increased; and most importantly, W/ERA pays prize money in more positions. The first ten in each final will win money.

W/ERA is furnishing a guaranteed purse of $1,200. More interestingly, W/ERA is directly involving the motorcycle manufacturers by selling them display booth space at Ontario in order to fatten the purse. Total prize money is at $3,250. to date, and still climbing.

The Motorcycle Fair concept, complete with swap meet and antique show, is designed to attract the spectator as well as die-hard enthusiast.

Skip Manning is top NASCAR rookie

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Consistency has helped put Skip Manning of Bogalusa, La., out front in the race for rookie-of-the-year honors on the grand national circuit of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Manning has entered 14 races, missing only the two at Riverside, Calif., and has 273 points toward the $10,000 NASCAR prize.

Neil Bonnett of Hueytown, Ala., is second at 153. But he's entered only seven races and can catch up with more competition and a few good finishes.

Other rookies in the running for the honor are Jimmy Means of Huntsville, Ala., with 127 points, Terry Bivins of Shawnee, Kan., 114; Darrell Bryant of Thomasville, N.C., 113; Baxter Price of Monroe, N.C., 78, and John Utsman of Bluff City, Tenn., 74.

Half million for Ron Lee

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — A source in Eugene says former University of Oregon basketball star Ron Lee will receive $475,000 for signing a five-year contract with the Phoenix Suns of the National Basketball Association.

Radio station KUGN, which broadcasts the university's football and basketball games, reported the terms of the contract Monday.

The station quoted a reliable source as saying Lee's no-cut contract provides an $85,000 salary the first year and $5,000 pay raises each year after that.

Lee was the Suns' top draft pick. The 6-foot-4 guard is the all-time leading scorer in the Pacific-8 Conference and the only player ever to be named to the all-conference team four years in a row.

Lee signed the contract last week. Terms were not announced at that time.

Hospital is offering sports symposium

LOS ANGELES — Coaches and trainers who work with youthful athletes will learn how to protect young team members during a special program to be held at Orthopaedic Hospital, Friday, July 23, and Saturday, July 24.

Presented primarily by physicians who specialize in treating sports-related injuries, Orthopaedic Hospital's Sports Medicine Symposium is conducted annually and consists of slides, lectures, films and demonstrations. The program is designed to teach athletic personnel working with young people how to prevent injuries through proper conditioning and training, and how to recognize and cope with injuries

Over 200 southern California high school and junior college coaches and trainers, school nurses, and non-school-affiliated coaches from YMCAs, Little League and Pop Warner teams are expected to attend the symposium this year. Sponsored by the hospital, the Sports Medicine Symposium is under the direction of J. Harold LaBriola, M.D., and Sonny P. Cobble, M.D., who conduct a weekly sports injury clinic at the non-profit specialty hospital. Dr. LaBriola is also orthopaedic consultant to the USC Athletic Department.

Speakers this year include: Frank W. Jobe, M.D., team orthopaedist, L.A. Dodgers; Philip H. McFarland, M.D., team physician at Fullerton Jr. College and orthopaedic consultant to Cal State Fullerton; Vic Braden, tennis coach at The Vic Braden Tennis College; Richard Llewellyn, athletic director, Los Angeles Athletic Club; Tony Russo, athletic trainer, Citrus College and head trainer for the L.A. Times Indoor Games and the 1968 U.S. Olympic Track Team.

Other speakers are: Roger Katz, M.D., pediatrician who will talk about athletics and the asthmatic child; Charles R. Ashworth, M.D., orthopaedist with practice limited to hand injuries; Peter Dyck, M.D., neurosurgeon, who will discuss head and neck injuries; James Kleckner, M.D., ophthamologist, who will discuss eye injuries; William S. Stryker, M.D., orthopaedist, who will cover fractures, and Robert K. Gustafson, M.D., orthopaedist, will discuss spinal curvature problems in young athletes.

Special guest at the symposium will be Orthopaedic Hospital founder Charles LeRoy Lowman, M.D., who was a basketball and horseback riding coach while attending medical school in the early 1900s. Dr. Lowman was one of the first orthopaedists to take an interest in preventing injuries through proper conditioning.

The symposium, scheduled for all day Friday, July 23, and half a day on Saturday, July 24, will be held in the hospital's Andrew Norman Memorial Hall, 2400 S. Flower St., Los Angeles. There is no registration fee, but reservations are required due to limited space. Optional graduate credit will be available from McPherson College. Two semester units will be available at $26.50 per unit.

Reservations may be made by calling the hospital (213) 747-4481, ext. 504.

'Sparks from Eden'

New drama bows in L.A.

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

"Sparks from Eden," an intriguing and thought-provoking two-actor play, was given its world premiere last weekend at the tiny Century City Playhouse in Los Angeles.

The comedy-drama will be repeated at 8:30 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and July 22-25. Reservations can be made at (213) 696-9635.

"Sparks from Eden" was written by Linda de Vries, former head of the La Verne College drama department and one-time theater instructor at Pomona College. She also directs. The cast is made up of Rose Portillo and Ron Robertson, former students of Mrs. De Vries at Pomona College.

The play is "a celebration of the mystery of man and woman based on the writings of Jung," Mrs. De Vries says. It is presented in song, dance, ritual, mime and fantasy. In their quest for answers to "Who am I?" and "Who are we?" the two characters slip into mythology and history, becoming at intervals Adam and Eve, Lancelot and Guinevere, Helen and Paris, Isis and Osiris, Orpheus and Eurydice and others.

Miss Portillo and Robertson are two superb young actors who respond intimately and intelligently, move like dancers and project images of warmth and reality. They also sing pleasantly the ballads that stud the script — "Are You There?" "Alone and Waiting," "Lament for Her" and others. The accompaniment is provided by the tasteful guitar work of Pomona College student Scott Wilbur.

"Sparks from Eden" is thoughtful, imaginative and continually interesting. It is in need of tightening, running overlong and occasionally becoming repetitious. It also would benefit from more humor, though some brief, bawdy scenes are very amusing.

Century City Playhouse is at 10508 W. Pico Blvd.

Starlite books VCTeens

VCTeens, the youth auxiliary of Valley Community Theater, will present its current play, "Story Theater," at the Starlite Patio Theater, Montclair Civic Center, at 8 p.m. Tuesday. Admission is free.

"Story Theater" is a stage adaptation of well known tales taken from Grimm's fairy tales and Aesop's fables. The stories, adapted in a variety of styles from ancient to modern, include "The Bremen Town Musicians," "The Robber Bridegroom," "Henny Penny," "Fisherman and his Wife" and "The Golden Goose."

Directed by Kevin Whitaker, the cast includes Laurel Dove, Cathy Kirby, Steve Spencer, Kevin Whitaker, Diana York, Norman Gee, Sherry Lyons and Jeff Zupan.

BIG BOUNCER — One of the corps of clowns does a high-flying pratfall in the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, opening Tuesday at the Forum in Inglewood. The 29-performance engagement runs through Aug. 4. Tickets are on sale at the boxoffice and mutual agencies.

Met star set at H'wood Bowl

Metropolitan Opera soprano Judith Blegen will be soloist in concerts at the Hollywood Bowl at 8:30 Friday and Saturday nights. Eugene Ormandy will conduct the Los Angeles Philharmonic.

About Miss Blegen, the New York Post said: "She has a voice like a sky full of stars on a summer night. It glows with warmth, evenness and security." The New York Times wrote: "She has everything: beauty of tone, grace of ornamentation, sureness of musical instinct, conviction of personality." And the London Times calls her "deliciously vivacious, beautifully-rounded in tone and alert of phrase, and outrageously pretty."

Miss Blegen will sing the arias "Vorrei spiegarvi, o Dio," and "L'amero saro costante" from "Il re Pastore" by Mozart; the Laughing Song and Audition Aria from "Die Fledermaus" by Johann Strauss, and "Da Draussen im Duftenden Garten" (Out in the Fragrant Garden) from "A Waltz Dream" by Oscar Straus.

Ormandy, ending his week-long bowl engagement, will lead the orchestra in two major works: Mozart's Symphony No. 35 ("Haffner"), and Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony; and also in two Johann Strauss pieces — Overture to "Die Fledermaus" and "Tales from the Vienna Woods."

'Norman, Is That You?'

Red Foxx to star in film

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — "Norman, Is That You?" has had a curious history on the stage, and it may have an even more curious history on screen.

When it first opened on Broadway, it was a loud flop. But it has managed to catch on in various revivals around the country and has done well. Presumably, that's because it is slightly risque — it deals with homosexuality in a comedic way — and because it has a small cast and one set and is therefore inexpensive to produce.

Currently, a screen version of "Norman" is now before the Hollywood cameras. It is being produced and directed by George Schlatter, the man who helped make Laugh-In the huge success it was. This is Schlatter's first film.

He says he saw the play seven years ago, liked it, felt it would make a good movie, and bought the property then. But, at the time, he was too busy with TV to do anything but sign the check and feel good about the transaction.

His thought, then, was to make it with George C. Scott in the leading role — a father who discovers his son is a homosexual — and Scott liked the idea. But they never could work out a schedule to do it; when Scott was free, Schlatter wasn't and vice versa.

ALL SMILES — Comedian Red Foxx, left, and Mike Warren, former UCLA basketball star, take a break on the set of "Norman, Is That You?" now filming in Hollywood. The comedy also stars Pearl Bailey. The director is George Schlatter.

Schlatter says he always knew he would make it someday, and further, it would have to be made in the summer.

"I can make more money," he says, "doing television in the television season. So I'd have to make 'Norman' during the TV hiatus period. The only way doing this movie can earn me more money than I make on TV is if it goes through the roof, and I know what the odds are against that."

During this past TV season, he happened one Sunday evening to catch Redd Foxx when he was a guest with Cher on her CBS show, before she reteamed with Sonny. Redd did a dramatic reading which impressed Schlatter. He had a bright idea — why not integrate "Norman"?

He showed his script to Foxx who liked it, and thought it would make an interesting film. Schlatter next showed it to Pearl Bailey, with the idea of her playing Foxx' wife in the film.

"She was retired," Schlatter said, "but she liked it and quickly unretired."

The play seemed to transfer easily from being an all-white affair, as it had always been done, to being part-black. Now, in Schlatter's version, Norman and his family are black but Norman's "roommate" is white.

"The fact that Norman and his folks are black really doesn't matter at all," Schlatter says. "What we have here isn't a racial story, it's a comedy about people. And, actually, our cast is really a mixture — we have whites, blacks, Mexicans, Orientals, straights, gays, everything."

Despite the homosexual theme, it really isn't a picture about homosexuals at all. The result, Schlatter says, is that it "will be a PG-picture, because I wanted to make a movie I could take my daughter to see."

He feels strongly that there should be such films.

"You know," he says, "not everybody uses that four-letter word. I know the word — I know them all and I've used them all and even invented some new ones — but I don't always use them. There are times when I speak very nicely, and there should be movies when people speak nicely, too."

Besides Foxx and Miss Bailey, the cast also has Mike Warren, the ex-UCLA basketball star, as their son, and a young actor named Dennis Dugan as the roommate.

Dugan says to be careful and put only one "G" in his last name — "One G, about the same as the money I'm making."

For Redd Foxx, this is only his second movie and his first starring role. He had a cameo in "Cotton Comes To Harlem" which he describes as "a small thing — not much of a part and not much money, either."

On the set, he is sitting with his legs raised, delivering some off-camera lines. Schlatter and the others are solicitous of his legs, which have been bothering him, as a result of an old football injury.

In the past, Foxx says, he turned down a number of film offers because they were generally in black exploitation pictures. He says he didn't want any part of that, but he likes "Norman" and thinks it could become a classic, like "Sounder."

"I'm not playing Sanford again," he says. "I've clipped my moustache, shaved off my goatee, dyed my hair white. But it's hard, after playing Sanford for seven years, to be someone else."

He says he'll play Sanford for one more year, then switch to ABC. He believes what he'll do there, although it isn't yet absolutely certain, will be to front a variety show.

Chaffey plans mime program

Mirror Mime Troupe No. 1, a group of six theater arts majors at Chaffey College, will present "A-Way with Words" in the Little Theater at 8 p.m. Friday. Tickets are $1.

Bette Raya, a member of the company, wrote the show and will direct it. A mime artist in her own right, she formed the group some months ago when she decided to get more persons into the act and come up with a highly diversified performance. She is a resident of Cucamonga.

"A-Way with Words" is a mixture of pantomime and illusions, a demonstration of the creativity and inventiveness of Mirror Mime Troupe No. 1.

Other members of the company are Jack Davis, Carl Johnson, Jeff Tobin, Judy McKelvey and Dawn Smith, Fontana.

Reservations may be made by calling the box office, 987-1745 or the college, 987-1737, Ext. 322.

MOTOWN MIRACLES — Al Green and The Miracles will perform at the Universal Amphitheater in Los Angeles at 8:15 p.m. July 22-24. The group, specializing in Detroit's Motown sound, has been recording for 18 years. Sharing the stage with the group will be English-born rock artist, David Mason. Roberta Flack and Jose Felliciano will appear at the amphitheater July 27 and 28.

Owens laughs at Hollywood

LOS ANGELES (AP) — New York TV types speak of Hollywood as a bronzed bin of sun-addled actors flim-flam artists, truss adjusters and no claim to sanity. But I grew up here and it never seemed crazy.

But just in case, when I hit town I called Gary Owens, the hand-on-the-ear announcer of the old "Laugh-In" show, to ask if Hollywood is the same stable community I knew as a tyke.

"Yes, indeed," he said. "It's still the same swell town. It's still true that underneath all this phony tinsel there's real tinsel."

Owens, a native of Mitchell, S.D., is what you'd call a veteran Hollywood observer. He came here 15 years ago, breaking in as a writer and voice on Jay Ward's "Bullwinkle" cartoon show.

A top personality at radio station KMPC here for nearly 14 years, he currently is hosting the nighttime version of a syndicated effort called "The Gong Show," scheduled to start on the tube in September.

In the show, a celebrity panel passes judgment on fresh new talent, some of which may strike viewers as unusual, Owens says.

"Our first show, for example, has a man dressed in a tire," he noted. "He pours chocolate syrup under his arms, puts spaghetti on his shoulders and stands before a magnifying glass and talks."

Nothing unusual there.

Veteran Hollywood observer Owens said other forms of activity here haven't changed much from the old days. TV and movie stars still meet at places like the Brown Derby and Polo Lounge to fib and seek work.

And the kids and geriatrics still are out on Sunset Boulevard, hawking maps to the homes of the stars.

"The kid on my block sells maps to the homes of movie extras," said Owens, marvelling at the lad's ingenuity. "For a slight additional fee, he shows where the extras milled about in an elevator scene."

He said although the stars don't appear in public as much as in past years, they do turn out by the droves to watch and appear in celebrity baseball games hosted by the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I usually announce those things and they let me play the last inning," he added.

Without insurance?

"No problem," the announcer intoned. "My voice is insured by Lloyd's of Tijuana."

Some sartorial changes have occurred in Hollywood, he said. The men here have taken to wearing hats, which in sunny Southern California used to be as common as a door buzzer on a tomb.

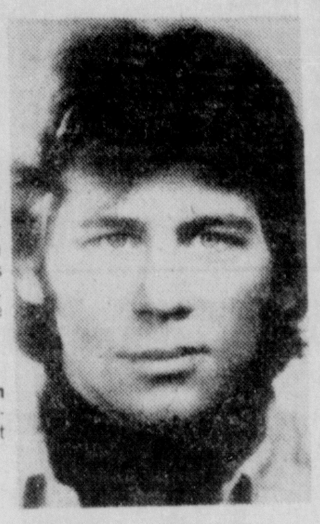
And because of shows like "Kojak," in which Telly Savalas wears a vest, vests are very big here now, Owens continued.

"I've always worn a vest, so I feel the world is catching up with me now," he said. "Of course, I don't wear anything else ..."

The veteran Hollywood observer mused for a minute when asked if he had any advice for the newcomer to the community.

"Well," he finally said, "don't ever sit and have breakfast with the Six Million Dollar Man. When he gets hiccups, garage doors open and close all over town."

SINGING AT MSAC — The Lyric Assembly will present concerts at 9:15 and 10:15 a.m. Monday through July 23 on the lawn of the Mt. San Antonio College art center. Also on the program is the Aman Folk Ensemble. The presentations are part of the Hollywood Bowl Open House. Admission is free.



BARRY BOSTWICK, two-time Tony Award nominee, stars in "The Robber Bridegroom," opening Thursday at the Forum of the Los Angeles Music Center. The musical also stars Rhonda Coullet.

FedMart Steel Belted Radial Tire Limited Warranty

FedMart warrants its FedMart steel belted radial tires for 40,000 miles, when used in normal family passenger car service. If you do not receive the total miles specified because your tire becomes unserviceable due to failure relating to the material or workmanship, normal road hazards or tread wearout: we will, upon return of tire, give you a refund on the proportion of the then current selling price, including all taxes, representing mileage not received. Nail punctures will be repaired at no charge
